NATIONAL CHAIRMAN SELECTED BY DAVIS SAID TO BE SHAVER

Choice Is Made After Many Conferences, but Announcement Is Deferred.

CAMPAIGN BOARD PROBABLE

Manager, Who Will Direct Operations, May Not Be the Head of the National Committee.

CANDIDATE DROPS BUSINESS

Resigns From His Law Firm and From Directorates of Bank and Two Corporations.

Although John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President, returned to his home in Locust Valley yesterday afternoon without announcing his selection for a Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, it was learned that the selection had been made. Clem L. Shaver of West Virginia, formerly Chairman of the Democratic State Committee of that State and an active worker for Mr. Davis's nomination both this year and in 1920, was reported to be the man chosen.

Whether there will be a separate campaign manager was said to be as yet undetermined. It was said that there was almost certain to be a Campaign Committee of the Democratic National Committee and that it had not been decided whether the Chairman of this Campaign Committee would be the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The exact plan of campaign organization was said to be another matter yet to be determined. The most likely scheme was said to be the establishment of national headquarters at Washington, D. C., with branch or regional headquarters at New York, Chicago and other convenient points in the country, including San Francisco or some other city on the Pacific Coast.

Rockwell Offers Aid.

Thomas J. Spellacy of Connecticut, who supported Governor Smith for the nomination, was said to be under consideration for a prominent part in the campaign. It was said that Mr. Spellacy might be selected to take charge of the New York headquarters. David Lamb Rockwell, who was campaign manager for William G. McAdoo, notified some of Mr. Davis's friends that he would be pleased to give any help he could during the campaign.

It was said to be practically certain that both George White of Ohio, formerly Democratic National Chairman, and Frank L. Polk, law partner of Mr. Davis, would take an active part in the campaign. They are close friends of Mr. Davis and probably will be on the Campaign Committee.

To leave himself free to devote to the campaign all his time from now until election, Mr. Davis has severed all his business and legal connections. The announcement was embodied in a formal statement which Mr. Davis handed to newspaper reporters at the home of Mr. Polk, 6 East Sixty-eighth Street, where he has made his headquarters since his nomination until the opening of headquarters at the Murray Hill Hotel yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Davis's Statement.

The statement which Mr. Davis gave out, without comment, follows:

"Mr. Davis announced today that in order to give his entire, undivided attention to the campaign he has decided to sever all of his legal and business connections. His partners were notified accordingly of his withdrawal from the firm of Stetson, Jennings, Russell & Davis, and among other employments surrendered was that of general counsel for The Associated Press.

"At the same time he resigned the only directorates held by him, namely, those in the United States Rubber Company, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railway and the National Bank of Commerce in New York."

Mr. Davis arrived at the home of Mr. Polk from his home at Locust Valley at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and plunged vigorously into his campaign work. His first caller was Charles Dana Gibson, who will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Davis at his Summer home at Ilesboro, Me. Mr. and Mrs. Davis will be the only guests and the Democratic nominee is expected to write most of his acceptance speech there. Mr. Davis will leave for Maine Friday evening at 7 o'clock and will be gone for at least ten days.

Silzer Commends Shaver.

Other callers during the day in addition to Mr. Shaver and Mr. White were David F. Houston, former Secretary of the Treasury; Alfred Lucking of Detroit, National Committeeman from Michigan; General John F. O'Ryan, Jesse H. Jones of Houston, Texas; Charles R. Crane; Gordon Auchincloss, son-in-law of Colonel Edward M. House, and Norman H. Davis, former Under-Secretary of State.

Governor George S. Silzer of New Jersey called at the Polk home a little after noon and had luncheon with the nominee. "I called at the invitation of Mr. Davis for a conference on organization matters and campaign issues, a discussion of which will be included in his speech of acceptance," Governor Silzer said in reply to questions on leaving the Polk home.

Asked whether Mr. Shaver was Mr. Davis's choice for National Chairman, Governor Silzer replied:

"You know they never had a Democratic Governor in West Virginia until Mr. Shaver took hold down there. He is a man of excellent judgment, and the more I come in contact with him the more I am impressed with his good sense."

Will Shift Mexican Generals To End Political Scheming

MEXICO CITY, July 16 (Associated Press).—The Mexican Government today took an important decision to the effect that no military commander in any section of the republic should remain in office permanently, but that all such commanders should interchange offices frequently.

The step, it is understood, is aimed at preventing the development of political machines, which are said to have been largely responsible for the last revolution.

WHEELER BOLTS THE DAVIS TICKET

Montana Senator Declares He Will Support La Follette for President.

OBJECTS TO "WALL STREET"

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana bolted the Democratic ticket this afternoon, announcing at the same time that he would support Senator La Follette for President.

This is the first important defection from the Democratic ranks and serves to complicate the Democratic situation in the Northwest, where the radical progressive forces are said to have many recruits and where Senator Wheeler has influence in farm and labor councils.

"I cannot consistently support John W. Davis for President," said Senator Wheeler, "but, on the other hand, I can consistently support Senator La Follette and shall do so.

"When the Democratic Party goes to Wall Street for its candidate I must refuse to go with it. The nomination of Mr. Davis was brought about in the hope it would make possible a big campaign fund, and as a result of this nomination the Democratic Party, in my opinion, has forfeited any right it may have to the support of the progressive Democrats of the country."

Mr. Wheeler declared he would not accept the second place on the La Follette ticket if it were offered to him.

Senator Wheeler said he would support his colleague, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who is running for re-election to the Senate, and also would do what he could to help elect the Democratic ticket in Montana. He stands ready to support Senator Borah in Idaho, Senator Norris in Nebraska, Senator Brookhart in Iowa and other candidates whom he describes as representative of the progressive thought of the country.

Reverting to the Democratic nominee for President, Senator Wheeler declared that, no matter how many progressive speeches Mr. Davis made, he would not be able to overcome the "Morgan" handicap.

"What kind of a run do you expect Senator La Follette to make in the Northwest?" Mr. Wheeler was asked.

"In my opinion," he replied, "Senator La Follette will sweep that part of the country, and he is going to surprise a lot of people in other parts of the country, too."

The La Follette supporters are expecting other prominent men in each of the old parties to follow the example of Mr. Wheeler. Senators Brookhart, Norris, Ladd and Frazier are among the expected "deserters" from the Republican ranks, and there is considerable talk about the possible defection of Senator Dill of Washington, of the La Follette Democratic group.

Another Senator whose course is being watched is Hiram Johnson of California. To date he has remained silent. It is common knowledge that the Californian is out of sympathy with the Coolidge policies, and it is recalled that he stood with Senator La Follette in opposing the Mellon tax plan. He opposed the President's World Court and immigration policies and voted to override the bonus veto.

BUTLER TO REPORT REPUBLICAN FUNDS BIWEEKLY TO BORAH

"LIMITATION" NOT FIXED

Chairman Says It Will Be "Reasonable"—Aid From Corporations Is Barred.

$50,000 ON HAND JULY 1

Manager of Eastern Fighting Base to Be Named This Week—Hilles Cast for Leading Role.

Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican National Committee announced yesterday that the committee would make full report at regular intervals of fifteen days throughout the coming campaign of all moneys contributed to its campaign fund to the special committee appointed by the United States Senate to investigate and report on campaign contributions.

This is a new departure. In other years of a Presidential election reports of campaign contributions and expenditures have been made under the provisions of the Corrupt Practices act, subsequent to the general election.

In making his announcement Chairman Butler made public correspondence which had passed between himself and United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, Chairman of the Senate committee. Senator Borah, in a letter addressed to Mr. Butler several days ago, asked him if he would report to the committee on the status of the National Committee's finances, how much it was proposed to collect and spend in the national campaign, and what plan had been adopted for collecting the funds necessary to supply the needs of the National Committee. He asked also what limitations, if any, it was proposed to place on the amount of individual contributions to the campaign.

Mr. Butler, in his reply, said that he would cooperate in every way with Senator Borah's committee and would gladly comply with his request that periodical reports be made regarding the amount of money collected for the campaign. He said the National Committee proposed to place a "reasonable" limitation on the size of contributions to the Coolidge campaign, but did not in this connection give any figure.

Text of Borah's Letter.

The letter from Senator Borah to Mr. Butler follows:

"My dear Mr. Butler: During the closing hours of the Congress the Senate passed a resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee to investigate and report to the Senate upon campaign expenditures made by and on behalf of, or in support of, or in opposition to, any and all candidates for President and Vice President and Presidential electors and Senators of the United States.

"A committee was duly appointed under this resolution, and as Chairman of said committee and by authority of the committee I am addressing this letter to you. A similar letter will be sent to each Chairman of each party as soon as the same is appointed or elected.

"The committee would be pleased to be advised:

"1. Of the amount of money which your committee had on hand July 1, 1924.

"2. Of your system or plan (as soon as same is determined) for raising funds to meet the expenses of the coming campaign.

"3. The amount which it is proposed to raise and expend in the election of your ticket in the coming election.

"4. The limit, if any, which it is proposed by your committee to place upon the amount which any individual, corporation or firm may be permitted to contribute.

"5. We would be glad to have also whether your committee would be willing to make a report to this committee every ten days beginning with Sept. 1, 1924, of the amount of funds collected, the names of the contributors and their addresses, and what, if any, official position the contributor holds.

"6. We would be glad to have also any facts coming to the knowledge of

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, July 16.—Eamon de Valera and Austin Stack were released from Arbor Hill Barracks at 7 o'clock this evening. The order for their release was signed by President Cosgrave yesterday. There was no demonstration of any kind as they left their prison mates, although their release was not altogether unexpected.

It is stated that others will be released in the next twenty-four hours.

The excitement in Republican circles over the release of de Valera exceeds all bounds. It is received in other circles with relief, and the release of Stack enhances that feeling.

Stack's name was mentioned earlier in the day in connection with the application by Stephen O'Mara, a defendant in the Dail funds case, and the Court ruled that Stack should be allowed to give evidence.

The release of the Republican chieftain is expected to make for the success of the Tailteann (Irish Olympic) games. It was feared that they would be a fiasco if the leading political prisoners were not set free, and President Cosgrave's statement yesterday that he would make a pronouncement on the subject next week presaged a disastrous situation.

Apparently the influence of J. J. Walsh, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs and Director of the Tailteann games, and that of public opinion operated with the President, who hitherto had been adamant to pleas in behalf of the prisoners.

DUBLIN, July 16 (Associated Press).—Eamon de Valera and Austin Stack, leaders of the Irish Republicans, were released from Arbor Hill Barracks this evening.

None of the forty-four Republican Deputies returned in the last elections for the Dail Eireann has yet taken his seat and there is much speculation as to whether the release of de Valera will lead these men to reconsider their attitude. De Valera's health is said to be good; he devoted his enforced leisure to mathematical studies, especially of the Einstein theory.

Fly Over the City All Night To Show Airways Are Safe

To demonstrate that the airways of the Port of New York can be used in safety during the hours of darkness a sustained night flight was made by Lieutenant James T. Hutchinson, accompanied by Master Sergeant C. L. Kilhefter of the Fifth Pursuit Squadron, U. S. A., Mitchel Field, commencing at 10:40 Tuesday night. The fliers remained up until 6:30 yesterday morning, and their De Haviland plane consumed 118 gallons of gasoline. They kept at an average altitude of 4,000 feet and maintained a speed between 55 and 65 miles per hour.

They flew over Long Island and this city, keeping in the paths used by planes entering and leaving the various flying fields in the vicinity. Major J. N. Hensley, commandant at Mitchel Field, said he was well satisfied with the result of the flight.

CITY EMPLOYES HELD IN BOY MURDER CASE

QUESTIONED THREE HOURS

Francis McDonnell's Mother and Neighbors Will Try to Identify Men Today.

Two employes of the Sea View Hospital at New Dorp, S. I., were arrested late last night as a result of the investigation into the murder of 8-year-old Francis McDonnell, son of a New York policeman, in the woods of Port Richmond, S. I., on Monday afternoon.

The prisoners are "Sergeant" Clyde Patterson, 42 years old, an orderly, and Jacob Gottlieb, 18 years old, a kitchen helper. Gottlieb and two other orderlies at the hospital were questioned for three hours last night in the office of District Attorney Albert C. Fach of Richmond County. As a result of their stories, Gottlieb was detained and detectives were sent to the hospital to get Patterson.

When Patterson was taken to Police Headquarters shortly after midnight, he was confronted with Jacob Stern, a neighbor of the McDonnells. Stern was the last person to see Francis.

Stern failed to identify Patterson as the man he saw near by when Francis entered the woods. According to Stern, the man he saw at the edge of the woods was at least 30 years old.

Attempt to Identify Men Today.

District Attorney Fach, however, ordered Patterson and Gottlieb to be held over night and arraigned in court this morning. When the prisoners are arraigned, Mr. Fach said, he will have the boy's mother, brother and several playmates, all of whom saw Francis with "an elderly man" shortly before he disappeared into the woods, to see if they can identify Patterson.

Patterson and Gottlieb were held on collateral charges growing out of Gottlieb's statement to the prosecutor. Mr. Fach said that Gottlieb informed him that he and Patterson belonged to a certain group of employes at the hospital, which is a city institution about two miles from the scene of the murder. This group, according to Gottlieb, frequented a place called "Rattlesnake Nest," a part of the woods in which the body of the McDonnell boy was found.

The District Attorney also announced that he was looking for two orderlies at the Sea View Hospital who were discharged last Saturday. He said that they belonged to the "Rattlesnake Nest" group and had been discharged because of conduct similar to that which led to the murder of the McDonnell boy.

It is now believed that two or more men may have been implicated in the death of the boy. Raisins found in his stomach indicated that they may have been offered in order to lure him into the woods. He had had nothing to eat with raisins in it at home.

While the man seen with Francis just before he entered the woods was described as "elderly" different witnesses said 50, 55 or 60—District Attorney Fach said that he was convinced that the man who actually committed the crime was a younger man.

Mr. Fach based this theory on the results of the autopsy performed in the Port Richmond morgue yesterday by Dr. George Mord, Assistant Medical Examiner, in charge of Richmond County, in the presence of Dr. Charles Norris, Chief Medical Examiner, other physicians, detectives and officials.

The District Attorney and the medical examiners agreed that the condition of the body showed that a beating had been administered to the boy by his assailant which would have been beyond the power of any ordinary man of fifty or more. They asserted that the autopsy was extremely important in that it eliminated from suspicion any old man or any inmate of the Sea View Hospital or the adjoining poor farm, another city institution.

"This murder was committed by a man in the prime of life," said the District Attorney. "I should say the murderer was between 17 and 40 years old."

Autopsy on the Boy.

An autopsy left no doubt that the murder was the work of an abnormal man who strangled the child in order to keep him from calling for help.

Dr. Mord, said that the primmipal cause of death was strangulation, caused by the murder making a

HUGE CROWD CHEERS OUR WORLD FLIERS LANDING IN BRITAIN

LONDON, July 16.—Amid cheers from a large crowd on the Croydon aviation field and lining fences leading to it, the American Army round-the-world fliers landed there today after a pleasant flight of three hours from Paris. They were tired, not so much with today's trip as with their arduous work at the beginning of their flight.

They were looking fit and are expectant of a rest at Brough Aerodrome, where they will fit their machines with pontoons. They hope to start from there in about eight days and reach New York about Aug. 15.

A distinguished gathering had come to meet the aviators. Ambassador Kellogg was kept away by the international conference, but sent Counselor E. A. Sterling to represent him, and he was accompanied from the American Embassy by Colonel Joyce, Military Attaché; Major H. C. Davidson, Air Attaché, and Captain Hussey, Naval Attaché. The British Air Ministry was represented by General Brankar, V. C., Air Marshal; Sir Geoffrey Salmon and Commanders Webb, Bowen, Longcroft and Dowding.

Crowd Makes Rush at Onyxes.

It was known that the Americans had left Paris at 10:55 A. M. and they were expected about 1:30 P. M., but it was a quarter of an hour later when the keen-sighted among the spectators reported a speck over the hills to the south. It gradually grew nearer, and then against the white clouds it was seen that five machines were flying. The first of them was a Heavy Handley-Page and a little behind it came three of the Americans, roughly in a spear-shaped formation, while some distance away on their right was a small airplane which flew back and forth toward them.

The Handley-Page was one of the commercial London-Paris service machines which had been taken as a pilot by the Americans and was comparatively slower, which accounted for their being half an hour behind time. The small aircraft was a French plane that had been chartered by a moving-picture company to record this lap of the historic flight.

As they got over the aerodrome the Americans bore away to their right and circled in column formation. Then, almost unexpectedly, the Chicago, with Lieutenant Smith and the squadron commander, Lieutenant Arnold aboard, made a landing. As it taxied across the open space attendants seized it and brought it to rest opposite the hangars. Lieutenants Smith and Arnold sat quietly in their cockpits while the crowd made a wild rush toward them. From behind the railings a great cheer went up, but the fliers seemed as cool as if such a scene was an everyday occurrence.

A formal, official welcome was out of the question. Counselor Sterling and the British official committee were swamped in the dash toward the machine, and for a moment all was confusion. But a minute or two later came the Boston, with Lieutenant Wade and Staff Sergeant Ogden and just behind the New Orleans with Lieutenants Nelson and Harding. A few meters were cleared and then a way was made through the crowd for Mrs. MacLaren, wife of the English world flyer, who is now in the Kurile Islands.

Mrs. MacLaren Thanks Americans.

She came to greet Lieutenant Smith and his comrades and to give them her thanks for the sporting things they had done to help her husband. He would be still stranded in China if the Americans had not rushed to him by a destroyer a spare machine to take the place of his badly damaged plane. Right of way was given to Mrs. MacLaren, and she was introduced to the Americans and photographed with them.

All else was confusion. When the aviators climbed out of their machines they were surrounded by a crowd which cornered them between propellers and

PRESENCE OF AMERICANS CHEERS ALLIES AS LONDON CONFERENCE ON DAWES PLAN OPENS WITH A WARNING BY MACDONALD

Nationalists Threaten Drive at Chancellor Marx If London Conference Goes Against Germany

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 16.—If Germany gets nothing out of the London conference the German Nationalists will demand the resignation of Chancellor Marx, according to well-founded rumors circulating here today. He will be succeeded as Chancellor, rumor has it, by Herr Wallraff of the Nationalist Party, now President of the Reichstag.

It is further said that the Foreign Minister, Dr. Stresemann, will not fall with Marx, but will be retained in the new Government to be formed. This sounds plausible in view of the fact that Stresemann and the Right wing of the German People's Party, to which he belongs, have often shown a distinct leaning toward the Nationalists.

Two other members of the present Cabinet who, according to these same rumors, will be retained are the Minister of the Interior, Herr Jarres, and the Finance Minister, Herr Luther.

The reason why the Nationalists will demand the head of Marx if the London conference is fruitless for Germany is that in his recent important speech to representatives of the press here he clearly stated that Germany had unconditionally accepted the Dawes report as it stood, and that the Allies must do likewise. Therefore, if the Allies alter the terms of the report at London, the German Nationalists argue, Marx's position as head of the German Government will be untenable.

The Nationalists are already busy lobbying to obtain a Reichstag majority to insure the downfall of Marx in case the conference disappoints German hopes.

JUDGE MAYER QUITS TO ENTER LAW FIRM

Resigns From Circuit Court of Appeals to Join Warfield & Watson.

SALARY WAS A FACTOR

A Close Friend Says "Inadequacy" Was a "Secondary Consideration" in His Decision.

Judge Julius M. Mayer of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Southern District of New York, who has handled many cases of nation-wide interest, sent his resignation to Washington yesterday, to take effect Aug. 1. Announcement to this effect was made in the Federal Building by Judge Mayer.

On Aug. 1, the Judge announced, he will become a member of the firm of Warfield & Watson, patent attorneys, with offices at 61 Broadway and 247 Park Avenue. When he joins the firm, it will be known as Mayer, Warfield & Watson and Judge Mayer will be the senior member. The Judge made a simple announcement of these two facts and would not comment on his action. A close friend of his, however, who has known for some time the move the Judge was contemplating, made this statement:

"The inadequacy of the salaries of Federal Judges was a secondary consideration in Judge Mayer's conclusion to resign. For some ten years he has borne the brunt of the important receiverships caused either by war or post-war conditions. This together with his regular work has made the judicial life very confined. He is of a highly active temperament, is in vigorous health and believes that he can be of greater service in the active practice of the law than in remaining on the bench as an Appellate Judge.

"The traditions of the bench foreclose a Judge from engaging in many useful activities which may be participated in by private citizens, and he long has cherished the hope of being able to regain the independence of action and expression which is largely denied to a Judge.

Favors Higher Salaries.

"He feels also that the salaries of the United States Circuit and District Judges, which are less than the salary accorded to a Municipal Court Judge, work injustice to the Federal Judges throughout the country, and, owing to the increased costs of living, make it more and more difficult for Judges to remain on the Federal bench. He hopes to cooperate actively with those who are endeavoring to bring this subject acutely to the attention of Congress at its next session."

When Judge Mayer leaves the bench there will be a vacancy for President

MAJ. M'LEARY SLAIN; ONE ROBBER CAUGHT

He Confesses That a Companion Helped Him in Murder of Army Officer.

HE GAVE THEM LIFT IN AUTO

Woman Who Saw Trio in North Carolina Gave Clue That Aided in Solving Tragedy.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 16.—Major Samuel H. McLeary, missing army officer, was killed by Mortimer H. King, living near Canton, S. C., and a companion, whose identity is still unrevealed by the authorities, on the afternoon of July 2, says a sworn confession made at Canton late today by King. A search is being conducted for the body of the officer, which is sai dto be hidden in the brush about ten miles from Cheraw, S. C.

The motive for the killing, says the confession, was robbery. After the Major had taken King and his companion into his car to give them a lift, they compelled him to stop at the point of a pistol, forced him to get out of the car, shot him to death and carried his body into the brush.

Stripping the body of its valuables, the confession continues, the two men returned to the car and drove it to Asheville, going then toward Canton. They were unable, however, to cross Crab Tree Mountain, near Canton, and returning to the thicket section, where the car was ditched unintentionally, they hid Major McCleary's belongings, removed the license tags from the machine and fled, King going to his home.

Major Samuel H. McLeary of the Coast Artillery Corps, left Norfolk, Va., alone in a touring car on the morning of July 1, for Fort Moultrie, S. C.

He was last heard from at Raleigh, N. C., at 11:15 A. M., on the following day when he sent a telegram to a bank at Hampton, Va., to forward money to him in care of the Jefferson Hotel, Columbia, S. C. The money was sent but was later returned unclaimed, it being stated at the Jefferson Hotel that Major McLeary did not register there nor did he call for the money or leave any instructions regarding it.

Ten days later a touring car was found near Canton, S. C., which was identified by the authorities as the one in which the missing army officer had left Norfolk. In the machine were a uniform with the Major's name and two suit cases.

On her arrival at Norfolk at Norfolk on Tuesday, Mrs. Edward Allen, who has just completed a trip from Florida in an automobile truck with her three children told of seeing three men in a touring car on the highway in Halifax County, N. C., on the afternoon of July 2. She said one of the men who was dressed in the uniform of an army officer, he appeared to be in a dazed or senseless condition.

"He was wedged in the front seat between a red-headed man with a scar on his face and a negro whose face was so black that it shone," she said.

She then told of seeing the two men carry a large bundle into the woods on a detour on the Raleigh-Columbia Highway.

"The bundle was as long as three yellows," she said. "It was wrapped in blue cloth that looked like sateen. The white man took one end beneath his arm and the negro took the other end in his two hands and they carried it out into the woods. They didn't stay long."

Mrs. Allen did not hear of Major McLeary's disappearance until she reached Norfolk, when she at once told what she knew to the authorities who were conducting the search for the missing officer.

KELLOGG'S PLEA FOR REPORT

Says America Will Regard Its Adoption as First Great Rehabilitation Step.

COMMITTEES GET TO WORK

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 16.—With high hopes raised by the presence of the American Ambassador, Frank B. Kellogg, and Colonel James A. Logan Jr., the American observer with the Reparation Commission, the Interallied Conference convoked to deal with the experts' report on reparations opened at the Foreign Office this morning.

These hopes, expressed in word, in gesture and demeanor, during and after the proceedings, by many of the twenty-one delegates representing the nine nations in Europe directly interested in reparations, were not, however, untempered by anxiety over the gravity of the problems confronting the conference in view of the admittedly wide divergency of the British and French views.

Prime Minister MacDonald, who on the proposal of Premier Herriot, seconded by Premier Theunis, was unanimously chosen President of the conference, indicated this anxiety when in his address of welcome to the delegates he reminded them that the reparation experts had warned that their report must be taken as a whole.

"Whoever has studied it carefully," he added, "will come to the same conclusion. We must not try to alter its details or we shall be back in the disagreements where we have been so often before. Attempts to find agreement on small things of meticulous interest will always fail."

Proceedings Opened by MacDonald.

The delegates sat at a horseshoe table, Ramsay MacDonald being in the centre with three other British representatives alongside, Premier Herriot and three other Frenchmen being seated to the right and the two American observers sitting to the left of the British. Italy, Japan, Portugal, Greece, Rumania and the Serb-Croat-Slovene Kingdom were represented, the first mentioned two by special delegates and the remaining three by their envoys resident in London.

The British Prime Minister opened the proceedings with an address of welcome to the "representatives of the nations that fought by our side while the war was raging and that now share with us the responsibility of bringing peace and security to Europe."

"The after-war problems," he said, "have been many and intricate, and it was in the nature of things that we could not always see eye to eye regarding them. But every time we have disagreed we have had fresh proof of the imperative necessity of unity if our victory is really to make Europe safe for either the large powers or small nationalities.

"Reparations have been among the most difficult economic problems resulting from the war, and a committee of experts was appointed to explore the whole problem. In April that committee gave a report which not only by its ability but by its unanimity placed an imperative obligation upon all of us to put it into operation without delay.

"We have hitherto been pursuing a policy which has not only failed to yield the expected reparations, but which has led, as a consequence, to unsettlement of the minds of the people concerned, the growth of aggressive militarism, and a strengthening of a fear which has overshadowed all sense of security. The nations have been looking out upon no hopeful dawning of a peaceful day, but into a gray prospect of threatening danger.

"It is our duty to end this, to try and seize this new opportunity to create happier prospects. I do not minimize the difficulties of our task, but on the other hand I hope I do not minimize the sincerity of our desire to overcome them.

Report Must Be Taken as a Whole.

"In some of its proposals the report may be debatable. But we have been warned by the experts that it must be taken as a whole, and whoever has studied it carefully will come to the same conclusion. We must not try to alter its details or we shall be back in the disagreements where we have been so often before. Attempts to find agreement on small things of meticulous interest will always fail.

"The report demands not only sacrifices from Germany but from us. We must give it a chance. We must adapt our measures so as to create the conditions under which we have seen that the plan will work, and of these, of those two seen absolutely essential, the first is that the economic and political unity of Germany shall be restored, the second that adequate security shall be given to the creditors who lend it.

Lady Pirrie May Head Harland & Wolff, The Great British Shipbuilding Firm

LONDON, July 16.—It is the general belief in shipping circles that Lady Pirrie will assume the post of President of the great shipbuilding firm of Harland & Wolff, of which the late Lord Pirrie was Chairman. She has long taken a close and practical interest in its affairs, and it is recalled that Lord Pirrie on various occasions publicly paid tribute to the help he had received throughout his career from her. She went with him on his last visit to South America, and was known to have assisted him at all times greatly.

Immediately after the news of the death of Lord Pirrie was received the view was commonly expressed in well-informed quarters that by his wish an important post in the organization of Harland & Wolff would be assumed by his widow.

Lord Pirrie, who designed the White Star liner Oceanic, in her time the biggest steamship in the world, used to give his wife credit for many of the features of that vessel. It was she who, when her husband was contemplating standing for Parliament, induced him to abstain from politics and devote all his talents to shipbuilding.

asked to advance a very large loan, which is the basis of the plan.

"The mechanism by which this is to be done presents some difficulties, but I am certain they can be overcome and that we can write as the final word of our deliberations here that word which has for so long been absent from our conclusions—the word 'Success.'

"The method by which the experts did their work may be studied by ourselves. The Dawes committee drew a sharp distinction between economic and political considerations and concentrated on the former. The first sentence of the conclusions of the report itself gives the key to the situation. 'We have approached our task as business men,' the experts say, 'anxious to obtain effective results.' Can we do better, gentlemen, than discuss the application of this report in the same spirit as that in which it was conceived?

"We should begin by putting aside all questions other than the pure and simple application of the report itself. We must not complicate matters by connecting it with extraneous subjects. The fatal habit of connecting one question with another has been much responsible for the failure to solve any of them in the past. We should go step by step, isolating each question as far as possible and solving it before going on to the next.

"The Dawes report is not in itself the final solution of all our war problems, but let us clear the ground first by putting the Dawes scheme into execution. After that I am ready to seek a solution with you on other subjects. The fairness of the Dawes scheme, its impartiality and balance, have received universal recognition. It is a practical, scientific work executed in good faith in the light of facts as they are.

The Prime Minister then summarized the aims of the Dawes report, quoting the summary with which the report was prefaced and pointing out that it was also in Germany's own interest to carry out the plan, which offered the only hope for Germany of climbing out of the financial morass into which she had almost irretrievably sunk.

No Security Without Unity.

After some references to the financial points of the Dawes report Mr. MacDonald said:

"If our best intentions are to be fulfilled we must have unity. Has any one contemplated the lamentable consequences of disagreement? Without unity there can be no security; without security there can be no peace. Unity, however, cannot be reached unless upon an agreement which commands the intelligent and moral assent of the nations. Can our interest and our conceptions of political wisdom be coordinated into an agreement? I believe they can, and heavy will be the responsibility of any one who does not strive with might and main to arrive at such an agreement."

Ambassador Kellogg in replying assured the conference that the American delegates were animated by the same spirit of helpfulness and cooperation as their allied colleagues. He emphasized that making the Davis plan effective would be regarded by the American Government and people as the first great step towards the stabilization of Europe.

Premier Herriot with much feeling thanked Prime Minister MacDonald for his "noble utterances." All the delegates, he doubted not, were equally imbued with love of country and love of peace. He recognized that apparent difficulties confronted the conference, but he was convinced these could be overcome and that the interests of the various peoples concerned could be amicably conciliated.

After brief speeches by the Italian, Japanese and Belgian delegates the British Prime Minister expressed his thanks for the honor extended to him by invitation of the French Premier, supported by Belgian Premier Theunis, to preside over the conference, which he hoped would be more than historical. "I hope," he said, "it will be a great example of how men of good-will, even if divided slightly by interests, can by putting their good-will first prove to the world and their own countries that they can be good friends of peace without sacrificing any of the vital interests of the nations to which they belong."

After the speeches it was decided to form a secretariat, of which Sir Maurice Hankey was put in charge. Each delegation will appoint a secretary to serve upon this body.

Three Committees Appointed.

The question of procedure was then raised and Mr. MacDonald suggested that the Franco-British memorandum of July 9 should be taken as a basis and three committees were appointed.

The first is to deal with the problem of German default; to decide what body is to adjudicate upon whether Germany shall have defaulted under the Dawes scheme and in that case what measures are to be taken.

The second committee will consider the best way of restoring German economic and fiscal unity as postulated by the Dawes committee.

The third will deal with the methods of transferring German payments from the receiving body in Berlin to the creditor countries.

The first committee is obviously faced with the stiffest task. The United States has definitely refused to join the Reparation Commission, so that solution is already ruled out. It is understood that Owen D. Young, who served on the Dawes committee, will probably be invited to accept the post of Agent for Reparation Payments, instituted by the Dawes scheme. [Advices from Paris on Tuesday that Mr. Young had already accepted were premature, though it is believed he has been sounded in the matter.]

The task of the second committee has already been greatly simplified by the resolutions passed by the Reparation Commission in Paris on Tuesday night defining what specific actions constitute putting into operation the Dawes report.

There was a short and sharp discussion upon the composition of the various committees. M. Titulescu of Rumania, on behalf of the smaller States, protested that their proposed representation was inadequate, but he was reassured by Mr. MacDonald.

The morning session ended shortly after 1 o'clock. The three committees were to have begun their work in the afternoon and there was some hope that they might be able to report to the conference tomorrow. There was, however, some delay in selecting the members of these committees, and it was not until 5 o'clock in the afternoon that they met. They sat for two hours, and will meet again tomorrow morning. If they are ready with their reports by tomorrow afternoon a plenary meeting of the conference will be called, otherwise not.

Colonel James A. Logan Jr. sat on the first committee and is understood to have stated that the United States Government made no objection to the proposal that an American citizen should take the post of agent for reparation payments. A discussion ensued as to what body should make this appointment. A vote will be taken tomorrow, the choice seeming to lie between the Reparation Commission and The Hague International Court, which is understood to be favored by the American observers. M. de Peretti de la Rocca is the French representative on this committee and he is believed to have put forward a project for application of sanctions in the event of German default. Considerable advance was made in the study of this project.

Anxiety Mingles With Optimism.

While the mot d'ordre in official circles here, both British and American, is that the conference opened with good augaries, many anxieties are expressed. The tone of the Paris press and dispatches sent from here by French journalists is not auspicious. The London Times editorially says:

"The conference met in an atmosphere of good-will and anxiety. It is characteristic of M. Herriot that he gave free rein to his own hopeful temperament. There are, indeed, certain grounds for confidence and chief of them is that every member of the conference has clearly in mind the disastrous consequences of failure.

"It is useless to disguise the fact that the main difficulty lies in an important difference of opinion between the two Powers who are responsible for convening the conference. Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot are friends and on most subjects they think alike. That is an asset but experience has shown that M. Herriot has to take very strict account of a strong body of French opinion which has no sympathy with his personal views. The vote of the Senate which supported him also binds him. These divergent tendencies of French and British opinion, which have checked progress hitherto, are still active in and around the present conference."

Welcome to American Delegates.

LONDON, July 16 (Associated Press).—Prime Minister MacDonald, in the course of his speech opening the international conference today addressed Ambassador Kellogg as follows:

"I wish to extend a special welcome to the American representatives. I know they are not here as full delegates. The position in American politics prevents that. But they are here as evidence of cooperation and good-will. America was a great partner of ours in the days when we were at war; her mind illuminated the report which brought us here together.

"We shall ask her, not as a Government, but as a people with many resources and with good hearts, to take a share in the financial schemes which will have to be put into operation if there is to be a speedy reconstruction of Europe.

"Moreover, as a spectator withdrawn a little from the feelings and emotions which stir in us Europeans, she may be able at critical points to help us with views and with a calmer judgment than those of us who are in the midst of wrecks and dangers may be able sometimes to command. We welcome our American friends most heartily to the conference."

Members of the other delegations likewise voiced the view that the presence of the Americans was likely materially to aid in bringing about an allied agreement that would make the Dawes plan workable, thereby placing reparations on a sane and reasonable basis satisfactory to the Allies and acceptable to Germany.

M. Herriot in his address said:

"Mr. Prime Minister:

"I shall certainly be voicing the views of the delegates here assembled when I thank you for the noble words you have just uttered. Each one of us, the representatives whom you have invited here, realizes the seriousness of the duty we are here to fulfill.

"The question is to reconcile the interests of peoples who have had to suffer equally and for a long time through an atrocious war with the necessity of restoring peace, for which we all ought to aim. The task which awaits us is extremely difficult, and I wonder whether in history there has been a more difficult one to confront the representatives of the Governments.

"But each and all will bring here the love of his country we are representing and the love we feel for peace. We shall all work as much as may be necessary in order to reach a solution. And we also are particularly glad, like you, Mr. Prime Minister, to see here our good friends from the United States."

Kellogg Explains His Position.

Mr. Kellogg, in replying to Prime Minister MacDonald's speech of welcome, said:

"Mr. Prime Minister and the Prime Minister of France, gentlemen of the conference:

"In behalf of my colleagues and myself I desire to thank the Prime Ministers of those two great countries for their generous welcome to the delegates of the United States to this most important conference. It is true, we do not come in the same capacity or with the same powers as the other delegates, because we are not parties to the Versailles Treaty, or sanctions now in force, but we come in the same spirit and desire to be helpful.

"It is not our desire to urge unduly any country to adopt a policy which they believe is economically and politically not for their interests, but, rather, if we can from our position to be helpful in trying to solve the greatest economic problem which has faced Europe in generations.

"I shall not take up your time on problems the discussion of which should first come from the allied countries more directly interested. But the necessity for something being done was recognized by the Reparations Commission and the Governments interested in the appointment of the so-called Dawes Committee.

"I have the honor of knowing some of these gentlemen. They are all men of responsibility and experience. I know that the American members are men of the highest ability, experience and character. I believe that all of them approached the subject in a broad and liberal spirit, intending to be fair and to recognize the rights of all countries and, above all, to consider the subject apart from the political views of any of the countries except where it was necessary to consider them, but especially to consider the subject from an economic and business aspect. I believe they have done it; they have spent months in the consideration of it.

"Has any one a better plan? I can say simply that my Government and the people of the United States believe that the adoption of the Dawes report is the first great step toward the rehabilitation of Europe, the stabilization of its industries and the prosperity and happiness of the people."

After the conclusion of the opening session, a member of the French delegation said there could be no minimizing of the fact that as the conference opened, the English and French points of view were widely divergent on such fundamental questions as the extent to which Germany would participate in the conference; the powers of the Reparation Commission and the manner in which the sanctions would be applied in the event that Germany defaulted her obligations under the Dawes scheme.

Tremendous as these issues were, their solution, he said, would be easier now that both England and France were assured of the full cooperation of the American Ambassador to Great Britain.

The high hopes which the appearance of the American Ambassador has raised among all the delegations emphasizes the importance of the role which Mr. Kellogg may be called upon to assume in the critical stages which must be passed if the Dawes report is to become an instrument for solving Europe's woes. For, although the conference has been launched in a spirit of optimism, clouds may gather on the horizon almost without warning, and then it is that the United States will have to muster every resource of strength and tact if the conference is to be kept off the rocks.

The British dominions tomorrow will probably add their delegates to the conference, the question of dominion representation having been the first misunderstanding to occur in relation to the conference. Negotiations have been proceeding between the Colonial Office and the various dominion representatives in London, and it is understood that the question has been settled to the satisfaction of Ireland and Canada, which demanded a representative of their own if they were to be bound by the conference's decisions.

FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF MACLAREN

Japanese Destroyers Search in Vain, but British Officials Believe He Is Safe.

TOKIO, July 17 (Associated Press).—Japanese destroyers have not yet found any trace of A. Stuart MacLaren, the British aviator, and his companions, who left Yetorofu Island early yesterday morning for Paramashiru Island, Kuriles, a flight of 450 miles.

British officials, however, do not believe the aviators are in any danger. It is thought possible that they may have landed at Broughton Bay, Shimushiru Island, one of the smaller of the Kurile group, about half way between Yetorofu and Paramashiru.

Lieutenant Colonel L. G. Broome, who blazed the trail for Maclaren and who accompanied him on his present flight, laid a supply base at Broughton Bay in case of necessity.

The Japanese destroyer Isokaze has searched as far north as Shimushiru without finding any trace of the aviators. The destroyer Hamkaze, which was awaiting Maclaren at Paramashiru, is making a search of the Kuriles from the north.

Officers of the destroyers report that the weather is cloudy, but there is no wind.

CLIMBER APPRAISES EVEREST PORTERS

VICTIMS OF SUPERSTITION

By LIEUT. COL. E. F. NORTON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BONGSHAR VALLEY, June 24.—The following account of the Sherpa and Bhotia porters has been written by Captain Geoffrey Bruce:

"A gay and motley throng of hillmen assembled to greet us at Darjeeling on our march, all eager to take part in the expedition to Everest. News had preceded us that we would require about seventy suitable men. Here there were 350, at least, mostly Sherpas and Bhotias, but among them could be seen Limbus of East Nepal, Lepchas of the deep valleys of Sikkim and wild-looking men of the Northern Provinces of Tibet.

"It was quite certain that money alone could not be the chief attraction to many of them, who, to my knowledge, would earn better wages by sticking to their jobs in and around Darjeeling than by following the fortunes of the expedition through Tibet to the mountains. There was no motive with most of them other than sheer love of adventure, which, coupled with their light-hearted, carefree manner, makes the hillmen of these parts such attractive people.

"To those of us responsible for their selection it was a difficult task picking out the best with nothing but appearance to go by. Appearance is proverbially deceptive, and to that rule the hillmen are no exception. We were mainly guided in selection by the principle of taking men obviously of good breeding and of slight though well-proportioned build in preference to bulkier and at first sight more impressive-looking giants. For the moral is more important than the physical when attempting to scale Everest.

Smallest Porters Did Best.

"On the whole, the selected amply justified themselves, and it was especially noticeable how the porters who went highest up the mountain were all very much of a type—smallish, little and trim—while all the bigger men seemed to fade away lower down.

"When we left Darjeeling the porter corps consisted of seventy men, of whom about half were Sherpas and half Bhotias. The Sherpas are natives of the southern slopes of the main Himalayan chain and the Bhotias of the Tibetan plateau to the north of the range. Both speak Tibetan as their mother tongue. Except one Gurkha, who acted as cook to the Gurkha non-commissioned officers, no other clans were represented in the corps, all others being eliminated in the process of selection.

"The five weeks' trek to the Rongbuk base camp was spent in getting the men well nourished and in the best possible physical condition before the work on the mountain began. In 1922, they were given no loads to carry, and they always had the best food, clothing and tent accommodation. The policy was amply repaid, for on our arrival at the base camp not a man was sick. This period of camping and marching across Tibet had the further advantage of affording unique opportunities of observing the porters collectively and individually, especially with a view to earmarking those likely to go high later.

A Simple, Affectionate People.

"As a people they have many virtues, being simple, hard-working and cheerful. When once they get to know sahibs they are loyal and affectionate. Among themselves they are generous, always ready to give a helping hand to one in need; but, for all that, they are not saints, and to ascribe to them qualities purely angelic would be a grave error. We observed no signs of angels' wings sprouting on any of them, not even on the backs of Norbu Yshay or Lobsang, who so gallantly led little parties to Camp No. 6 at 27,000 feet.

"Further, I am convinced that butter will melt in their mouths. I have occasionally known other delicacies not to be found in the scale of a porter's rations also melt away in mysterious fashion; but, given opportunity, the bottle is apt to prove a very serious source of trouble, though I must say in fairness to them that since we left Darjeeling names of drunkenness were happily few and far between. On the return journey, however, it is futile to expect such a high standard of good behavior and the radiance of the sahib's eye will undoubtedly prevail before Darjeeling is reached and the porters are finally paid-off.

"But these are characteristics of which we were already aware from our experience of the expeditions of 1921 and 1922. Then the porters were never really up against hardship for a prolonged period and were never asked to go on making continuous efforts in face of extreme weather conditions and acute bodily discomfort. In neither of those years were the men subjected to the terrific, searching tests that this expedition has undergone. These tests, of a nature unnecessarily severe, enabled us unerringly to separate the sheep from the goats. The faces so doubtfully scanned at Darjeeling six weeks before now read like a book.

"Townsee, who till now seemed to value himself above his comrades and give himself airs, fades into the background. The real natural leaders stand out and the others fall into their proper places. Until a trial such as was imposed on us by the mountain elements takes place the true form and value of the Sherpa and Bhotia porter are most deceptive to gauge. At first the endurance in carrying capacity of all of them appears amazing. They go gaily along with a big load, showing little or no signs of tiring, long after we would have thought it impossible for them to continue.

The Porters' Breaking Point.

"But it is not so astonishing, really, when one reflects that they had carried huge loads daily from childhood upward, always in steep places and frequently at altitudes up to 19,000 feet. It has become natural to them to walk loaded thus. Until the real test is made all appear equally good. There is little or no indication how big a margin of strength and determination is left. This year's experience tended to prove that in nine cases out of ten they reach their limit without previous warning and then become utterly hors de combat. Once the limit is reached, whether on account of wind, cold, fatigue or sickness, a man will not come again to any hard work at high altitudes in that season.

"Seeing men suddenly fall in this way is a bitterly disappointing and exasperating sight. There is only one factor capable of delaying and postponing to some extent this collapse, and that is the presence of a sahib who may by influence and personality succeed in urging a man to further efforts before the crash comes. Once he has given in, I do not believe anything can set him going again. The limit has been reached for him and there is nothing beyond. The Sherpa and Bhotia porter at one moment ceases to be an object of admiration and sinks to that lowest level to which the Oriental is wont to sink when he is sick. With a few notable exceptions he literally does not possess that little extra reserve of will-power which the white man can produce in an emergency and which makes all the difference between success and failure in a crisis. Fortunately, exceptions exist, and this year produced some supermen.

"Two advances up to 23,000 feet, which were accomplished in blizzards and a temperature down as low as 56 degrees of frost and followed by disheartening withdrawals to lower camps, failed to damp the spirits of a few of these men. To develop and encourage those who from the start had been a magnificent example to others the experiment of employing some of the camp non-commissioned officers was made, and, on the whole, proved very successful. Two of these 'noncoms' showed themselves to be of quite outstanding character. I shall describe them and their performances briefly.

Praise for Two Native "Noncoms."

"First, Norbu Yshay, a Sherpa from Sola Khombu, an 'old soldier' of 1922. Physically of medium height, sturdy and well knit, he possesses an iron constitution, and when he thinks the occasion sufficiently important (it must not be forgotten that he is quite the old soldier) he shows signs of great determination also. Thus it was that he and his party of two porters erected Colonel Norton's and Dr. Somerville's camp at 27,000 feet at Camp No. 6, although three other porters had failed only the day before.

"Nothing could have been easier than that rot should spread to his party, too. It is entirely to Norbu Yshay's credit that his gang went on resolutely and succeeded.

"Equally wonderful if not more so, is the record of Lobsang, a pure-bred Tibetan, a man of varied experience. Among other accomplishments he had been a Gurkha rifleman in the Afghan War of 1919, presumably under a nom de guerre. He also distinguished himself in 1921 by reaching Camp No. 4 with my camp (over 25,000 feet) with a full load. In 1924 he was in the party which on June 1 carried loads to Camp No. 6 (25,800 feet) and with Mallory, as we shall undoubtedly prevail before Darjeeling is reached and the porters are finally paid-off.

"But these are characteristics of which we were already aware from our experience of the expeditions of 1921 and 1922. Then the porters were never really up against hardship for a prolonged period and were never asked to go on making continuous efforts in face of extreme weather conditions and acute bodily discomfort. TOWN TURNS OUT TO HONOR DAVIS

Locust Valley Casts Party Differences Aside to Welcome Him.

NOMINEE MAKES SPEECH

Says He Is Now Setting Out on the Greatest Adventure That an American Can Have.

Special to The New York Times.

LOCUST VALLEY, L. I., July 16.—In the little Locust Valley-Matinecock Neighborhood House where Boy Scouts hold their weekly meetings and volunteer firemen and other civic organizations gather to devise ways and means for the betterment of the community, John W. Davis, Presidential nominee of the Democratic Party, received an official welcome tonight from the townsfolk of his Summer home.

Occupants of Long Island estates and mansions sat side by side with fishermen and workmen. Farmers who daily supply fresh fruits and vegetables to the Summer colonists were there with those who buy them. Party, racial and religious affiliations were thrown to the winds as Mr. Davis was greeted as a citizen of Locust Valley. Half a dozen addresses of welcome were made before Mr. Davis was called on to address the throng which filled every seat and every available inch of standing room in the hall. None of the speeches, including that of Mr. Davis, had any political bearing.

Mr. Davis's Reply.

Mr. Davis pointed out that officially he had not yet been notified of his selection, and until that time came he did not intend to make any political speech. He described the race for the Presidency as "the greatest adventure that can come into the life of any American." His reply to the addresses of welcome was as follows:

"This is my first appearance on any stage in the guise of a Presidential candidate, so do not be surprised if I feel a little awkward as one not accustomed to the rôle. Such appearance is premature, for I have nothing but current rumor for the fact that such a nomination has been conferred upon me. I am advised that in space of time I shall be duly apprised of the nomination, but until that time it is my duty to deny any and all knowledge of the subject. Nevertheless, you cannot expect me to keep silent in the face of the handsome and generous tribute you have paid tonight to Mrs. Davis and myself, how generous I know better than any one in this room.

"Three years ago Mrs. Davis and I came among you as entire strangers. You held out the hand of fellowship and comradeship. From that day on you have opened to us your homes and your church and have made us one of yourselves. What return have we made to you for all this? In the peace and quiet of this rural retirement we have brought a political campaign: instead of a welcome you would have been perfectly justified to greet me with a committee of censure.

Not All a Bed of Roses.

"I have found during the last short week of my life that the life of a prospective candidate is not all a bed of roses. A letter reached me tonight from a friend in Delaware advising me that an old cobbler, a lifelong militant Democrat, who was never known to vote any other ticket, has since the close of the New York convention announced that he is a Methodist and an ardent Democrat, but that he was a Methodist long before he voted the Democratic ticket and that he will never vote for any man who has been president of a bar association. And then to show you that humanity is not all moved by feelings of hostility, another letter from a gentleman in Pennsylvania or in the West, I don't remember which, says that he is extremely sorry to see that I am being sued for breach of promise of marriage but as he happened to know the lady, he thought that he might be able to offer something to help me out of my difficulty.

"Now you come tonight and cover me with praise, which cheers Mrs. Davis while it embarrasses me as I set out on the greatest adventure that can come into the life of any American. It does give me cheer and encouragement to know that I have your good-will and to know as Mr. Davison has said, that in this great country we can take our sides, fight our battles and when the contest is over take our deserts whether lost or won and join shoulder to shoulder as Americans again. This is the greatest vindication I know of those principles of popular government upon which this country is founded and without which it would crumble to dust.

Government Comes Up, Not Down.

"I believe the school of thought to which your rector referred does not seem to be particularly numerous hereabouts. I can understand that the problem he faced was one of great difficulty, but it is not every rector who can multiply one part of his congregation by 100 per cent. I believe all free government comes from the people up and not from any source down to the people. This country is and will remain what the great masses of the people care to make it. We have thrust our all on the principle that the safety of this country lies in the keeping of its individual citizens. We will have good government in New York City if we have good government in Nassau County. We will have good government in the State of New York if we have good government in Nassau County. If we begin, man for man and woman for woman, to do our duty as citizens at home we can safely trust that the labor of the masses will show itself in the happiness of the home.

"This, my friends, is the nearest to a political speech that I intend to give until the notification ceremonies are over."

Mr. Davis had motored over from his home with Mrs. Davis and her sister, Mrs. Watson of Indianapolis. A State policeman on his motorcycle was their only escort. When the Davis party entered the hall the place was packed. On the platform were Colonel F. W. M. Cutcheon, the Chairman, who was introduced by Benjamin Downing, Director of the Community House. With them were Winslow S. Pierce, Chairman of the directors of the Wabash Railroad; the Rev. Charles W. Hinton, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John of Lattingtown at Locust Valley; F. Trubee Davison, Republican Assemblyman; Paul D. Cravath, Anton J. Hodenpyl, F. Colt Johnson and Charles A. Coffin.

In the hall were more than 500 of the Summer residents, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Brewster, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Stettinius, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. S. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Doubleday, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Larkin, Mr. and Mrs. E. Mortimer Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Tilman Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson A. Dickman, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Marsh and Mr. and Mrs. John M. Franklin. Half of the audience wore evening attire. The other half were in ginghams and working clothes. Mr. Davis wore a blue coat and white trousers.

High Praise From Davison.

Welcoming Mr. Davis, Assemblyman Davison, who is a son of the late H. P. Davison, said:

"It is written in the Scriptures that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house. This assemblage is one of the exceptions that proves the rule. Our coming here tonight is neither formal nor perfunctory, and is certainly not political. It is, rather, a spontaneous effort on our part to pay tribute and offer profound congratulations to a close friend, a much beloved neighbor to whom great honor has come and who so richly deserves it.

"We have just witnessed the most extraordinary of all national conventions. It could hardly be said to have been dominated by the dove of peace, although that elusive bird has been generally ascribed to the erstwhile leader of that same party. During the bitter conflict it was even predicted that Democracy was headed for disruption and annihilation. While I would hardly go so far as to say that Republicans were bent upon pouring oil on the troubled waters, in our better judgment, we were happy to see our opponents rise, as if guided by Divine Providence, to heights seldom attained before, when they selected as standard bearer the highest type of American."

Colonel Cutcheon, introducing Mr. Davis, said:

"We are glad for Mr. Davis's sake. Him we hold in high esteem. We rejoice in his party's selection, for the community and for the country. I know there is not among us one who is not honestly glad that he has attained this high place. They picked the best man they had. The door has been opened through which he may stand among you as your President. No one who knows John Davis could say that he could do a mean thing or that he would not maintain the right as he sees it, that he would purchase power with pretense."

ORGANIZE FOR LA FOLLETTE.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, July 16.—One of the first meetings of the campaign in New York State by the La Follette Progressives was held tonight in the Knights of Columbus Hall, 23 Hamilton Avenue. About twenty-five enrolled men and women were in attendance.

They organized a Westchester County committee, elected temporary officers and unanimously endorsed La Follette as their Presidential candidate and the platform adopted by the party at Cleveland.

Philip Unstadter of Yonkers, who was designated by La Follette to organize in Westchester, was the unanimous choice for temporary Chairman. Mrs. Edna Kerr of Bronxville was elected temporary Secretary, Robert W. Moncrieff of White Plains, who nominated both officers, described himself as an "enrolled but disgruntled Republican."

LATHROP BROWN RETIRES.

Mr. Brown was one of the two members of the New York delegation to the Democratic National Convention who, after a few ballots, stopped voting for the nomination of Governor Smith and voted instead for William G. McAdoo. In announcing his retirement he says he finds himself "utterly at variance with the policies of the State organization, dominated by Tammany Hall." There is an echo of the Klan fight in the expression of the belief by Mr. Brown "that Church and State should be separately maintained as guaranteed by the Constitution."

WANT UMPIRE DINEEN.

Onondaga Democrats Urge His Nomination for Sheriff.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 16. — Well-known leaders in the Democratic Party of Onondaga County came out strongly today urging the candidacy of William Dineen, American League umpire, for Sheriff of the county.

The Democratic County Committee will meet Thursday night, and it is believed in political circles that it will endorse the candidacy of Dineen. The the candidacy of Dineen. The latter latter always has been active in the affairs of the party here, but has never before been a candidate for office.

LA FOLLETTE GETS DEBS ENDORSEMENT

Letter to Socialist Leaders Here Says Party Need Not Blush to Support Senator.

"STANDS FOR THE RIGHT"

Not in Accord With Some Features of Cleveland Convention, but Approves Appeal.

Endorsement of the candidacy of La Follette is contained in a letter written by Eugene V. Debs to the leaders of the Socialist Party here and made public yesterday, after being read at a meeting of the leaders. The letter, which is quite long, is headed "A Supplementary Word," and says:

"It is with real pleasure, no less than with a deep sense of the fervent spirit and the loyal devotion to the cause of the toiling and producing masses, that I applaud and give my unqualified approval to the eloquent and thrilling appeal of the 'address to the members of the Socialist Party of America,' issued by the committee representing the National Convention of the party held in Cleveland."

Debs then goes on to discuss the convention referred to. With certain features and certain actions he says he could not find himself in agreement. "But the situation that confronted our delegates at Cleveland," he adds, "was anything but an ordinary one. It was indeed unprecedented and extraordinary in every sense of the term." He said he found that the most progressive elements of American labor were represented there and that there existed a "golden opportunity" to "join with these gathering forces of liberation." He continued, in part:

"Of course, the platform is not as we would have it, nor is Robert M. La Follette a Socialist or a member of our party, but what of it in the light of the rich and abundant harvest that is certain to issue from the widest sowing of the seed of solidarity among the hitherto dissevered and enslaved producers of the land?

"Though he is not a Socialist, we need not blush or apologize for our support to Robert M. La Follette in the lifegiving and hope-inspiring struggle of the present hour. All his life he has stood up like a man for the right according to his light; he has been shamefully maligned, ostracized and persecuted by the predatory powers of the plutocracy, yet his bitterest foe has never dared to question his personal integrity or his political rectitude."

COOLIDGE ODDS FIRM DESPITE DAVIS MONEY

Commissioners Report Bets of $5,000 to $17,500 and $5,000 to $15,000 on Democratic Victory.

Money to wager on the chances of John W. Davis to be elected President appeared in volume yesterday, but the odds remained 3½ and 3 to 1 on Coolidge.

According to W. L. Darnell & Co., 44 Broad Street, the "intimation by Judge George W. Olvany, the new Tammany leader, that Governor Smith will run for re-election was responsible for the flood of money making its appearance in Wall Street to bet on Mr. Davis," and, according to J. S. Fried & Co., 20 Broad Street, "the belief prevails in many quarters that Governor Alfred E. Smith will be a candidate for Governor of the State again this year, and that carries with it the conviction that with the present Chief Executive running for re-election the chances for the Democratic Party carrying New York State for President of the United States would be greatly enhanced."

A shortening of the odds against Davis was forecast by J. S. Fried & Co., provided Governor Smith runs again. This firm reported that Davis supporters were more inclined, as a result of Judge Olvany's statement, to show "considerably more courage in the Wall Street betting and were much more disposed than previously to accept the free offerings of 3 to 1 that have lately been made that President Coolidge would be re-elected."

W. L. Darnell & Co. announced that they had placed several "substantial commissions, one of $5,000 to $17,500 and another of $5,000 to $15,000 that Davis will be elected the next President of the United States, and are offering several thousand more the same way. The assumption is that with Smith running for re-election, New York will be found in the Democratic column when the electoral votes are counted."

CLOTHING TOO HIGH, SAYS FEDERAL REPORT

Textile and Garment Trades Admit It, but Each Puts Economies on Other.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—In its effort to determine the reason for the present low price of raw wool, despite reduced supplies and a decrease in the number of sheep in the principal wool-producing countries of the world, the Department of Agriculture has found clothing prices too high.

"All branches of the textile and clothing trade regard clothing prices as too high," says the department, but "each feels that economies can best be effected by the others. Retailers feel that any reductions must take place in the manufacturers' selling price. The clothing manufacturer contends that the present wage scale makes it impossible to effect economies in production costs. Some of the clothing manufacturers and wholesale dealers feel that more efficient organization in the retail trade would bring about lower clothing prices."

Raw wool is a comparatively small factor in the price of clothing, the department adds, an all-wool suit averaging about five pounds of wool, and the difference between a high-priced and a low-priced suit being mostly in the quality of linings and findings and the labor used in making the cloth and the suit.

SIX ARE KILLED IN DELHI.

100 Also Are Wounded Because of Mohammedan-Hindu Riots.

DELHI, British India, July 16.—Six persons were reported killed and more than 100 were wounded in rioting yesterday between Mohammedans and Hindus. The disturbance was caused by what is described as the aggressive attitude of the Mohammedans, who persisted in carrying cows for sacrifice through the prohibited area where the Hindus live.

The Mohammedans are declared to have entered the Hindu streets, breaking open and setting fire to the houses and desecrating idols. The military was called out with armored cars and forced to fire on the mob.

There were no casualties from this fire. The casualties occurred in the street disturbances. Order was restored after four hours. Cavalry reinforced the police pickets.

House of David Verdict Affirmed.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 16.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed the decision of the Southern District of Michigan Court in granting John Hansell and wife of Grand Rapids, Mich., a verdict for $20,000 against Benjamin Purnell, "King" of the House of David.

SHIP BOARD CHARGES ATTACK ON OUR LAWS

Declares Foreign Shipping Interests Seek to Destroy America's Coastwise Policy.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Charges that hostile foreign shipping interests, under the guise of opposition to flag discrimination, are "moving to attack and ultimately destroy the coastwise laws of the United States" are made in a memorandum addressed to Secretary Hoover and made public today by the Shipping Board.

The memorandum, prepared by Vice Chairman Plummer, was sent by the board in connection with the sailing over a week ago of the Lamport & Holt steamer Voltaire from Philadelphia to Halifax and St. John's with 850 Pennsylvania members of the Order of Elks. Instead of proceeding direct to its destination the Voltaire, it is alleged, dropped its passengers, who were delegates to the Elks' convention, in Boston and then proceeded on its trip.

Customs authorities at Boston have fined the Lamport & Holt Line $110,000, or $200 a passenger, for alleged violation of American shipping laws excluding foreign flag vessels from coastwise trades. The Department of Commerce, which had received protests from American shipping companies against the Voltaire's voyage, is understood to consider the case closed, unless the British line appeals the decision of the Boston authorities.

The board's memorandum, written before the Voltaire sailed, declared the board had been informed that the ship was preparing to take aboard at Philadelphia a large party of Elks "to land them in Boston." At the conclusion of the convention there, the memorandum said, she was to proceed to Halifax and St. Johns, and "en route on her return to land the party of Elks again at Philadelphia, the pretense being that this is really a trip from Philadelphia to Halifax and St. Johns, with no real landing of passengers in Boston."

"Of course, the memorandum added, "the subterfuge of touching at the British ports of Halifax and St. Johns makes this none the less a violation of the coastwise laws of the United States, which the Department of Commerce is charged to enforce."

"Under the guise of opposition to flag discrimination," the memorandum continued, "there is abundant evidence that hostile foreign interests are moving to attack and ultimately destroy the coastwise laws of the United States.

"That the present British and Continental movement against flag discrimination includes a systematic effort to force the repeal and abandonment of the coastwise policy of this nation was openly proclaimed by the President of the Liverpool Ship Owners' Association in his formal address at the recent annual meeting of that association. The Lamport & Holt Voltaire is owned by one of the member companies of the Liverpool Steamship Owners' Association."

LEO CLARETIE KILLED BY A TRAIN IN FRANCE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 16.—Leo Claretie, a well known French journalist and former husband of Mme. Caillaux, was killed by a train today near Rennes. The accident is shrouded in mystery. His body was found early this morning by a track-walker. It was horribly mutilated, and various articles of clothing found were several miles from the scene of the tragedy.

M. Claretie, who was a member of a prominent French family, was connected with several Paris papers and was the author of a number of educational, historical and critical works. He was an officer of the Legion of Honor.

Léo Claretie was one of the best known French men of letters. He was born in Paris June 2, 1868. He lectured on literature at the Lycées St. Louis and Louis le Grand and the Ecole Normale Supérieure, was a Fellow in Letters at the University of Paris, and a member of various literary societies, including the Gens des Lettres, Association of Dramatic Critics, the Association of Parisian Journalists, the Society of Dramatic Authors and President of the Society of Art and the Child.

He wrote more than thirty volumes of lectures and essays, plays and short stories and was successively editor of several of the higher class reviews, including the Revue des Deux Mondes and the Revue de Paris.

His wife was the woman who afterward became Mme. Joséph Caillaux. Her attachment for the man, who was to be Premier in 1911 and convicted of dealing with enemy agents in 1920, was formed when both had other partners. In the Spring of 1914, the Figaro began publishing some of their love letters. She went to the Figaro office and shot and killed Gaston Calmette, the editor. She declared that she had gone there to make him surrender those letters. At her trial, however, it was proved that the letters she desired were documents which showed Caillaux's treasonable correspondence with Germany when he was Premier. These documents, however, were not divulged until Caillaux was placed on trial six years later, and Mme. Caillaux, on the eve of the World War was acquitted. She later accompanied Caillaux on his trips to South America and to Italy.

will be canvassed at the meeting of the National Committee of the new party here on Friday.

Here is a list of the sixteen men from whom it is expected the Vice Presidential candidate will be picked: Louis D. Brandeis, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court; George W. Anderson, Federal Judge in Massachusetts, formerly a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission; Governor Sweet of Colorado, Governor Davis of Kansas, James Morrow, President of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor; Warren S. Stone, Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; David Robertson, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; Peter Witt, of Cleveland, a labor leader; John McSparrow of Pennsylvania, head of the National Grange; Carl Vrooman of Illinois, former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture; William Kent of California, former Bull Moose member of the House; J. A. H. Hopkins of New York, Chairman of the Committee of Forty-eight; Huston Thompson of Colorado, Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission; Senator Burton Wheeler of Montana, the Rev. Francis McConnell of Pittsburgh, Methodist Bishop; H. E. Samuels, leader of the Progressive Party of Idaho.

The Cleveland convention entrusted the National Committee with the duty of selecting the Vice Presidential candidate, but the leaders look to Mr. La Follette to name the man. The Senator has not yet indicated a preference. It is understood he will be ready to name his choice when the committee meets.

There will be no formal notification made to Mr. La Follette that he has been nominated as the Progressive Presidential candidate. Customs followed by the old parties are irksome to the Wisconsin Senator, and he has indicated that in this instance the ceremony of an official notification will be waived.

Mr. La Follette takes the position that he has been nominated, that no one can question the fact, and that it is mere surplusage to have a big round-up of leaders to inform the candidate of a fact that is a matter of common knowledge.

After it has organized for business, the National Committee will call on Senator La Follette in a body. Mr. La Follette may issue an address formally accepting the nomination, or he may wait until he is ready to deliver his first campaign speech.

According to statements made by friends, pledges of support are coming to Mr. La Follette's headquarters in ever-increasing numbers. Many persons are offering to serve in the campaign without pay.

Progressive leaders appear to be confident that the American Federation of Labor will line up behind Mr. La Follette, although Samuel Gompers, in a recent editorial in the official organ of the organization, took a stand against third parties and third-party candidates.

Friends of the Senator predict that George L. Berry, head of the Pressmen's Union, who received some votes for the Vice Presidential nomination in the Democratic National Convention, will support the Wisconsin Senator.

At the office of Arthur E. Holder, Secretary of the Progressive Committee, it was declared today that the work of organization was proceeding satisfactorily in the Eastern States, notably in New Jersey. He made public a telegram from Louis Budenz, editor of Labor Age, stating that headquarters are about to be opened in Newark for active work throughout New Jersey, and adding: "Most complete Progressive unity in the history of New Jersey."

A large part of this week's meeting will be devoted to the question of finances. The leaders insist that at present its treasury is practically empty and that they are already confronted with a deficit.

The problem of financing the campaign, it is stated, is reduced to one of taking large direct contributions from labor unions or diffusing the contributions among the individual membership of those organizations. A levy on each union member is favored by some of the leaders, because they believe the war chest of the La Follette party should be know as "the poor man's campaign fund."

One leader observed that "large individual contributions will be barred from 'the poor man's campaign fund.'" He said millionaires would not be allowed to assist Mr. La Follette toward the Presidential chair, and that "his candidacy in the interest of the plain people will be financed by the plain people."

The leaders say they are confident that labor will contribute handsomely, and at Friday's meeting a plan of assessing a day's day on each member of the several unions behind the La Follette candidacy will be considered. It is believed that such an assessment would meet a ready response and yield a large sum.

Considerable sums will be spent on publicity, notably in the East. The La Follette leaders apparently believe they have a good chance to land electoral votes in some of the Eastern States.

"We are going to push our campaign in every State in the Union," said William H. Johnston, Chairman of the National Committee. "La Follette's strength in the East, especially in New York and Pennsylvania, will open the eyes of the reactionary politicians who already are claiming those States for either the Republican or the Democratic Party."

NEW ENGLAND SAFE, COOLIDGE IS TOLD

AND BRYAN MIGHT GET IT

Western Men Declare La Follette Will Be Harmless in Ohio and California.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—President Coolidge continued his political conferences at the White House today. Among his callers were Senator Brandegee of Connecticut and some Old Guard irreconcilable leaders. The reports they brought to him were that he would get an overwhelming vote in the New England section because the voters there believe his defeat might send the decision to the Senate and result in the election of Charles W. Bryan as President.

When Senator Brandegee left the White House he told newspaper men he had nothing to say. Secretary Weeks, who followed him, also said he had "nothink to talk about," but he told friends later that President Coolidge would carry New England on the Bryan issue.

Carmi Thompson, Republican leader of Ohio, was another of the President's callers today. He told Mr. Coolidge he need not fear the La Follette strength in Ohio—that the Senator would draw more heavily from the Democratic labor vote in the State than from the Republican strength.

Raymond Benjamin of California told President Coolidge that Senator La Follette had no strength in that State, and the Republican organization need not fear the independent movement there.

The main hope of the Coolidge forces at this time appears to be that the nomination of Governor Bryan will prove a great source of weakness to the Democratic ticket.

The Coolidge managers have been watching John W. Davis to see what he will do about appointing a manager and arranging his campaign plans.

Although they are raising the cry in Washington that if it is a close vote the election will be thrown into Congress and that if it comes to the Senate to elect, Senator La Follette will throw his support to Governor Bryan rather than to General Dawes.

The Democratic National Committee is by no means willing to admit that there will be any such close decision as to throw the election into Congress. The report here tonight is that not only Mr. Davis but Messrs. McAdoo and William J. Bryan and all other elements of the party will enter the campaign and make a real fight for victory. The Democratic viewpoint is that their ticket will sweep the country and that Mr. Davis will be elected.

Mr. Coolidge has decided to remain in Washington during the Summer despite the warnings of friends that he will find it too hot for comfort. The President replies that the White House is comfortable, and he gets more genuine rest by week-end trips on the Mayflower than would result from longer trips on land.

NORWAY RETAINS DRY LAW.

Government, Defeated, Expected to Resign Next Week.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CHRISTIANIA, July 16.—After a debate which began in Lower House last Saturday the Government bill for the repeal of prohibition was defeated today by 63 votes to 49.

During the debate, in which the prohibition question was thoroughly discussed from both moral and financial points of view the radical Left, in order that a Cabinet crisis might be avoided three months before the general election, offered its cooperation to some other means of raising 30,000,000 kroner additional revenue which the Government expected to obtain from excise and customs duties through the repeal of prohibition.

As, however, the offer was made conditional upon the complete maintenance of prohibition Prime Minister Berge declined it.

Before the House voted the Prime Minister declared the Government intended to await the fate of the bill in the Upper House before resigning.

The formation of a new Government by M. Mowinckel is expected next week.

SASKATCHEWAN VOTES WET.

Government Control Leads by 13,534 on Partial Returns.

REGINA, Sask., July 16.—The defeat of prohibition in Saskatchewan by a decisive majority, and its replacement by a system of Government control, without the sale of beer in licensed premises appeared to be certain tonight, when the opponents of the existing system had rolled up a majority of 13,534 over the prohibition forces, but one-quarter of province heard from.

The latest returns give 30,227 for prohibition and 43,761 against. For plain Government control there were 33,097 votes, and for control which included the sale of beer in licensed premises, 26,412.

COL. COOPER DESCRIBES FIGHT FOR PERSIAN OIL

He Says Russia Is in Strongest Position in Struggle With British and Americans.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 16.—Colonel Merian C. Cooper, who arrived in Paris this morning from a six months' exploring trip in Persia, said that the fight for Persian oil was not between England and America alone, as represented by the Anglo-Persian and Standard Oil and Sinclair interests, but was a three-cornered one, with Russia in the third corner, apparently in the best position.

"Russia is determined to have the concessions in the five Northern Persian departments which were controlled by Russian interests before the war," Colonel Cooper said. "An Armenian who is a Russian subject and the holder of a large interest in these pre-war concessions sold his interests to English investors. At the same time the Sinclair interests have practically tied up the Persian Government in a new concession in the same district. Russia, however, refuses to recognize either of these concessions as valid and is demanding that the rights be given her. And certainly she appears to be in the strongest position. The moderation of the treaty she made with Persia after the invasion of 1920 and the fact that she has chased the English out of the northern Provinces have given her the greatest prestige there, and she is using her best diplomatic efforts to take advantage of this.

"It is also the Russian aim to prevent American capital from building a railroad across Northern Persia. England, too, is fighting the Americans in this, and the British Government is using the loan made to Persia in war time as a very effective weapon. If Americans get the concession, the British will demand repayment of the loan. As this means a lien on Persian oil, taxes and customs duties—which are Persia's only source of income—the railroad will necessarily immediately become a bad bargain."

Colonel Cooper, who was an American aviator during the war and later became a Colonel in the Polish Air Service, was captured and long held a prisoner by the Bolsheviki. He is now an explorer of note. Two years ago he made an extensive trip through Abyssinia and was entertained for a month by Ras Tafari, the Regent. Immediately after writing numerous articles on this trip he started out for the interior of Persia to study the migration of the nomad tribes. In company with Mrs. Marguerite E. Harrison and Ernest B. Schoedsacks, he made a year's trip through Anatolia, Northern Arabia and Southern Persia. Half of the trip was given to the last-named region.

NATIONAL CHAIRMAN SELECTED BY DAVIS

Mr. Davis and urged him to visit Oregon during his campaign, and also suggested the advisability of having a regional director to look after the campaign in the Pacific Coast States. Upon leaving, they said that Mr. Davis had indicated that he might extend his campaign trip to the Pacific Coast, although nothing definite has been decided about the itinerary of the nominee's speaking trips.

Wants to Consult C. W. Bryan.

Mr. Davis's desire to consult his running mate, Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, nominee for Vice President, was said to have delayed the announcement of a new National Chairman. Early in the day Mr. White indicated that the announcement was to be expected during the day, but on his return in the afternoon said he understood the matter had not been decided.

Mr. White was accompanied by Mr. Shaver, who, when asked whether he or any one else had been asked to head the Democratic National Committee, said:

"It isn't likely that Mr. Davis would make a selection without first consulting the Vice Presidential nominee, Governor Bryan."

Mr. White and Mr. Shaver remained in conference with Mr. Davis for an hour and a half. At 4 o'clock Mr. Davis left the Polk home, accompanied by his body guard, "Bill" Nye, hoping to play a round of golf before getting ready to attend the neighborhood demonstration for him at the Matinecock Neighborhood House in the evening. Mr. Davis did not make any announcement of the selection of a Chairman or any campaign plans and had no comment to make on the situation.

Major George Haven Putnam, the publisher, made public a letter to Mr. Davis, in which he assured the candidate of his support and expressed the hope that his election would result in a "safe and sound" international policy and the acceptance by the United States of the World Court and the League of Nations. In the letter, which was written on the stationery of the English-Speaking Union, of which Mr. Davis is President and Mr. Putnam a director, Mr. Putnam said:

"I had the opportunity for one visit to the convention, but it was my good fortune to be in the hall at the very moment when the delegates, after long days of confusion, arrived at what I am prepared to call the ideal selection for the Presidential candidate. I may congratulate the country, the party and the candidate, whom I am proud to be able to call a valued friend.

"The group of independents to which I belong have full confidence in giving their vote for John W. Davis that the influence as President of this large-minded and capable-minded citizen will be used in behalf of a sane and sound international policy. This means the acceptance by the United States of the World's Court and the League of Nations and the fulfillment of our international obligations.

"We may also have confidence that the influence of our President will be used for the maintenance of the authority of the Supreme Court against the assaults that are now being made by ignorant demagogues and the modification, at the earliest practicable date of the absurd medieval duties of the Fordney tariff.

"Apart from the desire to give this word of greeting and congratulation, I want to have your campaign manager include my name in his list of citizens who are prepared to go on the platform for yourself and for the opinions and convictions that you represent. I believe I shall be the only one in the list of speakers for Davis who can say that he voted for Lincoln. I was at the time only 20 years of age, but the vote was given in Libby Prison, and the authorities in charge of the election decided that if I was old enough to render service as an Adjutant I was old enough to give a vote for the Presidency."

HAS STREAM OF VISITORS

Continues to Hope Smith Will Run for Governor Despite Reports From Albany.

It was after 7 o'clock last night when Judge George W. Olvany of the Court of General Sessions closed the old roll-top desk at Tammany Hall, where for twenty-two years Charles F. Murphy, who preceded him as leader of Tammany Hall, had sat. He was asked how he liked his new job.

"It's a bit strenuous; that's all I have discovered so far," he replied.

Before quitting his job for the day, Judge Olvany had sat through a meeting of the Executive Committee of Tammany Hall at which the discussion had to do with candidates for Congress and for the Legislature. He had conferred with a score or more Tammany district leaders or lieutenants. He had received a visit from Surrogate James A. Foley, son-in-law of the late leader. And he had been worrying quite a little over finding some one to fill the place of Daniel L. Ryan, Secretary of Tammany Hall, who has been appointed a Transportation Commissioner.

"Gosh," said Judge Olvany last night, "I wish his boss would fire him so we could keep him here. It will be next to impossible to find any one to fill his place."

Ex-Sheriff Foley Calls.

Surrogate Foley was asked if he had called on Judge Olvany to give him points in the management of Tammany Hall.

"He doesn't need any," said the Surrogate with a smile. "He is a past master himself at this sort of work."

Ex-Sheriff Tom Foley, who happened in to the Wigwam about the time his younger namesake was in conference with Judge Olvany, beamed on the pair.

"All of us can be helpful to the new leader in some way," he said. "We are all links in the organization chain and each of us can put him wise in some matters. But Surrogate Foley was right next to the old man and knew what he had in mind. I am glad to see him come in and help out like this."

Surrogate Foley said after his interview with Judge Olvany, which lasted twenty minutes, that he had merely come in to pay his respects to the new leader.

"It was a wise selection; Judge Olvany will do well," he said.

Judge Olvany had his attention called last night to reports from Albany indicating that Governor Smith had made up his mind not to be a candidate for Governor again, although the dispatches did not contain any statement from the Governor himself to bear out this construction.

"I can only say what I said last night," said Judge Olvany. "I hope he will run. We need him."

Ex-Sheriff Foley, who sponsored "Al" Smith in his first political venture and has been his friend and strong supporter ever since, said last night that he thought the Governor should and would be compelled to run again.

Smiles at Bryan Report.

"I cannot see what else there is for him to do," said the veteran leader of Governor Smith's home district. "He has had a good thing of it up in Albany and now that the organization needs him he must play the game. I know it may mean a sacrifice to 'Al,' who is not a rich man, but we've all got to make sacrifices for our party. We must give the national ticket all the backing we can; we must carry this State and with 'Al' running again we can do that."

Judge Olvany laughed when shown a report in an evening paper indicating dissatisfaction in Tammany Hall with the nomination of Governor Bryan for second place on the ticket, from which John W. Davis might suffer.

"Nothing to that," he said. "We are regular and go along with all the candidates on the ticket every time."

Judge Olvany said that from the discussion at the Executive Committee meeting it appeared probable that all the present Democratic Congressmen from Manhattan would run for re-election. Candidates would have to be found for the Fourteenth Congressional District, now represented by Nathan Perlman; the Seventeenth, represented by Ogden L. Mills, and the Twentieth, represented by F. H. LaGuardia, all Republicans. Judge Olvany said he thought it likely most of the Democratic Senators and Assemblymen from the Tammany bailiwick would seek re-election also.

Earlier in the day Judge Olvany had conferred with President pro tem of the Senate James J. Walker. He was asked if his statement was intended to include the Senate leader.

"I certainly hope it does," he replied. "We need Senator Walker at Albany and I hope he will go back."

ALBANY, N. Y., July 16.—Governor Smith declined today to comment on the declaration of George W. Olvany, newly appointed leader of Tammany Hall, that he would be drafted to run for re-election.

It is known, however, that Governor Smith feels he has earned a rest from public duties, and it is known, also, that he wishes to return to business life. Furthermore, he believes that his candidacy for another term as Governor would not be of any material assistance in carrying the State for Davis and Bryan. To support this contention he has referred to his political associates that in 1920, when he came within a few thousand votes of re-election, the national standard bearers, Cox and Roosevelt, were buried under a Republican plurality of more than 1,000,000 votes in the State.

The Governor plans to go to Lake Placid on Friday for the week-end.

MARINE CORPS OPEN FOR MORE RECRUITS

Navy Also Will Accept Enlistments, Though It Needs No Men at Present.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Men desiring to enter the military service and unable to get into the army because recruiting has been suspended may enlist in the navy or the Marine Corps. The navy, however, is not anxious to enlist recruits and the Marine Corps is particular in the men it accepts.

Army recruiting was suspended because its present strength is above the 118,750 men for whom provision is made in the War Department's appropriation.

The navy also has exceeded the average enlisted strength for which it has appropriations and is not making any effort to obtain recruits. It has an excess of 900 men and a large percentage of those whose enlistments are expiring are re-enlisting. Recruiting officers were instructed early this month not to make any special effort to obtain recruits, but to accept such of the voluntary applicants as could meet requirements. The navy appropriation is on the basis of an enlisted strength of 86,000 men.

The Marine Corps, with an enlisted strength of 19,207, is 293 men short of the authorized number.

The army went over the top in recruiting largely because of one-year enlistments, which became effective April 1 this year. Since that time 3,469 men have enlisted for one-year terms.

Military authorities hold that if a considerable number of one-year men are enlisted they are not providing well-trained ranks from which to select men for promotions to corporal and later to higher grades. Transportation and care of recruits pending their assignment to permanent organizations also is a heavy expense compared to the short time they are in the service.

COMMUNICATIONS PLAN DRAWS OUR PROTEST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, July 16.—In spite of the protest of the American delegate, A. H. Babcock, the Pan-American Conference on Electrical Communication today adopted the convention submitted by the sub-committee, Mr. Babcock not voting.

In a statement to the conference Mr. Babcock opposed certain provisions of the convention as leading to the establishment of a permanent union to promote government ownership of communication facilities and others for the regulation of inter-American communications in a manner which he charged would interfere with rights of management under private ownership in the United States.

He declared that the United States believes inter-American communications can best be extended by encouraging the investment of private capital and is not in accord with a policy which fixes arbitrary rates. He refused to join in recommending to the Pan American Union a convention "embodying principles contrary to the national policies of the United States."

An extra session has been called to discuss the attitude of the United States.

TWO POLICEMEN INDICTED.

Accused of Assaulting and Robbing a Garage Owner.

Policeman Walter Wheatley of 515 West 177th Street and William Barnes of 29 Arden Street, attached to the Special Service Squad in Manhattan, were held in $20,000 bail each by County Judge Burt J. Humphreys in Long Island City yesterday afternoon. They were indicted on charges of first degree robbery, first degree grand larceny and second degree assault.

It was charged that on July 5 the policemen entered the garage of John Paon, at 62 South Street, Jamaica, and assaulted the proprietor, took $480 in cash and a check for $75 from Paon's apartment and an automobile tire from the garage. They denied the charge.

REPORT BIG BATTLE RAGING IN BRAZIL

RIO SAID TO BE ARMING

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—An important general action is being fought along the front established by the rebels of Sao Paulo, according to an official communiqué received at the Brazilian Embassy here this afternoon. It was dated at noon today and says:

"Our troops are operating in an important action all along the front. New forces, whose organization has just been completed, are about to enter action."

Earlier in the day the embassy received other official communiqués which had to do with the engagement now apparently being fought. The first, dated noon yesterday, said:

"Great activity along the whole front. We continue to advance, occupying more advantageous positions. The superiority of our artillery is considerable."

The other communiqué, dated at midnight last night, said:

"Our troops attacked the rebels, who are giving way all the time. Our artillery has worked efficiently. Military operations are following their normal course with the combined action of all organized detachments. Among the prisoners captured today there were prisoners from the penitentiary of Sao Paulo, who had been freed by the rebels."

Reports Santos is Paralyzed.

BUENOS AIRES, July 16 (Associated Press).—Adispatch to La Nacion from Montevideo says the captain of the Italian steamer Duca D'Osta, which arrived in Montevideo from Santos this afternoon, said the Port of Santos was virtually closed.

Strict vigilance was maintained around the Duca D'Osta while the vessel was in port. Nobody was allowed to approach the ship except the agent of the line owning it and the quarantine officer.

The captain of the steamer is quoted as having said that he was able to affirm that the situation was "grave." He obtained this idea through conversations he heard while at Rio de Janeiro and from evidence of the total paralyzation of the Port of Santos.

The correspondent of La Nacion interviewed a prominent South American who arrived in Montevideo on the Duca D'Osta. This person, who had had an opportunity to meet many leading Brazilian politicians in Rio de Janeiro, is quoted as having said that the situation in Rio was "quiet but not tranquil." The city did not have the appearance of being in a state of war, but of being ready to enter upon it at any moment.

Precautionary measures were to be observed everywhere. Military forces were to be seen in the streets. The Government palace and the War Office were completely surrounded by troops and batteries of artillery. Streets were being continually patrolled and the police were displaying exceptional vigilance to prevent the formation of new revolutionary bodies in the city. Apart from this, the situation in Rio was nearly normal. Commercial activities were proceeding with a certain amount of uneasiness, but with apparent regularity.

On the other hand, Santos gave the man interviewed by La Nacion the impression of being a dead city. Its vast open port was totally deserted; all kinds of activities had been suspended. Numerous business houses had closed and the banks had ceased operating since July 5. Some of the newspapers had suspended publication. The inhabitants of the city were uneasy on account of reports of the rebel advance upon the city, and also insistent rumors that the revolutionists had many partisans and agents in Santos.

An official communiqué from Rio de Janiero received by La Nacion at midnight states that the Federals "won an important action against the rebels, capturing many prisoners."

The bulletin says that telegrams are continuing to arrive, indicating that "patriotic battalions" have been organized in nearly all the cities of Sao Paulo State to battle the insurrectionists. It also says that intense feeling in other districts outside of Sao Paulo prevails against the rebels.

The rigid censorship imposed by the Brazilian Government has prevented authentic news from coming out of that country recently concerning the revolutionary situation at Sao Paulo. Much concern is felt here, and it is feared in some quarters that the revolt is much more serious than was at first believed.

Authoritative advices received today from Rio de Janeiro say that the Brazilian Government yesterday stopped the American press associations from sending or receiving news dispatches in Brazil.

Both the Associated Press and the United Press serve newspapers in Brazil, and apparently the censorship has been so extended as to prevent the sending or receiving of messages considered unfavorable to the Government interests.

'BIG STORM COMING,' BUTLER TELLS FORCE

"Keep Up the Fight Whether I'm Fired or Not," He Warns Police.

POISON LIQUOR DRIVE BEGUN

New Coroner Declares Sellers in Death Cases Will Be Charged With Murder.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—Calling the police inspectors and lieutenants before him today General Butler, Director of Public Safety, told them, in a fiery talk, that it was up to them to give no heed to political threats but to adhere to the law enforcement program he had mapped out, whether "I am fired or not."

"Whether I go or not makes no difference to you," he declared. "You must still be men. We've got to go ahead and make good on the administration's program. Mayor Kendrick promised the people he would clean up vice and crime in Philadelphia and keep the police out of politics.

"We must see that those pledges are kept. Go ahead and knock the stuffings out of any joint that pops up in your district. If you are men you will stick to your guns and do your duty by the citizens of Philadelphia. If you are afraid you will run because there is going to be a big storm.

"If you have to be afraid of politicians you are taking money under false pretenses. If you quake with fear when your political friends tell you that after I am gone you will be the victims of a dire revenge, then you are cowards at heart.

"When I speak of men I speak of men like Lieutenant Burns who got the evidence against one of the biggest joints in Philadelphia. This is a fight to the finish. The department has a soul, and all it means to do is to call that soul its own. All that we want to do is to give Philadelphia fine service.

"It has come to my attention that certain policemen on their day off go around in plain clothes to various breweries which are not even on their beat and collect money from the managements on the threat that otherwise the breweries will be reported to me.

"That bunch of skunks must be thrown off the force. It has been said there are only four police officials who can't be bought. I don't believe that. I believe that all of you are men.

"You can't protect these places. Sooner or later it will come to my attention, and then the places will be 'pulled' and you will be broken and the men under you will be fired.

"No one but the Director of Public Safety can protect any of these places, and I won't do it.

"Sooner or later, if you assert your power, you can strangle vice and crime in Philadelphia. The decent people of this city demand that we do it and they also demand that the police be kept out of politics.

"Are you for law and order or not? Suppose I do get fired? What will that have to do with you after I am gone if you are still men?

"Before I get fired out of this job I want to do one thing, and that is to help raise $150,000 to meet a deficit in the police beneficiary fund for the widows and orphans of policemen who gave their lives in the service. I want you to help me to raise this money by a series of baseball games. We will not handle these tickets ourselves, but there will be various places where they will be on sale."

The services of the entire Police Department were placed at the disposal of Coroner Patton today in his fight against poison rum sellers. He has declared that every seller of poison liquor caught will be "treated as a murderer and held for the Grand Jury on a murder charge."

In announcing his complete cooperation with the coroner in the effort to stamp out the rising epidemic of denatured alcohol deaths, General Butler declared:

"I am willing to go to any extreme with any one in the battle to round up the poison rum ring."

His statement came a few hours after an order to all Lieutenants, demanding a "rigid investigation of every death caused by bad liquor." At the outset of the campaign, Acting Lieutenant Whitworth reported to the Director that he had found the place in which two men purchased the poison liquor which caused their deaths last night.

The victims died a few hours after Coroner Patton had taken office and had announced war to the end on bad liquor dispensers as his first official action. Federal aid is to be enlisted in the crusade. It is believed that Federal officials will make a complete investigation to determine what becomes of denatured alcohol sold on government permits. The belief is that much of this poisonous alcohol is redistilled by bootleggers, who are too careless to carry out the process to the point that would make the product safe.

The police will have an unofficial air service branch with two or more speedy planes and experienced drivers sworn in as special policemen, if the plans of local airmen prove acceptable to department officials.

This auxiliary service will be aimed especially at regulating air traffic and at stopping rum-runners. In regard to the need for the latter, one prominent airman who asked that his name be withheld declared:

The proposed air police will be volunteer fliers of the aerial squadron of the Twenty-eighth Division, National Guard. The unit will have no official connection with the Police Department, but fliers who would like the work will volunteer. Two hangars, sheltering eight scout planes, soon will be erected on the Baltimer & Ohio Railroad tract adjoining the Navy Flying Field at League Island.

TALES OF RISING IN RUSSIA.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

RIGA, July 16.—In the past few days persons who have crossed the western frontiers of Russia have reported activities of small groups in various parts of the Russian northwestern provinces against the Bolsheviki.

A message received today from Leningrad confirms these reports and explains that the movement is organized by a well-known "White" General, who during the civil war raised forces successively on several fronts. His numerous partisans are said to have been organized in groups, which at the end of June began operations simultaneously in Vitebsk, Tver, Pskoff, Leningrad and Novgorod Provinces.

Their methods, according to these rumors, is to attack local Soviet centres and kill Communists, to cut railway tracks and telegraph wires and generally disturb communications. Last week parties are reported to have looted the Rushenkovsky munition stores in Novgorod Province and to have raided several towns, in which they occupied public buildings, shot and hanged Communists, destroyed archives, freed prisoners and then retired to the forests.

BUTLER TO REPORT REPUBLICAN FUNDS

your committee as to money being raised or expended by any organization or committee in opposition to the candidates of the ticket which your committee is interested in electing. In other words, any information which you can give this committee which will enable it to make a thorough investigation as to money expended in opposition will be as readily received and considered as facts relating to money used in support of the ticket in which your committee is interested. Very respectfully,

"WILLIAM E. BORAH."

Butler Promises Compliance.

Mr. Butler's reply follows:

"My dear Senator: I am in receipt of your letter of July 2 addressed to me at Washington, and which has been forwarded.

"I have taken the liberty of delaying my answer until I have had opportunity to confer with the Treasurer and members of the committee.

"In answer to your specific inquiries I reply as follows:

"1. The committee had on hand July 1 approximately $50,000. The Treasurer will give you the exact amount.

"2. We expect to raise funds to meet the expenses of the campaign by personal solicitation conducted by authorized representatives of the committee, and by communications addressed to members of the party by officers of the committee.

"3. I am not able to state at this time the amount that it is proposed to raise and spend in the election of our ticket. I am endeavoring to establish a budget which I expect to complete shortly.

"4. We propose to place a reasonable limit upon contributions for the campaign. We do not propose to collect money from corporations, inasmuch as corporations are not permitted by law to contribute to campaign funds.

"5. We will be pleased to respond to whatever arrangement your committee desires with reference to making reports of contributions, names and addresses, and official positions, if any.

"Taking into account the conditions under which a national campaign is necessarily conducted, involving contributions at different places over the country, and the time and expense in making the report, we would suggest that a method be adopted hereby a report be filed on or before Sept. 15 for transactions taking place before Sept. 1, and that a report be filed on or before Oct. 1 for transactions prior to Sept. 15, and so on every fifteen days until the end of the campaign, and thereafter at such time as your committee may fix for a complete report. This arrangement will be more convenient, will give time for collecting the necessary data for reporting and will give the required information more accurately and at reasonable intervals.

"6—We will furnish from time to time such information as may come to our knowledge with reference to the inquiry contained in the sixth paragraph of your letter.

"We are gratified to know that this investigation is to go forward, and it is our desire to cooperate with you in every way in order that the purposes of your committee may be served to your satisfaction.

"Very truly yours,
"WILLIAM M. BUTLER."

No Limit Decision Reached.

"Have you given any consideration to the 'reasonable' limitation to be placed upon individual campaign contributions?" Mr. Butler was asked.

"No decision has been reached," he replied. "But whatever amount is fixed will be one that will appeal to the public as reasonable."

"Have you received any suggestion from Senator Borah as to what would be a 'reasonable' limitation?" was asked.

"None," was the reply.

Mr. Butler announced that the Eastern fighting base of the Republican National Committee would be established at 2 West Forty-sixth Street, where the fifth and sixth floors are being made ready for the National Committee. He said that he was not yet in a position to announce who would be the Eastern campaign manager, but expected to announce his selection before leaving the city at the end of this week. It is expected that Charles D. Hilles, Republican National Committeeman, will be an important factor in the Republican national campaign in the East.

Mr. Butler was in conference yesterday with United States Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire and Representative W. R. Wood of Indiana, who are at the head respectively of the Senatorial and Congressional Campaign Committees. Plans looking to the coordination of the work of these two committees with that of the National Committee in the campaign were being discussed. Owing to the lack of harmony between the Republican Congress and the White House in relation to many features of President Coolidge's legislative program, and the fact that many of the recalcitrant members of the Senate and House of Representatives are candidates for re-election, cooperation between the three committees in the campaign this year may be fraught with difficulties.

While here, Mr. Butler has conferred with National Committeeman Hilles and other State leaders with a view to impressing them with the necessity of putting their best men forward as candidates for Governor and other offices on the State ticket. He feels that while President Coolidge undoubtedly is strong in New York and other Eastern States, an easy victory must not be taken for granted, but every precaution taken against defeat resulting from over-confidence.

Pomeroy to Help Hodges.

William V. Hodges of Denver, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, is at the Biltmore with Chairman Butler. It was announced yesterday that Daniel E. Pomeroy of Englewood, N. J., had been appointed Assistant Treasurer. Mr. Pomeroy, who has been active in Republican politics in New Jersey, is a Director of the Bankers Trust Company, Chairman of the Finance Committee and director of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company, and a director of the following corporations: Blossburg Coal Company, Buyrus Company, J. G. White Management Corporation, Loew's Incorporated, New York, Susquehanna & Western Coal Company, Northwestern Mining and Exchange Company and Pennsylvania Coal Company.

Mr. Butler announced that he had appointed Mrs. Charlotte Farrar, associate leader of the Tenth Assembly District in Manhattan, Assistant Secretary of the Republican National Committee. Mrs. Farrar was Executive Secretary of the Women's Division of the Republican National Committee in the campaign four years ago.

Both Mrs. Farrar and Mr. Pomeroy will have offices at the Eastern headquarters of the Republican National Committee in this city.

SAYS LEAGUE GAINS IN ROLE OF ARBITER

Dr. de Visscher of Ghent Declares It Is Superseding Old Diplomacy in Europe.

NEW ATTITUDE OF NATIONS

He Cites as Sign the Faith Expressed by New Governments in Britain and France.

CHICAGO, July 16.—"Never since the conclusion of the peace treaties has the League of Nations appeared as clearly as the agency best fitted for any attempt at international stabilization," said Dr. Charles de Visscher of the University of Ghent in summing up in a lecture today before the Institute of International Politics, given under the Harris Memorial Foundation at the University of Chicago.

Dr. de Visscher referred to "the incompetence of traditional diplomatic methods to solve the great European problems," saying:

"The day came when this failure was evident; it was the day when among the powers of the Entente themselves it was believed that the system of open verbal discussion—the system of the conference—could be replaced by the old system of diplomatic notes.

"A long series of diplomatic notes were exchanged between London and Paris concerning the reparations question, and the results were only empty legal controversies. They embittered feeling between these two friendly nations; they have not advanced by a single step the solution of the question.

"In France, as in England, the new Governments established after the recent elections have expressed their faith in the League of Nations, and their desire to give it a more important rôle in the settlement of European affairs."

Dr. de Visscher referred to the occupation of Corfu and the assassination of the Italian military authorities at Janina as questions in which "the League has effectively contributed to the maintenance of peace."

"For the first time in the history of the world," he said, "an exceptionally serious question of national honor was brought up for debate in a public assembly. This was done not several months after the events but at the very moment they were happening. One must be blind to deny the progress shown by the applications of such methods to European affairs."

League's Meaning to Small States.

The lecturer discussed the fact that the League offers to small States the only ground where their collective peaceful action can be exercised in a directly effective manner, as well as a legal basis for resisting dangerous proposals on the part of great powers. He also pointed out the influence which the League exercises over public opinion within States, and the way in which it changes the viewpoint of statesmen and diplomats.

"By the system of the protection of minorities," he said, "the League of Nations makes an effort to lessen and gradually to suppress the political agitations which can serve as pretexts for wars.

"Daily political experience demonstrates the constantly increasing danger of economic antagonism, that is, the commercialism subservient to political aims. The League of Nations has established a series of technical organizations in which are joined the representatives of all the member States, organizations which have for their aim to guarantee, according to the terms of the covenant of the League, freedom of communications and an equitable treatment of commerce."

Taking up the problem of security, Dr. de Visscher stressed the progress gained from its public treatment, citing the replies of nations in the report of the Commission on Reduction of Armaments.

"There is opposition of ideas," he said, "but it is indisputable that we find them treated very frankly and openly. * * * one of the signs which mark the beginning of international supervision in Europe.

Growth of International Control.

"I understand by international supervision the act of submitting either to collective diplomatic negotiations or to an international organization, be it executive or judiciary, the settlement of questions which the States have considered up to this day under their exclusive jurisdiction, and which consequently each one insisted on settling with complete independence.

"The entire activity of the League of Nations is directed against the excesses of this absolutist or narrower individualistic conception of soverign rights.

"Occasionally it is the old spirit which is victorious and the League of Nations meets with failure. However, in contrast with these public failures the League of Nations has met with successes which it has been obliged to keep silent. A success on the part of the League of Nations means nearly always the abandoning of certain claims by a Government; wisdom demands that the success achieved be not advertised for fear of injuring national feelings."

Detailing the method of settling the Corfu affair, in which the League Council proposed the basis of the decision given by the Conference of Ambassadors, the lecturer said:

"International conscience spoke at this moment at Geneva, and the desire for peace of the fifty States then represented in the Assembly won out over the menaces of a warlike nationalism."

In discussing the judicial element in international control, he said:

"The Permanent Court of International Justice has fully realized all the hopes which have been placed in it. The Court can rule only according to international law, and there are many disputes to which no rule of international law is applicable. The jurisdiction of the Court has therefore its natural limits; but it must be admitted that within these limits its authority is steadily increasing."

Sees Change in Public Opinion.

"Gradually public opinion is becoming conscious of the change which is in progress," the speaker continued. "I admit that the action of the League of Nations has up to the present been far from finding in public opinion adequate support. It is often opposed by ignorance and by indifference. In Europe, just as everywhere else, public opinion is slow to realize these things; questions of internal politics always occupy the public mind to a greater extent than the great international problems.

"There are countries, of which Belgium is one, which are preoccupied above all with questions of national security. While they are completely sympathetic with the work pursued by the League of Nations, these coutries have not yet found in the League adequate guarantees against possible invasion.

"It is certain that never since the conclusion of the peace treaties has the League of Nations appeared so clearly as the agency best fitted for any attempt at international stabilization.

"In a Europe still profoundly agitated by war hatred the League of Nations is the centre, the rallying point of all peaceful forces."

Then reviewing the methods of settling disputes utilized by small States under the League Covenant and the influence of the League upon public opinion within the States, Dr. de Visscher said:

"They now find in the provisions of the Covenant a legal basis for their action; the Covenant has given them a platform. It has thus placed in their hands the most powerful instrument for bringing the people to a better understanding of international affairs."

Pleads for Education of Statesmen.

In conclusion Dr. de Visscher made a plea for education not only of the masses but of statesmen and diplomats.

"Still more often than the public," he said, "they are inclined to believe only in material force and to underestimate the permanent value of moral principles. Their fear of accepting responsibility disposes them to a spirit of distrust, leading to intrigues and often discouraging or checking attempts at frank and open discussion.

"The League of Nations frees them from the atmosphere of secrecy of the traditional diplomacy, or it frees them from the more clamorous and still more dangerous surroundings of national Parliaments.

"We feel that their language is changing; they are brought to the point of making declarations which gradually commit them more and more deeply; little by little they enter thus into the international spirit which is the very essence of the League of Nations.

"It has scarcely been five years since the League of Nations was founded. It was established in a period of stress and of international anarchy; to a certain extent it still shows the marks of these unfavorable conditions existing at the time of its origin. Nevertheless, in spite of everything, it is for Europe the only light in the midst of darkness to guide the efforts of men of good-will.

"Allow me to conclude by these words which the Belgian delegates spoke when closing the session of the first Geneva Assembly: 'We have given to the world a great hope; the world will never forsake it.'"

PUBLISHER IS ARRESTED.

Wife Says C. H. Young Tried to Seize Baby in Her Apartment.

Courtland H. Young, President of the company which publishes Young's Magazine and other periodicals, was arrested yesterday afternoon after creating a disturbance in the apartment house at 173 West Ninety-fourth Street. His wife, Dorothy Campbell Young, from whom he is separated, lives there with their three-year-old daughter Rosabelle.

Patrolman Charles Johnson of the West 100th Street Station was called to the house shortly after 1 o'clock. He found Young in the midst of a group of excited tenants, who had been attracted by a scuffle in Mrs. Young's apartment. The latter told the police that her husband had rushed into the apartment and attempted to seize the baby from its bed, where it had been confined by an attack of whooping cough.

The Youngs were separated in May, 1923, when the wife accused the husband of cruelty. Since that time, she said, she has supported herself and her daughter by appearing in fashion shows. Young refused to discuss the case. He gave his address as an apartment house at Broadway and Seventy-eighth Street. He was removed to the West Forty-seventh Street Station, where he was laetr bailed out by his brother, Bonanzo Young, to appear in court today.

Coolidge to fill, and one of the Judges of the District Court will unquestionably be elevated to the vacant position. Those in line, any one of whom may be chosen, are Judge Learned Hand, Judge A. N. Hand and Judge John R. Hazel of Buffalo.

Declared Craig in Contempt.

Julius M. Mayer was brought prominently before the public a few months ago when the United States Supreme Court upheld his decision declaring Controller Charles M. Craig in contempt of court, and it appeared for a while that the Controller would have to spend some time in the Essex County Jail in New Jersey. At that time Judge Mayer was the centre of a storm of criticism, which only died down when President Coolidge pardoned Mr. Craig.

The Judge, who is short and stocky, was born in New York Sept. 5, 1865, and was graduated from the College of the City of New York, after which he spent two years in the Law School of Columbia. He was admitted to the bar in 1888. He became interested in politics and was one of the "old guard" workers in the Republican Party in this city for many years. He was elected President of the regular Republican organization in what was then the Twenty-eighth Assembly District, and as Chairman of the Law Committee of the Republican County Committee in New York County won many important election contests for his party in the courts.

Judge Mayer was always a fighter and nearly always in a contest of some sort. He was a strong adherent of Senator Thomas C. Platt, and in 1895, when Mayor Strong contended that Senator Platt was trying to undermine him, Mayer was in the forefront of the battle between the two. In consequence, in 1897 Strong for a while refused to swear in Mayer when the latter was appointed counsel to the Constable Building Commission. In a Low Administration a somewhat similar situation occurred, with Mayer as the centre of a political fight between Platt and the Mayor.

State Attorney General in 1903.

Mayor Low appointed Mayer as Judge of the Court of Special Sessions to succeed William Travers Jerome, who became District Attorney. With the backing of Senator Platt Mayer became Attorney General of the State in 1903. He instituted the litigation against the Equitable Life Assurance Society which kept the insurance world in a turmoil for some years. During his administration he defended the franchise tax law.

In 1911 Judge Mayer began a fight against Samuel S. Koenig, County Chairman of the New York Republican organization. The fight was an intense one, but Koenig won. The next year President Taft appointed Mayer to the Federal bench and in 1922 President Harding elevated him from the District Court to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

On the Federal bench his career has been marked with some spectacular cases. It was he who held that the sinking of the Lusitania was an act of piracy. It was he, too, who appointed the receivers for the B. R. T. and the Manhattan surface car lines, and he presided at the trial of Prof. Scott Nearing, one of the leading anti-conscriptionists during the war.

There has passed through his court a vast amount of litigation of various kinds, and the handling of cases in admiralty, bankruptcy, patent proceedings and kindred subjects has given Judge Mayer a high standing among lawyers. At one time during the war when a large number of draft cases were brought before him his life was threatened, and for a while he was guarded by six detectives.

Judge Mayer's Partners.

The firm with which Judge Mayer is to be connected is a new one, occupying new offices which cover an entire floor at 247 Park Avenue, at Forty-sixth Street. The present head of the firm, Frederick Parkman Warfield, has been widely known as a patent attorney for many years. The junior member of the firm is Leonard A. Watson. Both men are graduates of Hamilton College.

Mr. Warfield was first connected with the United States Patent Office at Washington as an examiner. With Charles H. Duell, in 1901 he came to New York and formed the law firm of Duell, McGrath & Warfield. Mr. Duell had been Commissioner of Patents. He withdrew from the firm when appointed an Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia by President Roosevelt. Judge Duell later resigned from the bench and was again associated with Mr. Warfield in the firm of Duell, Warfield & Duell, of 2 Rector Street.

The firm moved uptown to Forty-fourth Street. It continued in business after Judge Duell died, but was dissolved early this year, when the new firm of Warfield & Watson was formed and took the offices on Park Avenue, which are not yet fully fitted up. Judge Mayer while on the Federal bench has handled, it is said, the bulk of the patent and trade-mark litigation in the Southern District of New York.

ATTACKS NEW PLAN FOR TROLLEY LINES

WOULD HOLD SHARES

More Valuable Than Securities Offered Under New York Railways Reorganization, Circular Says.

As a result of a recent meeting of the Stockholders' Protective Committee, representing the minority interest stockholders in the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company, a circular letter is being mailed today to all such stockholders advising them to hold aloof from the reorganizing plan of the New York Railways Company, which plan already has been approved by the Federal Court and by the State Transit Commission.

The minority stockholders who are addressed hold 8,968 shares of the stock of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company, as against the 14,002 shares which are held by the New York Railways Company, constituting its controlling interest. The minority holders are advised not to exchange their holdings, which are asserted to be more valuable than the securities proposed in the reorganization plan of the New York Railways Company.

Coincident with this action, Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer yesterday appointed Nathaniel A. Elsberg a special master to hear complaints of those opposed to the reorganization plan. Those most bitterly opposed to the plan are the minority stockholders now being circularized. The term of the court for further adjudication has been extended to July 1, 1929.

The circular letter now being sent to Broadway and Seventh Avenue's minority stockholders follows:

To the Minority Stockholders of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company:

The plan of reorganization of the New York Railways Company is about to be issued which will include an offer of an exchange of securities in the new company for the minority stock of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company.

The legal position of the stockholders of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company is not changed by the reorganization of the New York Railways Company. They are still holders of stock in the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company, which is an independent railroad corporation in full ownership of its property and franchises. The omission of the stockholders of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company to accept the securities of the reorganized corporation of the New York Railways Company offered in exchange for their stock will not change their legal position.

They are therefore confronted with a practical question the decision of which depends upon the respective values of the stock of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company and the securities offered in exchange.

In the opinion of your committee the present and prospective value of the stock of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company is greater than the present and prospective value of the income bonds and stock of the reorganized corporation of the New York Railways Company which are to be offered in exchange.

In justification of this opinion a copy of the "Objections to the Plan of Reorganization" filed by counsel for this committee with the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York will be enclosed. The Court approved the "plan of reorganization," but inserted in the decree a proviso that nothing in it required the stockholders of any lessor company to accept the offer of an exchange of securities or deprived them of their right to retain their stock.

For these reasons this committee does not recommend the acceptance of the offer of an exchange of securities proposed in the plan of reorganization.

On the 13th day of May, 1890, the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad leased its system and at the time of the appointment of the receiver of the New York Railways Company, March 20, 1919, this lease was owned by that company.

On Jan. 14, 1924, the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York granted an order directing the receiver not to adopt as an asset of the estate of the New York Railways Company this lease, but directing the receiver of the New York Railways Company to continue the operation of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad system and also providing that upon the termination of the receivership of the New York Railways Company the reorganized corporation of the New York Railways Company, at the request of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company or its receiver unless otherwise ordered by the court, would continue the operation of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad system until this operation was terminated either by the reorganized corporation or by the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company.

The basis of the allocation of earnings and expenses as between the receiver of the New York Railways Company and the receiver of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company is to be determined in an action for an accounting which has been commenced by the receiver of the New York Railways Company and is now pending in the United States District Court.

The committee and its counsel will continue their efforts to protect the interests of the minority stockholders in the action for the accounting betweeen the receiver of the New York Railways Company and the receiver of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company to which reference has been made above as well as in other respects.

YOSEMITE PARK MUSEUM.

Gift of $75,500 by the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial.

The first museum to be installed in any American national park will be placed in Yosemite as the result of an appropriation made by the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial. Announcement to that effect was made yesterday by C. R. Richards, director of the American Association of Museums, 41 Broadway. The sum of $75,500 has been set aside for the erection of a museum which will serve visitors as an introduction and guide to the natural treasures of the region.

The gift comes as the result of a suggestion by the American Association of Museums, which recommended that the first be established in Yosemite, and that others be added in the Yellowstone, Lafayette, Petrified Forest and Mesa Verde national parks.

The Rockefeller Memorial provides $50,000 for a building, $10,000 for equipping it, and $15,500 for salaries, an item which it is said will be assumed by the United States Government in three years. Dr. Herman C. Bumpus, former director of the Museum of Natural History, is Chairman of a subcommittee which will plan the museum and its exhibits.

Cape May Pier Fee Abolished.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 16.—The City Commissioners voted today to lift the admission fee of 25 cents to the Convention Hall Pier. Citizens had threatened to circulate a petition for the recall of the Mayor and Commissioner. Mayor Frank M. Mecray had disapproved of charging an admission fee to the pier, but George Wentzell, Director of Public Buildings, and Commissioner Charles York are said to have favored the measure. Residents joined with visitors in boycotting the pier.

YOUNG WOOD TELLS MONTE CARLO LUCK

General's Son Said to Have Written Manila Friend He Made "Over Half a Million."

POSSIBLY IN FRANCS ONLY

Former Lieutenant Osborne C. Wood, youngest son of Governor-General Leonard Wood of the Philippines, whose successful Wall Street exploits netting him $700,000 last Fall caused a stir, has made a clean-up at Monte Carlo, according to advices from Manila.

The amount of young Wood's winnings is given as "over half a million," but whether this sum represents dollars or francs was not stated. The young man seems to have given the bank at the Riviera resort a heavy blow, if Manila newspaper reports are to be believed. According to The Manila Times, a story of his deals was contained in a letter from Wood to a friend in Manila, received about June 1.

That Osborne C. Wood's financial operations have been genuine and that he has a great aptitude for speculative finance is the testimony of those who have come into personal contact with the youth. It is assumed that his operations at Monte Carlo have been based on a system which he has worked out carefully.

When interviewed by a New York Times representative in Manila in December, Osborne C. Wood admitted that he had resorted to "pyramiding" in his operations, but he has never divulged the details of his system. While operating in the New York stock market in Manila, he advised several friends to follow tips, and almost invariably his suggestions proved winners, it is understood.

Unfounded reports in the American press that Governor General Wood was concerned in Lieutenant Wood's operations have deeply hurt the latter. Before leaving the Philippines a few months ago he had ceased his activities in Wall Street in compliance with his father's wishes. He has repeatedly expressed in public his resentment over the manner in which his own personal affairs were connected with the public life of his father.

Outside of the realm of speculative finance, Osborne Wood's business ability seems to be of no exceptional order. When he left Manila his personal affairs were found to be in such condition that his attorney, Sidney C. Schwarzkopf, had to make a special trip to Singapore to consult him about them. Young Wood is apparently so busy making his thousands in Wall Street that details involving small sums were of no moment to him.

George Wood is said to be fond of the easy pleasant life of the tropics and has expressed his intention of returning there. He has acquired a pretty estate on Mandolayan Island, near Manila, where he entertained his friends. In a quiet way he has been devoting some of his money to charity. For instance, the head gardener on his estate is a discharged Filipino leper who found it difficult to obtain employment. When young Wood heard of the man's plight he found work for him on his own place.

General Wood is very fond of his son, whose amiability has served him in good stead as personal aid to his father. While some of the native leaders were making every effort to oust General Wood, the rank and file of the Filipinos in high position were on good terms with the Lieutenant. He was a sort of liaison officer between the office of the Governor General and the disgruntled Filipino element, and he was helpful in patching up the break in Philippine political life last Summer.

FORCE 10,000 PERSONS TO BE VACCINATED

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 16.—After 10,000 persons had been vaccinated as a precaution against smallpox, quarantine covering a district of three streets in Woodland and Central Avenues was lifted tonight by Health Commissioner Harry L. Rockwood.

A small army of physicians and nurses engaged in the work. The quarantine began before daylight today with the roping off of all traffic and a police guard of seventy-five men remained in charge.

The wholesale vaccination was performed because of the discovery of two "walking cases" of smallpox in the territory Tuesday.

In one apartment alone 600 received treatment, and 800 pupils in a high school bared their arms to the needle.

The list of vaccinated included babies in arms, old men and women, drivers of the wagons and other vehicles, mail carriers, messenger boys and any one else who had business within the restricted area.

Dr. Rockwood issued a public statement declaring that there is "no epidemic of smallpox in Cleveland nor any great danger of one, but there is an epidemic of vaccination to prevent an epidemic of smallpox."

PITTSBURGH, July 16.—One new case of smallpox was reported to city health authorities here today, making a total of 46 cases recorded since the disease first appeared a month ago. Nine of the victims died.

Thousands of persons are being vaccinated daily at the City-County Building and at emergency health stations established in all sections of the city and Allegheny County. Hospitals have posted orders under which only persons who have been innoculated may visit patients confined in the institutions. County authorities have placed a ban on all visitors at the workhouse and the county home.

HAD LOEB'S BROTHER ON LIST OF VICTIMS

Slayers of Franks Feared by Families Who Do Not Want Them Freed.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard A. Loeb, awaiting trial on Aug. 4 for kidnapping and slaying Robert Franks, once considered Ernest Loeb, the eleven-year-old brother of Richard, as a victim of their search for a thrill, according to defense attorneys.

"For this reason there is no one who wants to see the boys freed," Clarence S. Darrow, chief of counsel for the defense, said today. "The family and lawyers are actually afraid of the boys, and it is for the sake of society that the parents do not want the boys freed."

The theory of the defense, it is intimated, after numerous examinations by alienists and experts have been completed, is that the killing of the Franks boy was in response to an irresistible mandate of two coincidentally insane impulses. The victim was merely a subject for an emotional experiment in the eyes of the youths, defense attorneys and their alienists say.

Are You as Slow as Ever When there are so many helps for your hands?

It is true that money will not buy as much as it did fifty years ago, but think how much more valuable time is than it used to be.

Think of the telescope, telegraph and telephone, typewriters, tools to work with, automobiles, phonographs, etc.!

It is not impossible for a man or woman to live in one year now as much as in ten years of the times of fifty years ago, and civilization and inventions have not yet exhausted themselves.

What use am I making of the present facilities of life? Am I the same old slow thing, or have I remeasured up to the present opportunities?

"Come along!"

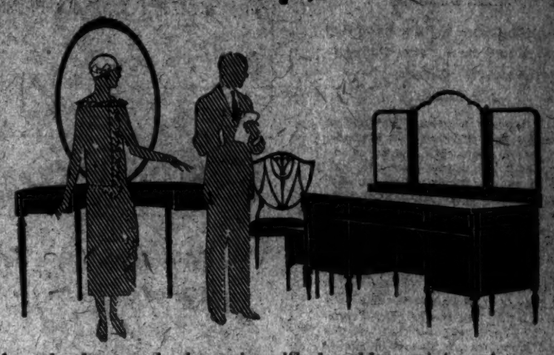
"Here I Am Sitting On Your Doorstep," She Said



At nine o'clock in the morning, as the doors opened for the new August Furniture Sale, the Little Home received its first visitor.

She was no stranger. In April she first came in with her plans. To be married in September, she planned to buy at the August Furniture Sale, with prices 10 to 50 per cent. lower, so as to have her things TWICE as fine as others with less enterprise!

With the help of the Budget Director, she brought her blue prints to the Little Home, and it was estimated that $1,070 would buy what she needed. Then she went home to wait two months for the August Sale to open.

On the very first day of the sale she was back again with her blue prints. A young woman expert from the Home Budget Staff went with her into the furniture galleries to help her to buy. Instead of $1,070, as originally expected, her bill, all told, was $700.

The AUGUST FURNITURE SALE

SPECIALIZED SERVICE—STREET FLOOR—NEW BUILDING

SLAIN DETECTIVE BURIED WITH HONORS

POLICE BAND PLAYS MARCH

During the Services Detectives Continue Search for Two Fugitive Murderers.

Detective Timothy Connell, who was shot to death last Saturday afternoon as he interrupted a hold-up, was buried in Calvary Cemetery yesterday after a ceremony in the Bronx, in which more than 500 policemen and detectives headed by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright took part. Funeral honors usually reserved for Inspectors were accorded to the slain detective. Thousands of people stood bareheaded on the street while the cortège passed.

The street in front of the house at which Connell lived with his brother William, at 76 Clinton Place, was thronged with friends and associates of the dead man when the coffin was borne from the house. With Inspector William H. Van Keuren and Deputy Inspector James Post at the head, the cortège marched to the Church of the Holy Spirit, at Burnside and University Avenues.

The Police Band played a funeral march as the hearse followed. The Police Glee Club, under the command of Lieutenant Patrick Fitzgibbons, cousin of the dead detective, was next in line, and in back was the regular quota of uniformed police required for an Inspector's funeral, two Captains, four Lieutenants, eight Sergeants and ninety-six patrolmen.

Commissioner Enright, accompanied by First Deputy Commissioners John A. Leach, Joseph Faurot, John J. Cray, William Gillespie, Honorary Deputy Commissioners John F. Birmingham and R. A. C. Smith, and Herman Metz, former Controller, and William Todd, marched directly behind the color guard that followed the hearse.

Two coaches bearing the widow and her eight-year-old son, William, with the dead man's brother, William Connell, a warrant officer at the Morrisania Court, with other close relatives, drove ahead of 100 detectives. Inspector John D. Coughlin, director of the Detective Division, led that section with Captains Henry Bruckman and Henry Duane of the Bronx Detective Bureau at his side. More than a hundred other policemen off duty followed.

By the side of the hearse six uniformed patrolmen, the pallbearers, walked with the six honorary pallbearers, Bronx detectives and close friends of Connell. Detective John Coogan, who was with Connell at the time of the fatal shooting and whose well-aimed bullet wounded one of the hold-up men and made the arrest of two of them possible, was one of the honorary pallbearers. The others were Detectives James Flynn, Thomas Lenihan, Denis Murphy, William Stetter and Thomas Sullivan.

Standing near the vestibule of the church, District Attorney John E. McGeehan of the Bronx, who has been directing the search for the detective's slayers, looked for a moment at the ceremony. Then he turned to a friend and said that he had talked with "Chick" Durkin, one of the men arrested for the killing, the afternoon before.

"Durkin shook his head," said the District Attorney as he told me 'the guy I shot was dead game.' And Durkin was right, Connell was dead game."

The mass was celebrated by Father Carlson Burns, assisted by Father Richard J. Pigott and Rudolph Del Zio. A selected group from the Glee Club sang the high mass. The church was filled and many had to stand outside. Father John Coogan, police chaplain, eulogized the detective as a brave, fighting policeman. At the cemetery a bugler blew taps while the casket was lowered into the grave.

While the funeral was being conducted a number of other detectives were engaged in the search for the two men still wanted for the shooting.

AUTO KILLS BOY AT PLAY.

Spring Lake Florist Dies in Collision Near His Home.

John Porzio, 8 years old, of 255 East 118th treet, was killed by a motor truck yesterday. He was playing ball with several other boys in 118th Street near Second Avenue when run down. Henry Goullet of 512 East 119th Street was driving the truck, which is owned by the Michigan Furniture Company of 2,174 Third Avenue. He was arrested on a technical charge of homicide.

Frank P. Erbe, 60 years old, a florist, of 307 Ludlow Avenue, Spring Lake, N. J., was killed yesterday within a block of his home in a collision between the car he was driving and that operated by Mrs. F. W. Harper of Trenton, who has a Summer home at Spring Lake. Both vehicles were overturned by the impact and Erbe was caught in the wreckage. Mrs. Harper's four children were with her in the car. When the crash came she and the children were thrown out but none of them was seriously injured. Mrs. Harper was held later in $1,000 bail on a technical manslaughter charge and placed in the Monmouth County Jail, but was released in the evening when bond was furnished.

Thomas Dixon of 448 West Forty-fifth Street drove a light delivery truck in front of a surface car at Third Avenue and Sixty-first Street last evening, and when the car jammed the vehicle against an elevated pillar Joseph Dixon, 11 years old, brother of the driver, of 454 West Fifty-eighth Street, was pinned in the wreckage. A policeman summoned Hook and Ladder 16, and Captain Joseph Gannon and his men released the boy. It was found the boy had a fractured ankle and bruises and cuts about the head and body.

HOSPITAL CASH MISSING.

Police Hunt Fordham Messenger Who Failed to Deliver $600.

Detectives from the Bronx are looking for Eugene Kearney, who until Monday afternoon was a messenger for Fordham Hospital and lived at the institution. Cosmo O'Neill, superintendent of Fordham, on Monday gave Kearney $600 in cash and $100 in small checks collected from pay patients to take to Dr. George O'Hanlon, superintendent of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals.

Later in the afternoon a messenger boy delivered the small checks to Dr. O'Hanlon. The latter communicated with Fordham and it was asserted by the police that Kearney had stopped in a Western Union office near Bellevue dispatched the checks to their proper destination, and then disappeared with the $600 in cash. Hospital authorities said Kearney had been employed at Fordham less than a year.

ARREST 6 FOR HOLD-UP.

Five Men and a Woman Accused of Yonkers Poolroom Robbery.

Five men and a woman were arrested in an apartment at 127 Greenwich Street last night charged with holding up a Yonkers poolroom on July 4 and robbing the patrons of $5,000. Those arrested, all Chileans, were Josephine Gomez, Louis Opazo, Julio Aaduhaut, Adolf Abalid, all of 127 Greenwich Street; Charles Nenache, 25 South Street, and John Rodriguez.

The raid on the Greenwich Street house was made as the result of an alarm sent out by the Yonkers police. A charge of violating the Sullivan law was placed against the woman.

Luncheon Delight

Cut generous squares of your favorite Phenix Club Cheese—creamy American for the true old-time flavor, cool Pimiento, or Brick for soft mildness, and the sharp, salty tang of Swiss for the veteran cheese eater. Serve with fresh, crisp brown doughnuts and cool rich milk or steaming coffee.

Now there is a new kind of cheese that makes doughnuts and cheese even more delicious than it used to be.

Phenix Club Cheese is the new kind of loaf cheese—richer and creamier. Mellowed in a new way, undreamt of by earlier cheesemakers, that gives American, Pimiento, Swiss and Brick Cheese a creamy deliciousness it has never been possible to have in these cheeses before.

Tender and firm, it cuts into appetizing squares all ready to serve. It makes simple lunches like this old favorite hearty enough for eager appetites. Serve it, too, for the family meal.

COMMISSION ORDERS WIDE RATE INQUIRY

538 LINES ARE AFFECTED

Intrastate Rates Will Not Be Touched, but Advice of State Boards Will Be Sought.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—A sweeping investigation of class freight rates within official territory, covering all of the East and Central section of the country, was ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The order names 538 interstate rail and water carriers, including all of the principal lines of New England, the East and the Central section of the country, including the New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Grand Trunk, Santa Fe, Canadian Pacific, Central of New Jersey, Illinois Central, Norfolk & Western and New Haven lines.

At the offices of the commission it was stated that at the request of carriers operating within official territory and of many interested shippers, the commission had instituted this investigation. Its scope has been made somewhat broader than originally contemplated by the requests received.

While the class rate scales within Central and New England territories have been fixed by the commission and are not subject to the same criticism, the order of investigation has been made broad enough to cover these class rates so that it may be possible to make such adjustments in them as may prove desirable in order that they may be properly linked to whatever class rates are prescribed as the result of the investigation in other parts of official territory.

The order covers "interstate class rates and the charges resulting therefrom." This should not, however, be construed as including classificating rating or rules, exceptions to the classification or minimum carload weights.

While intrastate rates have not been included within the scope of the investigation, the commission appreciates the desirability of harmony between the intrastate and interstate rates, and will seek the advice and help of the State commissions in carrying on the investigation.

The dates and points at which hearings will be held will later be announced.

Text of Commission's Order.

The order of the commission follows:

It appearing that in many instances interstate class rates between points in trunk line territory, between points in said territory and points in Central and New England territories, and between points in Central territory and points in New England territory are higher for shorter than for longer distances over the same line or route; that the relationship to first class of the rates on the lower classes varies greatly in many of the different class rate scales or adjustments now in effect in official classification territory, particularly in trunk line territory, and that undue prejudice and preference may exist among persons and localities affected thereby;

It further appearing that all applications filed by carriers to continue their aforesaid interstate class rates which are higher for shorter than for longer distances over the same line or route, all-rail, or partly by rail and partly by water, have been denied by Fourth section order No. 8,914, fourth section departures in E. T. L. territory, 89 I. C. C., 470.

It further appearing that a general revision of said interstate class rates to bring them into conformity with Section four of the Interstate Commerce act is necessary, that representatives of interested shippers and carriers serving said territories have joined in a request for an investigation of said rates by this commission;

It further appearing that there is a more or less close relationship between said rates and the remaining class rates between points in official classification territory, making it difficult to deal effectively with a portion of said rates without having under consideration the remainder; and,

It further appearing that such an investigation would be in the public interest;

It is ordered, That a proceeding of investigation and inquiry be, and it is hereby, instituted by this commission into and concerning the class rates applicable on interstate commerce all rail, and or partly by rail and partly by water, between points in official classification territory, including the charges resulting therefrom, with a view to determining whether said rates and charges are unreasonable, or are unduly prejudicial to or unduly preferential of particular localities, persons, or descriptions of traffic, or are otherwise unlawful, and to making such findings and order or orders as may be proper in the premises.

The order then names 538 carriers covered by the proposed investigation.

HEAVY RAINS CHECK SOME FOREST FIRES

But Eastern Washington, Northern Idaho and California Have Not Conquered Flames.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 16.—Eastern Washington, Northern Idaho and California today were continuing their battle against forest fires, but rains in Western Washington and Oregon had nearly ended the fire menace there.

Fires in Northern Idaho and Northeastern Washington last night had burned over several thousand acres of timberland and had destroyed the surface workings of four mines, a number of ranch houses and much property of lumber companies, including several hundred thousand feet of timber. So far as known no lives have been lost, although a number of persons have been injured and some live stock killed. Four persons are missing in British Columbia.

Flames were close enough to seven towns in the Pend Oreille River Valley to cause anxiety to the inhabitants. In some places ranchers had loaded their belongings on railroad cars in preparation for a quick getaway. The surface buildings of the Nabob, Jim Blaine, Little Pittsburg and Douglas mines, near Kellogg, Idaho, have been destroyed.

In the Santa Barbara National Forest in California last night fire fighting crews succeeded in throttling the western advance of the flames to a comparatively narrow front between Sawpill and Sawtooth Mountains, only to receive word that a fresh outbreak had been discovered at Oak Grove, a mile north of the main fire line. The flames there were being fanned by a stiff wind.

A new fire in the Angeles National Forest, also in California, in the San Gabriel range, between Mount Lowe and Mount Wilson, burned over thirty acres, but was controlled last night.

A soaking rain late yesterday, following showers on Monday, virtually extinguished all small fires in Western Washington and brought the more menacing blazes under control. Fire Warden J. M. Digby of King County, Washington, said that one more good rain would settle fire worries in that vicinity for the present.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The aid of the Federal Government in fighting forest fires in California was offered Governor Richardson today by President Coolidge, who sent the Governor this telegram:

"Have noticed with deep concern the reports of the growing destruction from forest fires in your State. I trust you will advise me if effective aid can properly be extended by the Federal Government."

BROADWAY TEMPLE PLANS.

Swimming Pool Under Auditorium, Bowling Alley Above It.

Rolling partitions and multifolding doors which will make it possible to throw auditorium and swimming pool together under the place of worship and open bowling alleys above it, are among the novel features designed for the proposed Broadway Temple, the $4,000,000 combination skyscraper church and apartment house planned by Dr. Christian F. Reisner, pastor of Chelsea Methodist Episcopal Church. Detailed plans of the Broadway Temple were made public yesterday by its architect, Donn Barber, 101 Park Avenue.

The skyscraper church is to be erected between 173d and 174th Streets on Broadway, is to have a sub-basement for mechanical equipment; above that a spacious assembly hall seating 800; also a gymnasium and swimming pool. It will be equipped with a stage and moving picture booth. Spaces under and on a level with the balcony of the assembly hall are to be convertible into class and meeting rooms by means of partitions and folding doors.

The church auditorium, seating 2,200, will be in the form of a cross, with balconies on three sides.

ASKS WRIT OVER IRISH FUND

De Valera Wants Free State Enjoined From Suing in Ireland.

Supreme Court Justice Burr reserved decision yesterday on a motion to enjoin the Irish Free State from bringing to trial before the High Court of Justice in Ireland a suit to obtain possession of $2,000,000 collected through the sale of the bonds of the Irish Republic. The motion was made by Martin Conboy and by John Finnerty of Washington, who represent Eamon de Valera and Stephen O'Mara. William C. Cannon, as counsel for the Free State, opposed it.

Mr. Conboy contended that any verdict rendered in Ireland would merely complicate matters, as a suit to determine whether the funds belong to the Irish Free State is now pending here before Justice Wagner and will not be decided before Fall. He also said that, as the money is held in this country, an Irish court decision could not obtain possession of it without a similar action here.

The name of John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President of the United States, appears on the record as attorney for the Garfield Safe Deposit Company, the Central Union Safe Deposit Company and the Harriman National Bank, which now hold the funds.

WHEAT BOOMS HERE AND IN CANADA

Chicago Has a Wild Day Based on Reports of Damage on Both Sides of Border.

WINNIPEG WATCHES RISE

Reduction of Wheat Crop in Canadian Provinces Figured at 30 Per Cent.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Reports of serious damage to the Canadian wheat crop in three Provinces and stories of hot winds in the American Northwest caused a wave of speculative buying today on the Board of Trade, and this raised prices 5 and 5¼ cents from the early low mark for wheat to a new high on the crop. The closing trades were at net gains of 3½ to 3¾ cents.

The trade in wheat was on an immense scale, with wide fluctuations. So heavy did business become toward the last that many commission houses were unable to report execution of buying and selling orders until after the close.

There was scattered selling early on reports of rain in some parts of the Canadian Northwest, but the break was short and the surplus was taken off the market by strong commission houses.

While there were soaking rains at some places in Canada, it is said that others received no rain and further deterioration was reported there. Each day of dry and hot weather was regarded by the trade as further reducing the yield of wheat. This belief was apparently confirmed by the action of Winnipeg, which advanced the price of wheat 3⅝ to 4¼ cents, gaining fractionally on Chicago. Liverpool finished 2⅞ to 3¼d lower, that market closing before the bulge in this country got under way.

Other new crop futures were taken on a big scale by commission houses and shorts, and cord advanced to 90 cents for December and 91¼ cents for May, a new high on the crop. The finish was at the top, with net gains of 3⅝ to 5 cents.

The advance in corn was in the face of Government and private reports suggesting an improvement in the outlook for the new crop. Except during the war period prices for cash corn and futures are the highest on record.

Canada Figures 30 Per cent. Reduction.

Special to The New York Times.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 16.—All grain crops in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are backward this year owing to the continued drought during May, June and part of July, and it is estimated that a falling off of 30 per cent. will result in wheat alone. Manitoba and southern parts of the two other provinces, are in the best shape, but central and northern Saskatchewan and Alberta have suffered severely in the past three weeks from drought, high temperatures and wind.

Manitoba as a whole seems to be in the best condition. Special reports received yesterday by the Manitoba Free Press from nearly 300 central points are summarized as follows:

"There is little complaint made from Manitoba points; the crop is admittedly about two weeks later than last year, but present conditions are quite favorable, and with showers from now till harvest to enable the heads to fill out, a good average yield may be expected. In Saskatchewan and Alberta conditions south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway may be said to be fairly good, but working north in both provinces conditions gradually become worse and many points in Central and Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta report conditions as serious, and several points state that rain must be received immediately to even get seed back.

"Wheat in Manitoba appears to be about two feet in height on the average, practically all past the shot blade stage, and is about 50 per cent. in head. With one exception, every point reports having received rain during the last three weeks, and while a few points state moisture is badly needed, the majority report showers would be helpful, while others state there is sufficient moisture for the time being."

"Only slight damage in isolated districts is reported from cutworms or other insects, and there has been no damage from hail or other sources. The wheat crop is estimated from ten days to two weeks later than last year, but is in good condition. The coarse grains are mostly fair and healthy, a few districts patchy with more rain needed, but general conditions can be said to be very favorable.

"The average height of wheat in Saskatchewan is about sixteen inches, with an average of 70 per cent. in the shot blade, and about 40 per cent. in head. The rainfall during the last three or four weeks has been very light, many districts receiving practically none, while practically every point admits that good soaking rains are badly needed.

"Compared with last year, the condition of the wheat crop is late and unfavorable; crops are undoubtedly suffering from the drought in large, important areas, and a largely decreased yield is in prospect. The coarse grains are little better than the wheat, late, thin and suffering from drouth, but it is stated that immediate rains would greatly benefit coarse grains. Many correspondents state the situation is discouraging.

"The average height of wheat in Alberta runs from six inches to two feet. About 95 per cent. is in the shot blade and possibly 50 per cent. in head. Conditions in Southern Alberta are good, having received light rains during the past few weeks, but more moisture is needed. In Central and Northern Alberta the amount of moisture received the last three weeks has been extremely light, and with high temperatures the crops have suffered severely and present conditions are serious, and much below that of last year at this time. Coarse grains are given from poor to fair."

Since these reports were received several points in Northern Alberta and Saskatchewan have reported light rainfalls, but almost every district is in need of heavy rains to promote growth and overcome the setback of the drought.

The change in weather, with its light showers and forecasts for a cool, cloudy spell, has raised the hopes of crop improvement in the West, however, and farmers who were beginning to despair of an average yield are watching and praying for continuation of rain.

RUSSIAN CROP FALLS OFF.

Grain Estimate Drops 200,000,000 Poods in Two Weeks.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, July 16.—A harvest estimate considerably lower than that of a fortnight ago was given yesterday to the Presidium of the Supreme Economic Council by M. Popoff of the Soviet Statistical Bureau. Against the earlier figure of 2,700,000,000 poods—about 40,000,000 above the crop of 1922—M. Popoff put the July 14 estimate at 2,600,000,000, or a decrease of nearly 200,000,000. [A pood is equivalent to 36 pounds.]

He added, moreover, that a further decrease is likely if the present unfavorable weather conditions continue. This would put the final total around 2,500,000,000.

After the exporting of nearly 200,000,000 poods of last year's crop there remains today a surplus of 62,000,000, which shows an even lower estimate, for the present year carries no risk of internal shortage. But this also shows there would be no margin for export were it not for the fact that this year all of rubles will be paid in cash instead of under last year's mixed system, which produced 200,000,000 poods in kind.

Higher prices are likely to prevail in consequence of the reduced crop. M. Popoff expects the average price to be 75 copeks per pood as against 50 copeks last year. This will enable the peasants to pay the cash tax without difficulty and higher prices abroad, which will probably result from the reduced crop in the United States, will encourage them to sell grain abroad through the cooperatives.

For this reason it is therefore premature to conclude that there will be no Russian grain on the world market in the coming twelve-month. On the contrary, THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed that the cooperatives and State organizations are planning to export not less than 100,000,000 poods.

At the same time the State, having all cash from the tax instead of partly in kind, will be a purchaser of vegetables and meat for the army and navy instead of giving them a superfluity of bread like last year. Some of these purchases may be made abroad.

Drowned in a Washtub.

PLATTSBURG VETERANS 'BATTLE' AT PERU ROAD

'Reds' and 'Blues' Clash on Ground Made Famous in the War Camps of 1917.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 16.—The Peru Road, famous in song and story at the wartime training camps here in 1917, was the scene of still another fierce engagement today.

Major H. H. Fletcher conducted an outpost and attack problem for the brigade, regimental and battalion staff officers of the 305th Infantry, 77th Division, here on active duty. An old familiar "Red Army" was advancing on Plattsburg, and the "Blues" rushed forces down this famous pike to the Chateaugay branch railroad line to a manoeuvre area where many of these same New York and Brooklyn Reserve officers dug miles of trenches in 1917.

One of these Plattsburg "veterans," now Lieut. Col. William Mack, a New York manufacturer, was adjudged to have submitted one of the shortest and best solutions to the problem of manipulating troops on paper. Colonel Mack incidentally won a D. S. C. at Bazoches on the Vesle River in August, 1918, while fighting with this same 305th Regiment.

Following today's "battle," several of these business men officers spurned the automobile transportation provided and elected to hike the six miles back to camp, led by Lieut. Col. Royal E. Riggs, son of the late Howard G. Riggs, for many years political reporter for The Sun.

A demonstration by an infantry platoon of the Twenty-sixth Infantry will be given to the Reserve Officers tomorrow morning and demonstration firing by machine guns, mortars and one-pounders in the afternoon.

GRIFFITH WITH LASKY.

Producer Signs Contract for More Than $100,000 a Year.

Confirmation was obtained yesterday of the report that David Wark Griffith, the motion picture producer, had signed a contract to produce pictures for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. He is now in Germany engaged in making a photoplay, and as soon as he returns to America he will take up his work in one of the Paramount studios. According to reliable reports Mr. Griffith's salary will be well over $100,000 a year.

Aloph Zukor, President of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, made the announcement that Mr. Griffith had joined the producing forces of his concern. Mr. Zukor said that everything was being held in abeyance until Mr. Griffith returned from Berlin, when the story, location and other production details will be decided by the director himself. Mr. Griffith has been an independent producer for many years. His work on "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Way Down East," "Amerika" and other pictures has done with his own organization. With the Famous Players Mr. Griffith will benefit by having at his command the facilities of a most efficient organization.

An Opera in English.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 16.—The tradition that British composers cannot write successful grand opera was almost swept away by Dr. Vaughan Williams with his opera, "Hugh the Drover," produced by the British National Opera Company. Critics say the composer should have relied more on himself and less on English folksong, which gets monotonous at times, but there is some delightful melody in this charming little opera founded simply on English village life. A novel feature is a combat waged between the hero and the villain with their bare fists, but leaving both breath enough to sing. Mary Lewis, the American opera singer, was the heroine.

A contributory cause of death, Dr. Mord said, might have been an internal hemorrhage, caused by a brutal beating. Dr. Mord said that the man had ruptured the boy's lung and kidney by beating and kicking him, besides scratching him on the face, arms and body.

Escaped Lunatic's Strange Story.

Captain Ernest L. Van Wagner, Chief of Staten Island Detectives, went to Kearny, N. J., last night to question an escaped lunatic caught there yesterday afternoon. This man, Jacob Herman, a farmhand, 55 years old, of Roselle Park, N. J., told a remarkable story.

Herman, who escaped from the Morris Plains State Hospital for the Insane on Monday morning, said that he took the ferryboat from Elizabethport, N. J., to Mariner's Harbor, Staten Island, and spent Monday afternoon and night on Staten Island.

He said that he was walking through the woods in Port Richmond Monday evening when he came across a boy's body on the ground, with something around the neck. When he discovered the boy was dead he ran away. The rest of the night, he said, he slept on a big rock in the woods.

Thus far, the man could have gained all his information from the newspapers. When found, he had in his pocket a newspaper giving an account of the discovery of the McDonnell boy's body.

In addition, however, Herman gave information about the woods which he could only have learned by personal observation, according to Captain Van Wagner. The man described the course of a brook in which he washed his hands and told of a place where the water ran under the sidewalk. He also described a street near the woods which was torn up for a gas main. Captain Van Wagner said the man's description was correct in all details, and that he regarded his story as important.

Herman was detained as an escaped inmate of a State institution. Captain Van Wagner said that he and District Attorney Fatt would question the man again today.

Girl Chased by Elderly Man.

Jennie Carlson, a 17-year-old school girl, whose father is a carpenter, told the police a story about being chased by an old man last Saturday afternoon through the wood in which the McDonnell boy was murdered two days later.

The girl described the man as about 55 years old, unkempt, with gray hair and a thick growth of beard, about five feet six inches tall, and wearing blue trousers, a soiled white shirt and no coat. He was eating something out of both hands, she said, with his face down and his body crunched over like an animal.

As she passed, Miss Carlson said, the man called to her in a foreign tongue, which sounded like Italian. She did not know what he said, but became frightened and ran. According to the girl, the stranger chased her through the woods and fields until she came to a clearing a short distance from her home. Her mother, who came to the door and let the girl in, corroborated this part of the story. The mother said she saw the man running after the girl, and saw him turn around and run back into the woods.

Saw a Foreigner Prowling.

Mrs. Carlson said that she had seen the same man wandering about the vicinity several times during the last two weeks. One day about a week ago, the mother said, she passed him and he spoke to her, also in a tongue that sounded like Italian. Afraid of the man and not wishing to offend him, she said, she replied, "I do not know," and walked on. The man did not follow her.

In questioning Mrs. Carlson and her daughter about the strange man, the police learned that the girl had seen near the rock on which the man was sitting, what looked like a clearing in the woods with a tent made of canvas. Detectives went to this spot, but found nothing except a little cleared space under a tree with branches that drooped almost to the ground, making a natural tent, near a small brook. It appeared from this as if the man who had attacked the McDonnell boy and had frightened Miss Carlson and her mother might have been camping out in the woods for some time before the murder.

The police found two sisters, Elsie and Ella Kide, 11 and 9 years old respectively, who live near the McDonnell home and the woods, and who said that an elderly man had frightened them on Monday, the day Francis was murdered, and on previous occasions in the past few weeks.

Neighbor Saw Elderly Man.

Stern, who lives next to the McDonnell home at 353 Decker Avenue, Port Richmond, is the last person who saw Francis before the boy went into the woods. Stern said yesterday that he saw the lad taking a path that led to the brook near which his body was found. At the same time, Stern went on, he saw peering above a bush, just inside the woods, the face and head of a gray-bearded man, who appeared to be about 60 years old. Stern said he thought the man had a gray mustache and wore a blue shirt and a white collar that seemed very tight. This was about 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, according to Stern.

Mrs. Anna McDonnell, the boy's mother, also told a story in which an elderly man figured. She said that at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, while she and Francis were sitting on the front porch, she saw a man who looked like an old tramp, walking up and down in front of the house, and looking at it in a queer way. According to Mrs. McDonnell, Francis remained on the porch until about 4 o'clock, when he went off to play with some other boys, including his six-year-old brother, Albert.

Francis and Albert went to play with the three sons of Edward J. Donovan, a fireman—Edward Jr., 8; Thomas, 6, and James, 4. They were playing ball in the street, the boys said, when an elderly man beckoned. No one obeyed the summons but Francis, who went over to talk with the man. The other boys did not see where they went, and did not say anything to their parents about the incident until dinner time.

Patrolman Albert McDonnell, the boy's father, smoked a pipe and tried to conceal his grief yesterday as he and his wife told about the boy's actions before going into the woods.

"If his dog 'Pal' had only been with him," the father said, "Francis would never have been killed. 'Pal' would have chewed the leg off that man before he would have let him touch the boy."

Francis was one of four children. Besides Albert, the remaining children are Catherine, 3 years old, and Anabelle, a one-month-old baby.

Similar Crime Eight Years Ago.

Eight years ago a schoolgirl was assaulted and strangled to death in the same woods where Francis McDonnell was murdered. Salvatore Discerbo of Staten Island was arrested after a three weeks' search. He was convicted and sentenced to twenty years in Sing Sing, where he still is, according to District Attorney Fach.

Friends of Harry Hoffman, moving picture operator, convicted and sentenced to Sing Sing recently for twenty years to life imprisonment for the murder of Mrs. Maude Bauer about a mile from the woods where the McDonnell boy was killed, advanced the theory yesterday that both murders were committed by the same person. His friends have insisted all along that Hoffman was innocent of the Bauer murder.

Coming so soon after the Bauer case, the McDonnell murder has aroused Staten Island. An editorial in The Staten Island Advance yesterday afternoon called the killing of the boy "the most atrocious crime in the annals of the island." "Most of us feel" the editorial went on, "that the chair will be far too good for the perpetrator of this deed."

American Stars in Olympic Games

Mid-Week Pictorial for July 17 contains three pages of action pictures and recent poses of American stars now participating in the Olympic Games. Another feature is a large picture, taken from the air, showing a multitude of over half a million people thronging the beaches of Coney Island.

GOLDSTEIN RETAINS TITLE; BEATS LEDOUX

SCORES TWO KNOCKDOWNS

Harlem Boxer Receives Verdict Over Brog—Bienfeld Triumphs Over Breslin.

Championships were not meant for Charlie Ledoux. The fighting Frenchman lost a fifteen-round decision to Champion Abe Goldstein in a title bout at the New York Velodrome last night in what is practically sure to be his last bid for a title. The 32-year-old veteran left the bout, but won the admiration and respect of some 5,000 American boxing fans by as game a stand as has ever been seen in any ring.

At the end the crowd booed and hissed the decision, not because Goldstein had not won, for he did do that from one end of the bout to the other, but because it was the flaming courage of the boy that appealed to what is best in human nature, whether it is in a fight crowd or elsewhere.

It was apparent from the first round that it was Ledoux's intention to try to stay the limit, rather than to win the bout. He must have known, as every one else who saw it knew after those first three minutes, that there was no sting to his punches and that he was an old man battling against youth and vigorous strength. He was retiring in the ring when Goldstein was a New York schoolboy. As far back as 1909 the clean-cut looking Frenchman fought Georges Carpentier when both were bantamweights. Carpentier has grown into a heavyweight. Ledoux is still a little fellow, although he is an old man as ages go in the ring, and whatever snap they ever had has gone out of his blows, but his heart is strong.

He could have quit without disgrace in either the eleventh or fourteenth round, in both of which the champion knocked him down, the first time with a right hook to the jaw for a count of eight and the second with a straight left to the body, which sent him clear outside the ring for a count of four. But Ledoux chose to get up and come back to the attack. His face was bleeding and groggy, but he was game and each time rushed in furiously, swinging his fists and ever charging forward, intent on falling, if he must fall, with his face to the enemy. He said before the fight that it would probably be his last and in all his fifteen years' experience he probably could not find a better one to end on.

It was not a good bout, either from a technical standpoint or because it abounded in action. What action there was was crowded into the eleventh and fourteenth rounds. In either of these Goldstein should have won if Ledoux had been a little less determined or the American a little more aggressive.

Twice the champion had his man at his mercy and twice he failed to put him away. It is hard to tell both times what he was waiting for. Perhaps his opponent's game stand had roused his pity a little, or perhaps he just lacked the dash to rush in and end it. Whatever the reason, the fact remains that Ledoux was practically out on his feet twice and yet escaped the long count.

Crowd Cheers Frenchman.

The crowd was apparently divided in its opinion of the reason. When the final gong had clanged and the decision had been rendered, some cheered Ledoux and the others jeered the champion for what at best was not an impressive showing. Goldstein had nothing in the world to fear from the other's punches. He was his superior in height, reach, strength, everything. All that Ledoux took in the ring was a stout heart and some ability to cover up and duck and dodge Goldstein's hardest blows.

In the first few rounds, by crouching and leaping in unexpectedly and by keeping his head well covered at all times, Ledoux managed to keep things on a fairly even basis. The second, fourth and fifth saw him at his best and earned him an even break in these sessions, but from the fifth round on those extra eight years began to count. A week ago he would have went to his corner at the end of the sixth and shortly after this Goldstein started the blood flowing from his nose and mouth. At that time on he lost strength rapidly. The will to go on alone carried him through the ninth and tenth and in the eleventh it seemed a certainty that he would not finish out the round.

Goldstein would almost surely have knocked this man out had he pressed his advantage in the twelfth and thirteenth, but Ledoux kept backing out of range and Abe made no great efforts to follow. Then came the fourteenth when Ledoux was driven outside the ropes and crawled back through to renew his attacks and win the heart of the crowd, and the fifteenth, where his caution and ringcraft came to his rescue and saved him. He was thoroughly beaten, but his name should go down with that of Eugene Criqui in the list of French boxers and war heroes who have shown a fine spirit in the face of punishment and defeat in American rings.

Kaplan Wins Easily.

K. O. Kaplan of Harlem got the decision over Vic Brog of Pittsburgh in the ten-round semi-final. Kaplan won all the way on points and the result was never in doubt. But Kaplan, whose punching power earned him his nickname, couldn't knock the Pittsburgh boy out, although he tried hard enough. He came closest to putting in the finishing blow in the ninth round when he had Brog in distress against the ropes, but the visitor managed to weather the storm.

Sammy Bienfeld of the east side carried off the decision over Johnny Breslin in the six-round bout, which was second on the card. Breslin gave the winner plenty to do, but Bienfeld landed more punches and cleaner ones. Breslin confined his attack to the body in the closing rounds. In the earlier sessions he aimed some blows at Bienfeld's head and jaw, most of which were wild.

The opening four-rounder was a dull contest, but Charlie Rosen and Izzie Cooper, the principals, were hardly to blame. What little crowd there was later was just beginning to arrive and the boys could not work up much enthusiasm for the empty seats and the referee, if it was called a draw, and none of the hundred or so spectators who saw it complained.

Ledoux was first in ring, followed shortly by the champion, after Georges Carpentier and Frankie Genaro were introduced. Joe Humphries announced the weights as Goldstein 116, Ledoux 117.

First Round.

The man dicied twice around the ring looking for an opening. Ledoux covered his head and when Goldstein feinted with a left and crossed with his right, the blow glanced off the Frenchman's glove. Goldstein jarred Ledoux with a right to the jaw. The Frenchman was fighting very cautiously. Goldstein landed a light left to the side of the head. Ledoux rushed in and drove a left to the body. Goldstein retaliated with a right to the stomach as the round ended.

Second Round.

Third Round.

They sparred cautiously in the centre of the ring, Goldstein apparently looking for an opening, but without success. Finally he got a right to the side of Ledoux's head and a moment later brought another down on top of Ledoux as the Frenchman crouched and tried to cover up. Goldstein landed a left to the body. Ledoux tapped him with a left and right to the ribs in the exchange. Goldstein missed two lefts to the face. Ledoux landed long lefts to the body and jaw, then rushed Goldstein, head down, but was unable to inflict punishment on the American. Goldstein reached Ledoux with a long right. The Frenchman swung a right and a left to the jaw and drove Goldstein against the ropes. They were dancing in the centre of the ring when the bell rang.

Fourth Round.

Fifth Round.

The boys sparred in the centre of the ring, but neither could land an effective blow. Ledoux tapped Goldstein with a left to the ribs. Goldstein landed a right on the top of Ledoux's head as the latter crouched. Ledoux held Goldstein's gloves as they sparred in close quarters. Goldstein landed a right to the head and drove the Frenchman back but the champion did not endeavor to follow it up. Goldstein put rights and lefts to the Frenchman's head. Goldstein missed with a long left. The French boxer's eyes were badly puffed and he was bleeding from the nose but was still boring in. They exchanged lefts and rights, but there was little force to the Frenchman's punches. Ledoux kept moving his head, and Goldstein tried hard to get a right in. Ledoux was backing away as the bell rang.

Sixth Round.

Seventh Round.

Eighth Round.

Ledoux danced in and landed a light left. He hooked a left to the body. Goldstein's return was wild. The champion jabbed his opponent with a light left and crashed over a right that sent Ledoux's head back. Ledoux covered up and waded in with a left hook which Abe returned with a right to the side of the head. They danced around without exchanging a blow. The Frenchman leaped in with a right and a left, both of which missed their target. Goldstein hooked a light left to the jaw. Goldstein got his left glove on top of Ledoux's head and tried to measure him with his right, but without success. The Frenchman again was forcing the fighting at the end.

Ninth Round.

Tenth Round.

Ledoux ran around Goldstein in the centre of the ring. Goldstein shot a left to the face. Goldstein edged in but could not find an opening. The Frenchman, running and dodging, was hard to hit. Goldstein seemed to be content to look at him. The spectators jeered this inaction. Goldstein brought the blood from Ledoux's mouth with a right and also landed a left and a right to the head and body. Ledoux tried with his right but was short. Goldstein landed a right which rocked Ledoux, but was unable to follow up his advantage. Goldstein tried again with his right. Ledoux was bleeding freely from the mouth and nose at the end of the round.

Eleventh Round.

Goldstein rushed out as if determined to put an end to the bout. He scored with a vicious right to the Frenchman's head which started the blood flowing again. The Frenchman was charging in, swinging lefts and rights, but was groggy. Ledoux missed a right uppercut, then bored in, head down. But Goldstein smacked him down with a short right. He was up at eight and another jared him. The Frenchman showed wonderful courage. Goldstein could not hit the French boxer, though it was apparent that Ledoux was all but out. Goldstein's right glanced off Ledoux's shoulder. Ledoux leaped in with a [illegible] as Goldstein's head. Ledoux was groggy. Goldstein missed with a left and Ledoux hooked with a left to the face. The round ended with Goldstein jabbing a left to the jaw.

Twelfth Round.

They sparred, and Ledoux seemed to be fresher than at the beginning of the eleventh round. Goldstein started the blood flowing from Ledoux's nose with a left. Ledoux hooked a right to the head. Goldstein drove a right to the jaw and followed with another which rocked the Frenchman. Ledoux rushed in and landed rights and lefts to the body. Goldstein hooked him with a right to the side of the head. Goldstein missed with a right and left. Ledoux backed away and ran around the ring. Goldstein drove a right to the back of the head. Ledoux leaped in with a right uppercut. Goldstein shoved away, and the Frenchman was backing up as the bell rang.

Thirteenth Round.

Ledoux leaped in and the boxers clinched. Ledoux hooked a left to the face which drove Goldstein back, and the crowd yelled. They clinched. Ledoux bored in, but did not land a blow. Ledoux held on as Goldstein tried with short blows to the body. Goldstein drove a right to the head which sent the Frenchman back, but the champion did not endeavor to follow it up. Goldstein put rights and lefts to the Frenchman's head. Goldstein missed with a long left. The French boxer's eyes were badly puffed and he was bleeding from the nose but was still boring in. They exchanged lefts and rights, but there was little force to the Frenchman's punches. Ledoux kept moving his head, and Goldstein tried hard to get a right in. Ledoux was backing away as the bell rang.

Fourteenth Round.

Fifteenth Round.

The boxers shook hands in the centre of the ring. Ledoux waded in with a right. Goldstein was backing away. Ledoux held on and Goldstein missed a left jab, but hooked a right to the side of the head. Ledoux was very tired and backed away. They clinched at the ropes. Goldstein swung a right to the head, then missed with his left, but followed with two lefts to the face. Goldstein missed with a left. Ledoux waded in with a right that was short. Goldstein tried to measure him, but missed. The Frenchman bored in. Goldstein missed with a right. The Frenchman landed a light right to the champion's head. Goldstein jabbed a left to the face. Ledoux tapped Goldstein with lefts and rights to the body. The crowd was calling, "Come on, Ledoux," as he landed a left hook to the jaw and crossed with a right. They were slugging in the centre of the ring as the bell rang, ending the fight.

KYNASTON IS DEFEATED IN QUAKER RIDGE PLAY

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., July 16.—Percy L. Kynaston of Rockville Centre, L. I., was the victim of another upset today when he was defeated in the fourth round of the annual Quaker Ridge tournament of the New Rochelle Tennis Club. I. Biltchik, who has been improving steadily throughout the season, eliminated the Long Island player in three sets at 6—1, 1—6, 6—4. The victory gave Biltchik a place in the round before the semi-finals, where tomorrow he will meet Ralph L. Baggs. Two more brackets were filled in the semi-final round. Dr. William Rosenbaum, five and other fine account of himself by disposing of Alfred D. Hammett in two well played sets at 6—3, 7—5, and John Whitbeck of Loomis Institute, former national junior indoor champion, put a Franklin Osgood of Dartmouth at 6—2, 6—1.

Biltchik was fully the equal of Kynaston in steadiness, except in the second set, and played the more aggressive tennis of the two. His ability to hit the ball hard and to control his shots with the utmost accuracy proved the undoing of Kynaston, who was the favorite in the match. Dr. Rosenbaum's sharply angled forehand drives and fine court covering gave him the victory over Hammett in a match that was marked by keenly contested rallies throughout both sets. Hammett did some fine work at the net and anticipated well, but he could not fill all the gaps in his court against Dr. Rosenbaum's severe, well placed shots.

MISS CAMEO, 6 TO 1, WINS POCAHONTAS

FIELDS RIDES 3 WINNERS

Running in front all the way, but weakening at the end and just lasting to win, H. Waterson's three-year-old filly Miss Cameo, by Dick Welles—Fan Tan, yesterday afternoon captured the Pocahontas Handicap, for fillies and mares of three years and upward, over the course of about six furlongs at Empire City track. Carrying 106 pounds and guided by Jockey Malben the filly ran the distance in 1:06 4-5, an even second slower than the track record. Miss Cameo was not much fancied at 6 to 1.

The stewards at the meeting on the hilltop are doing everything possible to stop the rough riding which has been so prevalent this season. Yesterday two more boys were set down. After the third race Jockey C. E. Rails was suspended for the balance of the meeting for cutting across his field with J. L. Holland's High Hand and bumping into Archibald Barkle's Miss Belle. He had his last mount in the closing race until the opening of the meeting at Saratoga.

At the start of the last race Hernandez, who had the mount on the Belair Stud's Mark Over, gave another exhibition of rough riding, causing a jam in which Harvey Googie stumbled and threw Jockey Tommy Burns over his head. Burns was not injured, but after the race Hernandez and several other jockeys were called to the stand and Hernandez was set down for six racing days.

Fields Rides Three Winners.

The afternoon proved a field day for Jockey G. Fields, who rode three winners, Briggs Buchanan in the second, Aga Khan in the third and Beatrice in the sixth. The last two named were saddled by Trainer Fitzsimmons for the Belair Stud.

Six smart fillies paraded for the Pocahontas Handicap, with H. P. Whitney's Miss Whisk the public choice at a closing of 13 to 5. The missed proved a fractious lot at the post, and it took Mars Cassidy six minutes to get them straightened. Miss Cameo got away with a rush and opened a lead of a couple of lengths in the first furlong. The Marrone stable's Anna Marrone II. followed the pace, with Miss Whisk well up. Anna Marrone II. quit in the stretch run, and Miss Whisk closed with a great burst and was going fastest at the end, Miss Cameo just lasted to gain the decision by a head. The Riviera Stable's Miss Star closed a big gap in the stretch, to take third money by a head from James Butler's Cave Woman.

The Belair Stud's Aga Khan, three-year-old son of Omar Khayyam and Lady Carnot, with a strong pull in the weights, beat the Rancocas Stable's Thunderclap, the Joseph Stable's Horologe and H. M. Howard's Nose Dive in the High Noon Purse, a gallop of a mile and seventy yards for three-year-olds and upward.

Horologe Outbreaks Field.

Horologe outbroke the others and was nicely berthed on the rail around the paddock turn, with Thunderclap lapped on him. Aga Khan was close up, and Sande had him pocketed for a piece and Fields was forced to take up. The positions were unchanged around the far turn, where Fields called on Aga Khan and as they turned for home Aga Khan came around the others and went on to win.

CECIL WALKER WINS MILE TITLE RACE

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., July 16.—Cecil Walker, crack Australian sprinter, won the one-mile national championship race, the eleventh of a series of eighteen races to decide the professional bicycle championship of America at the Velodrome, in Newark, tonight by defeating Orlando Piani and Freddie Spencer. Arthur Spencer, who is leading in the battle for the American title, was shut out in his semi-final by his name sake but no relation. Fred Spencer, who beat him over the tape by a length. Harris Horder, young Australian cyclist, won the heat to decide fourth place by beating Arthur Spencer and Eddie Madden.

Walker, as a result of his victory, is only two points back of Arthur Spencer now in the race for the title. The standing of the leaders follows:

The summaries:

Three-Mile Point Race (Professional)—Won by Clifford Fapworth, Australia (18 points); Fred Hill, Boston (13 points), second; Willis Grimm, Newark (10 points), third; Dave Lauda, Newark (8 points), fourth; Maurits Declerk, Chicago (6 points), fifth. Time—5:57 2-5.

One-Mile National Championship (Professional)—Won by Cecil Walker, Australia; Orlando Piani, Italy, second; Fred Spencer, Plainfield, third; Harry Horder, Australia, fourth. Time—1:59 1-5; last quarter—0:12. Time to decide fourth place—2:05 4-5; last eighth-mile—0:12 1-5.

Two-Mile Handicap (Professional)—Won by Cecil Walker, Australia, (scratch); Alfred Goullet, Newark (scratch), second; Alex McBeath, Australia (scritch), third; Fred Hill, Boston (65 yards), fourth; Anthony Young, Newark (60 yards), fifth; Clifford Fapworth, Australia, (80 yards) sixth; Harris Horder, Australia (40 yards), seventh. Time—3:44 4-5.

Twenty-Mile Motor Paced Race (professional)—Frank Cozzolino, Bloomfield, paced by Otto Miller, Brooklyn; A. J. Nefatti, Bonegal, paced by Frank Jeehan, New Haven; Daniel Pichione, Providence, paced by Jimmie Hunter, Newark; Lawrence Gaffney, Brooklyn, paced by Willie Zapf, Newark. Won by Cozzolino; Pichione, second; Nefatti, third; Gaffney, fourth. Time—29:35 3-5.

COOPER SLIGHTLY BETTER

But Injured Jockey Still is in a Semi-Conscious Condition.

More encouraging reports were received last night regarding the condition at the Homeopathic Hospital in Yonkers of George Cooper, the 18-year-old jockey who was dangerously injured by a fall during the running of a race at the Empire City race course Saturday afternoon. A little improvement was noted at the morning observation and the boy did not appear to be in a great deal of pain, although most of the time in a semi-conscious condition.

Dr. William H. Gaul of Yonkers, who is now in charge of the case, said last night that Cooper appeared to be improving slightly, although not fully conscious. He added that he expected, if no furtehr complications ensue, that the boy will completely recover.

U. S. TENNIS PLAYERS MAY QUIT OLYMPICS

FRENCH ACT ON PROTEST

Seek to Please by Supplying Contestants With Conveniences—Journalists Also Voice Displeasure.

PARIS, July 16 (Associated Press).—A formal protest against the irritating lack of arrangements for the comfort of the competitors and spectators of the Olympic tennis competition was made to the French committee in charge today by Julian S. Myrick, President of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The American players threatened to withdraw from the tournament unless "civilized facilities," such as water, towels and a place to rest, were provided. They played under protest this afternoon while the French officials began to look about for things which would please the American players, and a few towels and several bottles of water quickly made their appearance on the courts.

Officials from the various tennis governing bodies of the nations competing asked for a place where they might meet on the grounds in a sociable way. Those in charge immediately decided that a simple pine-board table, covered with cheap cloth, which the newspaper men had taken possession of yesterday, would be just the thing, so they chased the reporters from their new-found working place. The newspaper men resorted to such scattered work places as the high grass under the stands, the steps leading to the bleachers or any other spot which would provide enough room for a newspaper or a pad.

When the American newspaper men protested to Allan H. Muhr, American resident in France, who is International Secretary of the Olympic Executive Committee, he told them unamilingly that the arrangements at Colombes were just the same as those at Forest Hills, Long Island.

The discontent is not confined to the Americans, but is general among most of the various nations assembled at Colombes. Jean Washer of Belgium, after his match against Francis T. Hunter yesterday under a burning sun, with no comfortable, cool spot to retire to in the rest interval, told his friends he would never play another match under such conditions.

AMERICAN MARKSMEN BACK FROM OLYMPICS

Among the passengers who arrived yesterday from Cherbourg on the President Harding of the United States Lines were the members of the American rifle and pistol teams which carried off the honors at the Olympic international contests held at Rheims June 13, 14 and 15, and Lieutenant Max S. Moyer of the army baloon crew which took part in the Gordon Bennett Cup race from Antwerp.

In the match at Rheims the American marksmen scored a total of 5,284 against 5,184 for Switzerland, their closest competitor. Morris Fisher, Sergeant of Marines, won the world's championship for individual shooting at the Olympic games with 1,075 out of 1,200 on June 14, and Commander Cyrus T. Osborn, U. S. N., who will return later, finished second. Sergeant Henry M. Bailey, also of the Marine Corps, won the pistol competition on June 23 at Chalons, France, in a shoot-off with Commander C. T. Osborn. Both competitors registered 95 hits out of 100 shots. In the shoot-off Fisher scored 48 hits out of a possible 50 and Commander Osborn 42.

Other members of the rifle team were J. B. Grier, Paul Landrock, W. R. Stokes, R. C. Stokes, Captain D. L. S. Brewster, Lieutenant Sidney R. Hines, Sergeant Raymond Coulter, Sergeant Dennis Senton and Corporal J. W. Crockett. The members of the pistol team, besides Sergeant Bailey, were Lieutenant Edward Andino, Sergeants Henry B. Dailey and D. G. Beike, E. A. Fox, Major W. D. Frazer and Lieutenant W. J. Nalling.

In speaking of the balloon race on June 15 Lieutenant Moyer said that the reason the American balloon made such a poor showing was that it got into an adverse wind at the start and could not get back into the Gordon Bennett course in time. After sailing for 200 kilometers he said, it was decided to come down in Germany rather than be blown back to the original starting place. If the American balloon had got away with a fair slant, it would have stood a good chance of winning the race, Lieutenant Moyer said.

CASTNER WINS WITH SABRE.

But Lyon, Gignoux and McPherson Are Eliminated in Olympics.

PARIS, July 17 (Associated Press).—Dr. J. E. Gignoux and Chauncey McPherson, both of the New York A. C., were eliminated today in the first round of the Olympic individual sabre competition.

Lyon of the United States was eliminated in the later trial contests, but his countryman, L. V. Castner, United States Army, qualified with three victories. The semi-final round, in which twenty-eight fencers, drawn in three sections, had qualified, began immediately after the preliminary competition. Only one of the three sections was finished tonight. Two Italians, one Hungarian and one Argentine qualified. The Uruguayan representative did not qualify.

U. S. RIDER FINISHES SIXTH.

Bare Is Unable to Beat Avellan of Finland in Pentathlon.

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, July 16 (Associated Press).—Avellan of Finland won the horse-riding event in the modern pentathlon today. Buffin, Belgium, was second, and Dryssen, Sweden, third.

Lieutenant George H. Bare, Twenty-first Infantry, U. S. A., finished sixth among the competitors, who drew lots for their mounts and had to cover a course of five kilometers liberally strewn with obstacles within a time limit of ten minutes.

U. S. Will Row in 5 Finals For Olympic Titles Today

ARGENTEUIL, France, July 16 (Associated Press).—The United States has entrants in five of the seven Olympic rowing finals, which will be held tomorrow. Experts name the Americans as winners in four of the races, all of which will be at 2,000 meters. The entries for all the events follow:

Eight-oared Shells.

W. E. Garrett Gilmore of the United States, Jack Beresford of Great Britain, Switzerland and Australia.

Double Sculls.

Four-oared, With Coxswain.

Pair Oars, With Coxswain.

Pair Oars, Without Coxswain.

France, Great Britain and Holland.

WASHBURN IS ELIMINATED

Miss Wills to Face Mrs. Mallery Next—Mrs. Jessup Advances, but Miss Goss Loses to Mlle. Vlasto.

MATCHES FOR TODAY.

MEN'S SINGLES.

R. Norris Williams, United States, vs. Henri Cochet, France.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

Mrs. Marion Jessup, United States, vs. Miss Kathleen McKane, England.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES.

Mrs. G. Wightman and Miss H. Wills, United States, vs. Miss Ermmy Peters and Mme. Krencity of Hungary.

MIXED DOUBLES.

Mrs. Jessup and Richards, United States, vs. Mrs. Molla Mallory and Nielsen, Norway; Mrs. Wightman and Williams, United States, vs. Miss Scaramonga and Zerlandi of Greece.

COLOMBES, France, July 16 (Associated Press).—Two members of the American Olympic lawn tennis team, R. Norris Williams 2d and Vincent Richards, reached the round before the semi-finals in the Olympic championships today. Their two competitors, Francis T. Hunter and Watson M. Washburn, have been eliminated, the former being disposed of yesterday and the latter today.

Two members of the American women's team, Miss Helen Wills, the champion, and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, also attained positions among the last eight in the women's singles, Miss Eleanor Goss and Miss Lilian Scharman falling by the wayside.

In both events the Americans are in opposite halves of the draw, so that all four of them may reach the semi-finals and thereby win points for their country. When the championships end next Sunday, 10 points will be awarded to winners in each event and five to each of their opponents in the final round. The losing players in the semi-finals will play matches among themselves to decide who shall get four points and who shall get three points.

There is a third American woman among the eight remaining in the women's singles—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory—but she is wearing the colors of her native Norway. On Friday Mrs. Mallory will play Miss Wills, who dethroned her last year as champion of the United States.

Williams, limping from the ligaments recently torn in his left leg, was hard pressed to defeat Hungary's best player, Kehrling, but succeeded in doing so after losing two sets. The Hungarian's unusual mannerisms on the court seemed to bother the American. In the final set Kehrling, after objecting to a decision by the referee, allowed Williams to serve four times without trying to return the ball. Williams won at 6–4, 6–3, 3–6, 4–6, 6–2. Washburn was eliminated by S. F. Jacob, leader of the Indian Davis Cup team, 6–1, 6–4, 8–10, 6–2.

The match between Vincent Richards of the American team and Manuel Alonso of the Spanish team on the centre court was a magnificent battle. When the rest interval was taken the American was ahead, 7–5, 10–8, 9–7, and later he won a 6–2 set to take the match.

Washburn was erratic in his match against Jacobs, making so many errors both into the net and out of bounds that the Indian star had no trouble in winning.

Washer Is Defeated.

Jean Washer of Belgium, conqueror of Hunter, was defeated by Baron de Morpurgo of Italy, 2–6, 6–4, 1–6, 6–4, 8–6.

Henri Cochet of France defeated Fukuda of Japan, 6–2, 6–1, 6–3, while Harada of Japan defeated J. Brian Gilbert of Great Britain, 10–8, 2–6, 11–9, 6–2.

Mrs. Jessup, American, in the upper half and Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, Norway, in the lower half, both reached the last eight in the women's singles. Mrs. Jessup routed Senorita Torras of Spain, 6–2, 6–0, while the former American woman champion, playing for Norway in the Olympic competition, eliminated Miss Boutan of Holland, 6–7, 6–0, 6–0.

The Dutch girl fought finely in the first set, driving well and accurately both forehand and backhand, but did not have the stamina to stick with Molla.

Miss Eleanor Goss of the United States was defeated by Mlle. Vlasto of France, 6–4, 2–6, 6–4.

Owing to the illness of her partner, Mrs. Dahl, Mrs. Mallory defeated to Miss Wills and Mrs. George Wightman of the United States in the women's doubles.

Miss McKane Is Victor.

Miss Kathleen McKane of Great Britain, the Wimbledon singles champion, defeated Miss Fick of Sweden and will play Mrs. Jessup in her next match. The score today was 6–1, 6–1.

Mme. Golding of France defeated Mrs. Phyllis Covell of Great Britain today, 6–3, 2–6, 6–2, and will meet Senorita Alvarez of Spain, the winner of that match meeting the winner of the Mallory-Wills match, in the semi-finals.

In the men's doubles, Richards and Hunter reached the last eight, defeating Zemla and Kozeluh of Czechoslovakia, 6–2, 6–3, 6–4. Williams and Washburn, with only a few minutes rest after their singles matches, entered the centre court to play their doubles match and defeated Tegner and Ulrich of Denmark, 6–4, 6–2, 12–10. Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste of France defeated Dumas and Robson of Argentina, 6–2, 6–1, 6–4.

TORONTO CREW WINS BY LENGTH AND HALF

BERESFORD ALSO TRIUMPHS

ARGENTEUIL, France, July 16 (Associated Press).—The Toronto University crew, wearing the maple leaf of Canada, today won the eight-oared elimination trial of the Olympic regatta and earned the right to meet America's famous Yale eight, the Thames Club of Great Britain and Italy tomorrow in the blue ribbon event for the Olympic title. Seven championships will be contested over the picturesque Seine River course tomorrow.

The Canadians, rowing steadily and smoothly, defeated Argentina, Australia and Belgium this afternoon in the keenest-fought race witnessed in any of the trials, staving off a last-minute challenge by the South Americans, to win by a length and a half, with less than half a length separating the other three shells. The Argentines came from behind with a closing spurt, to take second place, with the Australians third and the Belgians fourth.

Jack Beresford, Jr., Great Britain's diamond sculls champion, and Switzerland's four, with coxswain, won the two remaining elimination trials and the right to compete in the finals. The United States has entrants in five of the seven championships and, in the opinion of rowing experts tonight, has excellent chances of carrying off four trophies, thus adding fresh triumphs to the laurels already gained in many of the other branches of international competition.

Yale Shows Best Form.

The brilliant Yale eight appears to be practically certain to add new glory to its sensational records of the last two seasons. The Eli men showed themselves far superior to the Canadians in the first trials and are likely to encounter their stiffest opposition from the speedy British eight, which also won its elimination heat, with plenty to spare. The Italians, dark horses of the race, have rugged power, but none of the entrants has shown the smooth oarsmanship of the young Americans.

Yale, stroked by Alfred D. Lindley, the young Minnesota oarsman, will enter the finals with the same crew which scored sweeping triumphs in the United States, and if the college men are extended they expect to clip a considerable chunk off the time of 6 minutes 51 seconds which they made yesterday and which set a record for the Olympic course.

America's other bright prospect for triumph is in the single sculls, where W. E. Garrett Gilmore appears to be far superior to his British, Swiss and Australian rivals. In the double sculls Jack Kelly and Paul Costello, the Olympic champions, are the strong favorites, while in the four-oared event with coxswain, the Bachelors' Barge Club quartet of Philadelphia is conceded to have a good chance. In the double sculls the rivals will be France, Brazil and Switzerland, while the Philadelphia crew will meet France, Italy, Holland and Switzerland.

The remaining American entry is in the pair oars with coxswain where the combination of the Penn Barge Club, Philadelphia, beaten by France in the trials, has a doubtful chance to defeat France, Switzerland and Italy.

The pair-oared and four-oared without coxswain events are the other finals on the program which are slated to begin at 2 o'clock, with a half hour interval between the start of each event.

Canadians Lead All the Way.

The Canadians led all the way in the heat today, but had a stiff fight on their hands to keep their advantage over the other three eights, which were fighting desperately to earn a place in the finals tomorrow, to which only the winner of today's race is entitled. The South Americans held the Canadians to a small lead for the first 500 meters, dropped back at the half-way mark and made a futile last-minute spurt just before the finish. Canada's time of 6 minutes 57 seconds was good considering the fact that it was made in the face of a brisk wind.

There were two other events today in which the winners only qualified to compete in the finals tomorrow. The first resulted in a victory for Jack Beresford Jr. of Great Britain, who was defeated Monday by W. E. Garrett Gilmore, the American national champion, over Peterson of Holland in the single sculls. The second resulted in a victory for the Swiss four with coxswain over Great Britain, Hungary and Belgium. Beresford's time was 8 minutes 2-5 of a second, while the Swiss crew covered their distance in 7 minutes 20 1-5 seconds.

OUIMET AND GUILFORD TIE.

Each Has 144 in Massachusetts Amateur Qualifying Round.

NEWTON, Mass., July 16.—Jesse Guilford and Francis Ouimet, Woodland's famous golfing sons, led a field of 144 starters in the qualifying rounds of the State amateur championship over their home course today. Guilford had rounds of 77 and 67, the afternoon score setting a new record for the course. Ouimet had a pair of 72's. Two shots from the leaders was A. P. Wade of Meadow Brook, with 77 and 69. The unusually low score of 159 was necessary to qualify for match play, and a tie resulted with four playing off tomorrow morning for three places.

Tomorrow match play will begin. For the first time in the history of golf here a seeded draw has been made. The withdrawal of Ouimet was announced. Arrangements for an exhibition match made before the present tournament began prevent his continuing in competition.

WILLIAMS LOWERS RECORD.

Assistant Pro at Shackamaxon Clips Stroke Off Course Mark.

While Bobby Cruickshank is away touring the country with Cyril Walker, Englewood professional, who holds the national open championship, his assistant, Denny Williams, has been cutting all sorts of capers with par at the Shackamaxon Country Club at Westfield. Williams's most recent achievement has been the clipping of a stroke off the course record made early this Summer by Cruickshank. Dan's total for eighteen holes was 66, seven under par, in making the record he was out in 32 and home in 33 and at only one hole was he over the par figure. That one was the thirteenth, where he took a 5 when he overapproached the green on his second, and then, after pitching back to within six feet of the cup, failed to run down the putt.

His card with par:

The French team will be J. Borotra, J. Brugnon, Henri Cochet and René La Coste.

U. S. SWIMMERS SET TWO OLYMPIC MARKS

WEISSMULLER WINS HEAT

Beats Charlton as 10,000 Cheer—Miss Geraghty Only U. S. Woman to Qualify in Breast Stroke.

LES TOURELLES, France, July 16 (Associated Press).—Johnny Weissmuller, Chicago; Lester Smith, San Francisco, and Ralph Breyer, Northwestern University, the three Americans entered for the 400-meter Olympic swim, free style, today qualified for the semi-final event, while Pete Des Jardens of Miami, Fla.; Clarence Pinkston, San Francisco, and Albert C. White, Stanford University, are finalists in the fancy high diving event. All six of these Americans won their respective contests in the elimination trials today.

Warren Kealoha, Hawaii, and Paul Wyatt, Uniontown, Pa., are among those who will fight it out for the 100-meter backstroke championship. Henry Luning, Hawaii, although he finished first in his heat today, was disqualified on a charge that he "beat the gun" at the start of the race. Kealoha broke the Olympic record by scoring in 1:13 2-5, but this is four-fifths of a second slower than his world's record. He was five seconds faster than the winners of the other four heats. Dartha of Hungary made the distance in 1 minute 18 2-5 seconds, Rawlinson of Great Britain in 1 minute 18 4-5 seconds, Thaulo of Norway in 1 minute 24 seconds flat and Paul Wyatt of Uniontown, Pa., in 1 minute 19 2-5 seconds.

The fourth day of the program was run off in more moderate weather than had been the rule all the week. The scorching sun disappeared behind benevolent clouds, and the attendance was increased enormously. A crowd of 10,000 persons turned out, one of the largest of the swimming tournament and bigger than the throngs that were witnessing even the interesting Olympic tennis matches and the rowing events.

Weissmuller Is Cheered.

The long-awaited duel between Weissmuller and Andrew Charlton, the young Australian phenomenon, failed to materialize when they met today in the 400-meter free style race in qualifying for the semi-final. Both the American and the Australian kept themselves well in hand, as though saving their strength for the semi-final and the final. Weissmuller, who is the idol of the French public and receives louder cheering than any of the French entrants, finished today's race ahead of the Australian, but it was evident to the spectators that neither he nor Charlton was exerting himself.

It was a bad day for the American women swimmers, Miss Agnes Geraghty being the only one of them to qualify in the 200-meter breast stroke. Both Miss Eleanor Coleman of Milwaukee and Miss Matilda Shurich of New York were eliminated.

In the 200-meter breast stroke for men Robert D. Skelton, Illinois A. C., treated himself to the luxury of breaking the Olympic record. W. T. Kirschbaum, Hawaii, finished second. Skelton's time of 3:00 2-10 later was equaled by Decombre of Belgium.

The finals for the 400-meter free style event tomorrow should prove a record breaker, for Weissmuller, Charlton and Arne Borg, Sweden, all have qualified. "We's will break ten minutes tomorrow, won't we, Andrew?" said Weissmuller to Charlton after the third heat today.

"What's the use, so long as I beat you?" replied the Australian.

Belgian Team Is Victor.

Belgium has reached the semi-finals in the Olympic water polo event by virtue of her defeat of Czechoslovakia, 5 to 1, and will meet the winner of the France-Sweden match.

Miss Geraghty met a tartar in the person of Mlle. Helene Baron of Holland in the first heat of the 200-meter breast stroke. The Dutch girl, after a stiff battle, finished fully ten feet ahead of her American rival, but the judges saw the Netherlands swimmer doing the overhand stroke for fully fifteen yards after each turn, instead of the straight breast stroke. The American girl was given first place through the disqualification of Mlle. Baron.

In this event Miss Coleman and Miss Schurich displayed poor form and were never in the running. The time of the heat which Miss Geraghty was awarded was the fastest of any of the three heats.

Luning's elimination in the 100-meter back stroke trial caused the first protest the Americans have lodged since the swimming competition opened. Luning finished first but was disqualified by the French judge for "beating the pistol." He disclaimed any intention of getting away prematurely and was certain he had not done so. The case went to the Olympic jury.

The summaries of events in which Americans were competitors:

FEIBLEMAN IS WINNER.

Edward W. Feibleman won the annual tournament conducted by the Real Estate Board of New York for the second time at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, yesterday when he defeated Ross Lynn in the final round by the score of 6–2, 6–4. Lynn, a veteran of forty-three years, played nine sets in reaching the final, providing a big upset in the first round when he defeated Royal D. Richey of the Terrace Club, Brooklyn, runner-up last year, by 6–1, 6–2.

The doubles tournament was won by Sherman Manchester and Edward Doyle. They defeated V. K. Bracher and C. R. Hubert in the final round by 6–1, 8–2.

Godfrey to Clash With McAuliffe.

Considerable interest has been aroused in the heavyweight contest between George Godfrey, the Philadelphia negro, and Jack McAuliffe, which will feature the show at the Commonwealth Sporting Club in Harlem on Saturday night. In another twelve-rounder Bobby Rieder and Danny Hickey will clash.

Gilligan and Peppe Meet Tonight.

Willie Gilligan and Vincent Peppe, two of the leading bantamweights in the National Guard, will meet in an eight-round bout featuring the boxing show that will be held tonight in the 102d Medical Regiment Armory.

Lacey of British Polo Team Tears Muscles in Shoulder

LONDON, July 16 (Associated Press).—Luis Lacey, the formidable back of the Argentine polo team which invaded the United States in 1922 and whom English experts consider to be the best man on their international polo team, has torn the muscles of his right shoulder so that he will not be able to play for at least another week and probably longer. This means that he probably will not get any more practice before the ponies leave for the United States on July 25. The British regard this fact as a misfortune from the standpoint of team efficiency. He, however, will be able to play in America, since the team will not sail until Aug. 9.

SIX U. S. BOXERS WIN IN OLYMPICS

LAZARUS IS DISQUALIFIED

PARIS, July 15 (Associated Press).—Six American boxers won their matches in the preliminary rounds of the Olympic championship competition in the Velodrome d'Hiver today, but the United States team suffered two setbacks with the disqualification of one boxer and the defeat of another.

In the 118-pound class, Joe Lazarus, Cornell, was disqualified in the second round of his bout with Andren of Sweden, whom he had knocked out. The judges ruled that the American boxer had failed to break when ordered to do so and they disqualified him, whereupon the plucky little American was reduced to tears.

Lazarus tearfully told the American coach, Spike Webb: "I didn't hold him, Spike. We were out of the break before I landed."

In the first round Andren carried the fight to Lazarus with haymakers which the Cornell boy met skillfully. Lazarus had the second round well in hand until the disqualification. The Americans took the incident, which was their first setback, with a certain amount of bitterness, but, despite the fact that they are convinced that the blow was fair, there is no intention to make a formal protest.

The Lazarus incident closed with the decision of Colonel Robert M. Thompson, head of the American Olympic Committee, not to protest. The head of the American committee declared: "We're not here to take protests; we're here to win as gentlemen and lose as gentlemen."

He entirely absolved Lazarus of blame, saying that the blow which caused the disqualification was cleanly struck, and Andren, Lazarus's opponent, agreed.

Fields Wins Despite Injury.

Despite an injury to his thumb suffered in the bout yesterday, in which he defeated Doyle of Ireland, 18-year-old Jack Fields, Los Angeles high school boy and American featherweight boxer, won handily from Hansen of Norway on points.

Fields took the first and second rounds easily, but because of his injured hand devoted himself, for the most part, to landing frequently on the Norwegian's stomach. In the third he opened up, and winded Hansen by landing at will on his face and body. The American won the applause of the crowd by helping his opponent off the ropes and back into the middle of the ring.

Tripoli of New York, whose ring appellation is Jackie Williams, put away Tarrant of Great Britain, showing superiority throughout the bout. The young Britisher relied on infighting, but the Yonkers boy outclassed him, especially in the third round.

In the featherweight class, Joe Salas of Los Angeles, Cal., defeated Levin of Holland. It was the closest decision as yet awarded to an American boxer. The Dutchman possessed more aggressiveness than science, but he made a good impression and the crowd booed the decision favoring the American.

Eagan Punished Severely.

Edward P. Eagan, American Rhodes scholar at Oxford and former light-heavyweight intercollegiate champion, lost to Clifton of Great Britain on points, in the heavyweight contest. Clifton was manifestly superior to the American in the last two rounds of the three-round bout and finished fresh after having punished Eagan severely.

In another heavyweight bout Porzio, Argentine, decisively defeated Pegulhan, France, in the most exciting match yet contested. Porzio took the aggressive at the start and maintained it to the finish. Only the skill of Pegulhan as a boxer enabled him to stay the three rounds. Porzio was considered by the spectators to be the most dangerous heavyweight yet seen in the Olympic Games.

In the same division H. G. Greathouse, Washington, Pa., won from Galliat, France, in a stirring slug fest. The gong in the last round saved the Frenchman from a knockout. Galliat, who had a marked advantage in height and reach, stood off his stocky opponent fairly well in the first and second rounds, but in the third Greathouse landed at will on his opponent.

In the light-heavyweight division Petersen of Denmark defeated Jurando of Argentina and Maurelios of Chile lost to Rossignon of France. The spectators differed with the judges on the decision.

Labarba Stops Italian.

In the flyweight class Fidel Labarba, United States, defeated Lanzi, Italy. The judges stopped the fight in the middle of the second round, a smashing right to the jaw having disabled Lanzi. Labarba manifestly outclassed his opponent. He had a longer reach, was in better condition and led all the way.

In the same class Ray Fee, United States, defeated Catada, Argentina, in a stiring three-round bout. Catada lost because he was thrice warned for holding. He carried the fight from the start to his opponent, staggering Fee with two savage rights and lefts. The American came back just as savagely in the second. He drove a hard right to the stomach, which sent the Argentine to the rope.

The Argentine's aggressiveness delighted the crowd, but after each of his powerful swings he jumped in and held the American. In the third round Catada landed on head and body, but Fee covered up well when he seemed to be in danger. The judges warned Catada a third time for holding, which was so obvious that the crowd cheered the decision in favor of the American.

TEXAS POLOISTS VICTORS.

Fort Sam Houston Officer Hurt in Victory Over Fort Leavenworth.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., July 16.—The army polo team representing Fort Sam Houston, Texas, today defeated the Fort Leavenworth, Kan., team in the final match for the Marland Cup by a score of 12 to 7. Lieutenant Mark McClure of Texas, who was injured in a scrimmage with Major Swift of the Leavenworth team, still was unconscious in a hospital early tonight.

POLO CANDIDATES IN TRYOUT TODAY

STODDARD TO TAKE PART

Will Lead Hopping, Pedley, Strawbridge Against Milburn, Hitchcock, Webb and Stevenson.

The strongest polo players in the United States will take the field at Meadow Brook this afternoon to start serious preparations for the coming invasion of England's horsemen in quest of the International Challenge Cup, recaptured by the United States in 1921. Under the critical eyes of the Defense Committee of the United States Polo Association the four strongest players, according to the official handicap rating, will line up against three of the leading candidates for positions on the team and Louis E. Stoddard, Chairman of the Polo Association and a member of the Defense Committee, who, although not a candidate, will take an active part in the matches in order to furnish strong opposition and to better judge the relative merits of those on the field.

There are two ten-goal players in the country—Devereux Milburn and Thomas Hitchcock Jr.—and there are two nine-goal players—J. Watson Webb and Malcolm Stevenson. These four have been tentatively selected to defend the historic challenge trophy, but they will have to prove their ability against the other contenders for places on the four before they finally will be selected, and it is not at all improbable that at least two of the places will be filled by others when the Americans take the field against the British for the first game on Sept. 6.

Milburn and Hitchcock are practically certain to face the invaders from the other side of the Atlantic, but Webb as a No. 1 is an experiment which must be thoroughly tested before any final decision can be made, while Stevenson is merely the highest handicapped of many strong candidates for the No. 3 position. Milburn has played in every international match since 1909, and he is playing as strong a game this season as he did when he first met the English horsemen fifteen years ago. With Hitchcock, he is regarded as the longest hitter in the game; as a defensive player there probably is none to compare with him in the world, for his fearless riding keeps him where the play is thickest and his powerful drives send the ball out of danger when his own goal is being threatened.

Hitchcock Youngest of Squad.

Hitchcock is the youngest member of the squad, but he is the only other member who is sure of a place. In 1921 he faced the British at No. 2 and played the position with all the aggressiveness which has marked his game since he was first handicapped. He has just returned from France, where he led the American team to victory in the Olympic competition until he was injured by a mallet blow on the head. He was knocked unconscious, but continued to play. However, after the accident the Argentine team was able to come forward and win.

Webb is a veteran of the 1921 international matches, when he played No. 3, but this year he is a candidate for the No. 1 position, which was vacated by the retirement from international polo of Stoddard. In practice this year Webb has shown himself to be a brilliant No. 1 and there is every probability that he will be selected to face the British in that position, but he must prove his ability against such candidates as Major A. E. Wilson of the Army, Eric Pedley of California, Earl W. Hopping and Morgan Belmont, all of whom are seeking the place.

Stevenson also has had international experience, as he was a substitute on the 1914 team which lost the Challenge Cup to Great Britain, although he did not take part in any of the matches. He is a hard rider and a long hitter, he is able to take up the burden of defense when his back goes forward and he is able to get the ball up the field to his No. 3. But the No. 3 on the American team will be selected primarily for his ability to work in co-ordination with the rest of the combination, and Stevenson has the task of proving that he fits in.

Will Face First Test Today.

This four is undoubtedly a powerful one, but every effort will be made to improve upon it if improvement is possible. This afternoon it will face its first test against a combination composed of Hopping, Robert E. Strawbridge Jr. and Stoddard. Hopping has recently returned from England, where he took part in the British tryouts, and he is considered one of the strongest contenders for the No. 1 position. Pedley, the Californian, has won fame in the East nearly overnight, although he has not taken part in an official game. This is his first year that he has played in this section of the country, but in practice at Meadow Brook he proved so brilliant that he was selected as one of the squad to try for places on the American team. Strawbridge is another of the candidates for the No. 3 position and he showed in the open championship and Monty Waterbury Cup tournaments last Fall that he must be strongly considered.

Other players who will be tried out are Morgan Belmont, Major Wilson, J. Cheever Cowdin, W. Averill Harriman and Stephen Stanford. The second match will be played on Saturday and further trials will be conducted three times a week until the middle of next month, when the final selection will be made and a drive will be started to perfect the team work of the combination. All of the tryouts will be played at the Meadow Brook Club, Westbury, L. I., and will be free to the public. The week-day games are scheduled to start at 5 o'clock, those on Saturday at 4 o'clock.

EATONTOWN VICTOR IN FINAL AT POLO

CEDARHURST, L. I., July 16.—Herbert Winn's brilliant playing carried the Eatontown polo team to a victory over the Flamingo four in the final game for the Independence Cups this afternoon on the field of the Rockaway Hunting Club. Winn seemed inspired for the day and his strokes carried with greater accuracy and for better distances than they have in any previous game this season. He rode up from his position at No. 3 time after time to weave his way through the ranks of the Flamingo horsemen, carrying the ball ahead of him, until he finally sent it through the opposing posts. Alone he accounted for six goals and his efforts were responsible for many of the other points piled up by Eatontown, which won the cups by the overwhelming score of 11 to 3, one of the Flamingos' tallies coming from a handicap allowance.

The line-up:

1—Max Phillips.	1—F. Ambrose Clark.
2—A. W. Kinney.	2—Fred Post.
Back—Terrence Fresco.	Back—J. O. Andrews.

The last-trench rally of the Yankees fell one run short in the Stadium yesterday and they lost to the Indians, 4 to 3. It was a disastrous defeat, for it dropped the champions down to within a half game of the ambitious Senators and a game and a half of Ty Cobb's clawing Tigers. The Detroit team gained on both the leaders, for it was winning two games from the Red Sox while the Yanks lost and the Senators were idle.

Wallie Schang missed a glorious opportunity in the home club's ninth-inning rally when he grounded straight at Joey Sewell with two on, two out and the ball game hanging in the balance. That skimming grounder looked like a letter from home to Sewell; he pounced on it, tossed to Fewster for a forced play at second and joined his teammates in the race for the clubhouse. The whole Cleveland team was glad to get away from there, and Pitcher Joe Shaute was happiest of all.

The burly left-hander had pitched a first-rate game and deserved his victory, but he was a worried young man in that final inning. The Yankees have formed a pleasing habit of late of coming from behind, and Shaute and the 8,000 customers in the stands thought they were going to do it again yesterday.

As it was, it took a sharp play by Walter Lutzke to keep the home boys from knotting the count again in their last turn at bat. Witt started it with a bounder that was plainly marked hit, but Lutzke raced over, took the ball in his gloved hand and nailed the cotton-haired speedster at first by a step. Dugan hoisted to left and Jamieson dropped the ball after he had it in his hands.

Ruth Fails in Pinch.

Here was a crisis, and here was Babe Ruth, the logical man to meet it, but for once the big fellow failed. He hit to Brower, who shot the ball to Sewell, forcing Dugan at second. The champions' ace had failed, but they were not through yet. Meusel drove a single to centre and Ruth raced to third before Speaker could get the ball in. With two strikes on him Wallie Pipp, the Michigan pickler, brought the crowd up standing with a clean hit to right that counted Ruth, but Schang followed with the grounder that ended the game and rally.

Waite Hoyt, the original New York pitcher, was knocked out for the second time in two days in the sixth inning. Jones, Shawkey and Gaston followed in rapid succession as named and none of them was scored on.

The Yanks scored in the first inning. Witt singled; Dugan hooked a fly between right and centre and Speaker made the mistake of letting McNulty try to catch it. The ball popped out of the right fielder's hands and there were two on with none out. Ruth was passed intentionally. Meusel hit into a double play, Lutzke to Brower, but Witt scored while it was being engineered. Pipp popped a fly between Speaker and McNulty and this time Witt took no chances, galloping over to make the catch himself.

Glenn Myatt waged a home run into the right-field bleachers in the second and knotted the count. This deadlock continued until The Tribe upset Hoyt in the sixth. When the enemy went on the warpath they did it in earnest. Jamieson, Speaker and Sewell singling in succession. Myatt forced Jamieson at the plate with a splash to Pipp, but Brower drove two runs in with a single to Witt and Myatt slipped clear around to third when Witt threw low to Ward in getting the ball back to the infield.

Chick Fewster hammered the third marker of the inning home with a single to right. This was Hoyt's exit cue. Jones came along to finish out the Cleveland half of the inning and prevent further run-making.

Yankees Get a Run.

Sad Sam gave way to Shawkey after Horan had hit for the latter in the home half of the sixth. This frame produced the second New York run out of a base on balls to Schang and Scott's long triple.

Shawkey pitched just long enough to perform an unusual feat. In the eighth inning he filled the bases with two passes and a single and then struck out Fewster and Lutzke and made Shaute lift an easy fly to Witt, leaving those three Cleveland base runners right where he had put them.

Pitcher Bush batted for Pitcher Shawkey after Scott had singled with two down in the eighth and this shift made the box score official, as it brought Milton Gaston's name into it. Gaston is pitching about two games a week these days at the rate of two or three innings a day. Yesterday he pitched only the ninth, allowing two hits but getting by without being scored on.

CUBS RALLY IN 9TH, BUT LOSE TO PHILS

Score Two Runs in Final Session and Drive Ring From Box, Only to Drop Game, 3-2.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The Cubs staged a desperate rally in the ninth inning today against the Phils and drove Jimmy Ring from the box after scoring two runs, but could not prolong the attack and were defeated by a score of 3 to 2, thus dropping further back in the National League pennant race.

Caught at the Plate.

Prior to the game it was learned that Cliff Markle, the pitcher recently acquired from the St. Paul club of the American Association, had jumped the New York team and departed for parts unknown. At last accounts Manager Huggins was bearing up bravely under the loss.

The Yankees gave Pitcher Roettger and a sum of cash for Markle. He was a disappointment from the beginning, failing to show any of the form that had made him a winner in the association.

The announcer pronounced Shaute's name "Shoot." An excellent name for a pitcher, although it isn't Shaute's. The name is pronounced "Shayute."

Ruth, who has never played a better game in the field than recently, robbed Joe Sewell of a long hit with a spectacular running catch in the fourth. In the seventh Babe made another nice catch of a line drive off Jamieson's bat and doubled McNulty off first.

The Lions Club of Hoboken saw the game from behind the Yankees' bench, but it didn't have much chance to roar.

Speaker still goes and gets them, no matter where they are. He took one off his shoe tops in the eighth with the same grace and ease that has always characterized his playing.

The season's standing between the two teams is the same as the score of the game, 4 to 3 in favor of the Indians.

KELLY'S HOME RUN BEATS PIRATES, 8-7

CHAMPIONS TAKE BIG LEAD

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, July 16.—A home run by George Kelly was the deciding blow in a hard-fought game between the Giants and Pirates today and enabled the Giants to win by a score of 8 to 7. This was Kelly's seventh home run in his last six games, his fourteenth of the season, and it was by far the most valuable of the lot. Had it not been delivered the Giants would have been beaten in a ninth-inning rush by the Pirates that made necessary the calling in of Claude Jonnard to relieve Bill Ryan. Ryan entered the game in the second inning when John Watson had been hammered out.

Five runs by the Giants in the first inning sent them away in front and they were not overhauled at any time, despite the frantic struggles of the Pirates. This first inning barrage disposed of Wilbur Cooper, who was succeeded by Ray Kremer. A pinch-hitter swung for Kremer in the seventh inning and Arnold Stone finished for the Pirates. The Giants got only four hits after the first round, but one of the four was Kelly's homer.

An error by Wright in the first inning probably did much to upset Cooper. Young had walked and Frisch had filed out when Southworth raised a pop fly to short left field. Wright darted back for the ball and got his hands on it, but couldn't cling to it. Then Meusel tripled to left centre, scoring Young and Southworth; Kelly singled to left, scoring Meusel, and Jackson doubled to right, sending Kelly to third. By this time it was obvious that Cooper was through and Kremer hurried to his rescue. The first ball pitched by Kremer got away from Smith, and Kelly scored, Jackson moving down to third. Groh rapped a single to left and Jackson scored. Heinie perished pilfering second, and after Gowdy had walked, Watson grounded to Wright.

Frisch hit to the bleachers in right centre for two bases in the second inning and scored on a single by Southworth.

Watson had retired only one batter in the Pirates' half of this round when he gave away to Ryan. Traynor singled to centre and raced to third on Grimm's single to right. Smith brought Traynor in with a sacrifice fly to Meusel and when Kremer singled to left Watson was derricked. Maranville tapped Ryan for a single to left, on which Grimm scored, but he got rid of Carey and Cuyler.

In the fifth inning the Pirates climbed up to within a run of the Giants. Carey doubled to right in that inning and scored when Cuyler made his second triple of the game, this time banging the ball down the right-field line. With the Giant infield playing back, Wright was thrown out by Jackson, but Cuyler scored while the play was in motion.

Kelly's homer sent the Giants away from the enemy in the seventh inning. Southworth had drawn a pass and Meusel had lined to Carey, when Kelly walloped the ball over the left field fence.

Carey got three bases in the seventh inning when his poke to centre field took a bad bound past Southworth. He scored when Cuyler singled to left.

The Pirates' half of the ninth started peacefully enough when Yde, who batted for Stone, filed to Southworth, but Maranville tripled to left. Out came Ryan and in went Jonnard to walk Carey, who stole second with the aid of a short passed ball. Jackson gathered up a grounder and threw him out, Maranville scoring and Carey reaching third. Wright, however, boosted a long fly to Young and the game was over.

BEARS LOSE IN 9TH WHEN STARS RALLY

Fill Bases in Second, but Three Men Are Caught at Plate and Syracuse Wins, 4-3.

SYRACUSE, July 16.—Syracuse defeated the Newark Bears in a sensational game this afternoon, Taggert's single, Krahe's triple, two passes and a sacrifice fly by Reinhart being bunched for the Stars in the final frame, netting two runs. The score was 4 to 3.

Newark had the bases full in the second inning but failed to score. Devine, Brainerd and Knothe were thrown out at the plate. Brown and Parks had a great pitching duel.

SKEETERS AND TRIBE SPLIT DOUBLE-HEADER

Jersey City Wins First, 11-4, but Rose's Homer in 11th Gives Rochester Second, 5-4.

ROCHESTER, July 16.—Rochester and Jersey City split a double-header for the second successive time in their series here, the Skeesters taking the first game, a free-hitting affair, 11 to 4, and losing the second in eleven innings, 5 to 4.

3 YACHTS CAPSIZE IN WOMEN'S REGATTA

5 OTHER CRAFT WITHDRAW

Two Are Fouled, While Four Find Wind Too Strong—Harlequin and No. 1 Are Home First.

WESTHAMPTON BEACH, L. I., July 16.—Women Corinthians had considerable trouble in the midweek regatta of the yacht squadron of the Westhampton Country Club off the Speonk shore today. The wind was fresh and from the southwest. It had so much body that three of the craft capsized, two had to withdraw on account of fouls and four found the wind and sea so unsuitable for racing that they gave up the brush.

The yachts were divided into three divisions. In the Sound Bird class the winner was Harlequin, sailed by Mrs. Halstead. No. 1, sailed by Miss Allen, was the first home in the little S. S. class. In the Marconi rigged division of the same class the winner was No. 4, sailed by Miss Ruprecht.

The yachts that capsized were all in these two divisions. In the S. S. class they were the boats sailed by Miss Jarvis and Miss Medina. The third was one of the Marconi boats. It was sailed by Miss Gillespie. All of the yachtswomen were rescued, none the worse for the wetting.

NAUTILUS WINNER IN YACHT RACE

CEDARHURST, L. I., July 16.—Although the junior representatives of the Cedarhurst Yacht Club took the second leg of the Interclub series against the youthful representatives of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club of Oyster Bay off here, to day, by a 24 to 22 score, the latter organization was the winner of the match by a grand total of 26 to 18 points.

The racing today was decidedly closer than the first race held off Oyster Bay a week ago. In fact it was so close that the two clubs tied in the catboat class with 18 points each. It was the victory of 6 to 4 points scored in the O division that placed the home club two points ahead in the racing today. It was not enough, however, to cut down the advantage rolled up by the Oyster Bay club in the first race.

A strong southwest wind enabled the craft to make excellent time in the racing today. In the catboat division, the winner was J. H. Weekes, who sailed Nautilus, the property of L. Marshall. Then came two of the Cedarhurst craft. Among the O boats, T. Dunston, a Cedarhurst sailor, was the first home. He sailed Coquina II.

ATHLETICS CAPTURE TWO.

Beat White Sox in First, 5-0, Win Second in Ninth, 6-5.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—The Athletics defeated the Chicago White Sox twice today, winning the first game, 5 to 0, and the second, 6 to 5. Sam Gray's pitching proved too much for the White Sox in the opening contest, the youthful Texan holding Chicago to four scattered safeties.

Chicago piled up a five-run lead in the second inning of the closing contest off Heimach, but were helpless against the relief hurling of Hasty. Going into the ninth a run behind the Athletics made three successful hits that scored two runs and brought them the victory.

Australians and Coast Stars To Play Tennis Here Saturday

Charles Chambers, Chairman of the Tournament Committee of the Crescent A. C., which is conducting the metropolitan grass court tennis championship at Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, beginning Saturday, announced yesterday that the Australian Davis Cup team and the California delegation of players, including Howard and Robert Kinsey, Clarence Griffin, Harvey Snodgrass and Walter Weahrook, will compete in the tournament, as also will Brian J. C. Norton, formerly of South Africa. There is a possibility that William Johnston will pair in the doubles with Griffin and that Tilden also will enter the doubles paired with A. L. (Sandy) Wiener.

COCHRAN BUYS IRIS, FORTY-FOOT YACHT

N. Y. Y. C. Member Purchases Noted Craft and Will Resume Racing in This Class.

The New York Yacht Club forty-footer Iris, it was learned yesterday, has been sold by General Howard S. Borden to Alexander Smith Cochran, New York Yacht Club, who in the past has owned some famous racing yachts. Iris, which was formerly Zilph, one of the original class built and raced by James B. Hayes, is now fitting out at Wood's Yard, City Island, and will be raced by Mr. Cochran, it is understood, during Larchmont race week and on the New York Yacht Club cruise.

The purchase of Iris not only marks Mr. Cochran's re-entry into the yacht racing game but it is interesting from a sentimental point of view. Mr. Cochran was one of the original owners in the famous forty-foot class, having built, when the class was turned out by Herreshoff in 1916, the sloop Dolly Bowen. This vessel, named for the yachtman's sister, was afterward sold down East and is still in Eastern waters under the name Cockatoo.

Iris was raced last year by General Borden with indifferent success, but in former years, under the ownership of Captain Hayes, was a hard sloop to beat and captured many prizes. Mr. Cochran, it will be remembered, in 1'14 built the sloop Vanitie from designs by William Gardner for the defense of the America's Cup. Vanitie was constructed of bronze and was one of the most costly racing yachts ever built. Resolute was finally chosen to defend the cup when the international races were held in 1920, although many yachtsmen believed Vanitie should have been chosen.

With the addition of Iris, practically all of the forty-footers at the western end of the Sound are in racing commission and include Banshee, Mistral, Shawara, Pampero, Typhoon and Rowdy. The class, as usual, is a very keen one in a racing sense.

SCHLESINGER LOSES ON GLENCOE COURT

GLENCOE, Ill., July 16.—All the leading lights of tennis attending the Illinois State championship here advanced through the third round today without an upset excepting R. E. Schlesinger, Australian Davis Cup player, who, falling before the clever court generalship of Lucien Williams, former Illinois State champion, took a place in the ranks of the eliminated beside his fellow-countryman, Pat O'Hara Wood, put out yesterday.

William T. Tilden, although at no time in actual danger, had a hard fight in disposing of Wray Brown of St. Louis, Missouri Valley champion, 6—4, 6—4, in the fourth round. It was the first match of the tournament in which the champion had had to extend himself.

Tilden played two other matches during the afternoon, winning easily from Dr. J. Weadley, Chicago, in the third round, and with his protégé, A. L. Wiener of Philadelphia, taking a doubles contest from Carter and Carter, Lake Forest.

Gerald Patterson, captain of the Australian Davis Cup team, had an easy time disposing of George O'Connell, Wisconsin State champion, by a score of 6—1, 6—1. Howard Kinsey of San Francisco eliminated Johnny Barr of Dallas, Texas, without difficulty while George Lott, Canadian singles champion, was disposing of Jerry Weber of Chicago. Walter Westbrook and Harvey Snodgrass of Los Angeles, H. H. Chapin of Springfield, Mass., Brian Norton of South Africa and Fred Kalms of Australia also took their third round matches in straight sets.

CARDS TWICE BEAT BRAVES.

Capture First Game by 7 to 4 and Win Second, 11 to 3.

ST. LOUIS, July 16.—Bunching their hits off Jess Barnes in the first game and scoring four runs for a safe lead off their former teammate, Lou North, in the second, St. Louis won both games of their doubleheader with Boston here today. The Cards won the first game, 7 to 4, and took the second, 11 to 3.

The Braves' twelve hits off Dyer in the first game were scattered, while Stuart was in good form. In the opener, Toporcer hit safely four times, getting a triple, double and two singles.

ROBINS AND REDS DIVIDE TWO GAMES

Brooklyn Club Wins the First, 5 to 4; Then Loses Second Contest, 9 to 6.

VANCE STEADY ON MOUND

CINCINNATI, July 16.—The Robins and Reds divided a double-header here this afternoon. The Robins won the first game by a score of 5 to 4, but lost a four-run lead in the second and sustained a 9 to 6 defeat. However, as the Pirates and Cubs both lost, Uncle Robbie's men gained ground in their fight to take second place in the race. The Brooklyn team is now in undisputed possession of third place and only a game behind the second place Cubs.

Dazzy Vance hurled the first game and outpitched Benton and Tom Sheehan. Nine hits were made off Vance, who struck out four batters. All of Vance's strike-outs were registered when the Reds needed a hit to turn the tide of battle in their favor.

In the second game the Robins piled up a four-run lead for Tiny Osborne, but in the sixth inning he weakened and the Reds bunched six hits and evened the count. The Robins regained the lead in the seventh, when they scored two more runs, but Hendricks's men came back in their half of the inning and once more tied the score, when they chased Osborne to the showers. Dutch Henry succeeded Osborne, and in the eighth frame the Reds jumped on his left-handed shoots for three runs that gave them a victory.

Reds in Uphill Fight.

In winning the uphill battle, the Reds used almost their entire staff of pitchers. Pete Donohue started the game and retired at the end of the sixth frame. Jake May hurled the next inning, and the Robins made two runs off him. Sheehan followed May to the mound, but after he had pitched to two batters in the eighth Rogo Rixey was called upon to relieve him. Rixey proved to be a puzzle to the Robin hitters, who were unable to score off him.

Andy High's batting was a big factor in Vance's victory. The midget infielder made four hits in five trips to the plate and his blows figured in four of the Brooklyn tallies. High opened the game with a single and scored on Johnston's double. In the third Andy tripled and tallied after Roush caught Johnston's long fly. In the seventh inning he made a single with two out, and the hit scored Stock and Neis with runs that put his team in front.

In the first inning the Reds scored off Vance when Crits reached second on Neis's muff and scored on a single by Roush. Dazzy lost his effectiveness in the fourth, when four singles netted the locals two tallies. They made their last run in the ninth and it was the result of a double by Walker and Caveney's single.

Crits Hits Timely Triple.

Until Osborne blew up in the second game the Robins appeared to be moving along to another victory, but once the Reds got started they continued to swing their bats effectively. Their winning tallies resulted from an intentional pass to Hargrave, singles by Pinelli and Rixey and a triple over Neis's head by Crits.

Pitcher Rube Ehrhart reported to Manager Wilbert Robinson this morning and pitched to the Robin batters in practice. He is a tall right-hander. Jean Oliver, the team's coach, has gone to Des Moines to look over two pitchers for Uncle Robbie.

COLLEGE STARS GAIN IN LONGWOOD TENNIS

Rice and Kelleher Lose to Herrington and Whitney—Veterans Meet Youths in Today's Matches.

BOSTON, July 16.—The first break in the seeded ranks in the thirty-second annual Longwood Bowl singles tournament in progress at Chestnut Hill came late today when Hugh Kelleher of New York and Gerald B. Emerson of Orange, N. J., were prevented by young collegians from reaching the round before the semi-finals. Kelleher, who was seeded fifth, fell before the powerful all-court play of Lewis N. White of Austin, Texas, three sets to one, while Emerson went down by the same margin in his match with Irving Weinstein of San Francisco.

Another upset developed in the doubles when Lawrence B. Rice of Boston and Kelleher, a seeded team, were eliminated by Alan Herrington, Los Angeles schoolboy star, and Edward H. Whitney, former Harvard player.

Tomorrow's singles matches will find Wallace Johnson of Cynwyd, Pa., pitted against Jerome Lang, a Columbia undergraduate; N. W. Niles of Boston meeting Fritz Mercur, Lehigh University; G. P. Gardner of Boston playing Lewis N. White, University of Texas, and L. H. Rice, Boston, contending with Irving Weinstein, San Francisco. In every instance a collegian will oppose a veteran.

The summaries.

Longwood Bowl Singles, Fourth Round—Wallace F. Johnson, Cynwyd, Pa., defeated William W. Tripp, Boston, 6—4, 6—1, 6—0; Jerome Lang, New York, defeated Henry B. Guild, Boston, 10—8, 6—4, 6—1; N. W. Niles, Boston, defeated H. B. Shaw, Boston, 1—6, 6—1, 6—2; Fritz Mercur, Harrisburg, Pa., defeated Henry L. Johnson Jr., Wabaham, 8—6, 8—6, 3—6; G. Peabody Gardner Jr., Boston, defeated Louis Theimer, Dallas, Texas, 4—6, 6—0, 6—0; Lewis N. White, Austin, Texas, defeated Hugh Kelleher, New York, 2—6, 6—4, 8—6, 6—1; Lawrence B. Rice, Boston, defeated J. N. Reggio, Boston, 6—2, 6—4, 6—3; Irving Weinstein, San Francisco, defeated Gerald B. Emerson, Orange, N. J., 6—1, 6—2, 6—0.

Longwood Doubles—Wallace F. Johnson, Cynwyd, Pa., and Harry C. Johnson, Boston, defeated Josiah Wheelwright and W. E. Porter Jr., Boston, 6—1, 6—4, 6—2; Alan Herrington, Los Angeles, and E. H. Whitney, Boston, defeated Hugh Kelleher, New York, and L. B. Rice, Boston, 2—6, 6

POLITICAL GENERAL STAFFS.

The Presidential campaign has now reached the familiar stage of high strategy. Intense thought is given to party organization. For the time being the question who is to be Chairman takes precedence over the question who is to be President. In addition to the National Committee, the Republicans are to have an "advisory board." The swift Democratic counter to this is the announcement that Mr. DAVIS is to be aided by a "board of strategy." Political headquarters resemble nothing so much today as Great Headquarters in wartime when General Staffs are busy working out every detail of the campaign. Political orators are for the moment silenced. The floor is yielded to the strategist and the tactician.

All these matters doubtless require attention, but the mystery and solemnity attached to them are sometimes enough to make a graven image smile. The military analogy is far from going on all fours; it limps lamely in each of its feet. Of what use is it for a political General to make astute plans how to mobilize and to use this or that division or army corps, when for all he knows it may at any moment go over to the enemy with flags flying and drums beating? No political General Staff can do more than guess at the number of "effectives" it will be able to place in the field. The history of our politics is one long warning against supposing that organization and clever devices will avail for one moment against some great surge of public opinion that rises no one knows why or how, and sweeps everything before it. The campaign has to be planned, of course, as if those in charge of it knew approximately what its course and outcome will be; but they do not know, and in their franker moments will privately admit that in this respect they are no wiser than the ordinary gum-chewing citizen.

A vast number of unknown quantities enter into the equations which the mathematicians of the political General Staff have to solve. They cannot be prevented from making nice calculations. That is their business. Any member of the National Committee who could not produce on demand a neat little table of electoral votes, showing just how many he needed and how many he was going to snatch away from his opponents, all unbeknownst to them, would not consider that he was living up to the dignity of his job. But the most skilled strategy, in politics as in military affairs, will always be trying to prepare itself to meet the unexpected. The Duke of WELLINGTON said that half the art of winning battles lay in guessing accurately what was happening on the other side of the hill. There will be things going on there this Summer which our political strategists would give all their maps and charts and elaborate plans to know in advance. But like the rest of us humbler mortals, they will have to wait for the event to demonstrate whether all their taking thought and making arrangements were lucky or unlucky. At present neither they nor anybody else can say which.

FARMER-LABOR IN THE DESERT.

The two gentlemen who consented to be named for President and Vice President at the recent Farmer-Labor Convention at St. Paul were aware that the honor might be extremely temporary. But whereas they and the bulk of the convention thought they were keeping a place warm for LA FOLLETTE, W. Z. FOSTER knew better. His amazement at the reactionary character of the La Follette convention at Cleveland was probably not so unaffected as his manifesto would suggest. Already in St. Paul he must have anticipated what has come to pass, namely, that the permanent candidates of the Farmer-Labor Party are W. Z. FOSTER and BURTON WHEELER GITLOW, who, by an extraordinary coincidence, are also the nominees of the Communist Workers' Party.

The Foster subtlety now promises to turn out a bit too subtle. Farmer-Labor is beginning to express dissatisfaction with the strange kind of eggs in the Farmer-Labor nest. The Chairman and Secretary of the Progressive Party in Nebraska have resigned from the National Committee of the Farmer-Labor Party. The Executive Committee of the Farmer-Labor Party in California has repudiated the Foster-Gitlow ticket and affirmed its allegiance to LA FOLLETTE. Obviously, the hyphen between farmer and laborer is stretching to the point of breaking. The farmer now has his choice of awaiting better times with COOLIDGE, or voicing resentment with DAVIS, or registering permanent discontent with LA FOLLETTE, without going so far as Moscow with W. Z. FOSTER. The labor element has its choice among Gompers non-partisanship, LA FOLLETTE and the Socialists.

For FOSTER remain the ultra-red fringes of American "peasants and workers." Numerically it is far from a potent army, and he may have put himself seriously at a disadvantage by submitting to an actual count. It has been estimated that the Communist membership in this country does not go much above five thousand, of which the greater part would be the so-called foreign-language federations; that is to say, alien non-voters. The Communist vote next November is likely to reveal with what a poor hand of cards W. Z. FOSTER has been sitting in at the Farmer-Labor game. It would not be surprising if the desire to avoid such a showdown may yet bring the withdrawal of the Foster-Gitlow candidacies "in favor" of the reactionary gentleman from Wisconsin.

LA FOLLETTIANA.

Can it be true that the time-hardened machine politician and boss, Senator LA FOLLETTE, has resolved to tear out of the Book of Political Ritual the page, the important page, on Notification Ceremonies? Is he so incredibly "progressive" as that? A tale or legend to that effect comes from Washington. This is a great "economic" battle. Its Commander-in-Chief believes in the conservation of energy. Why waste that, good money—yet to be procured from the faithful—and his precious time on this ancient form of surprise party? He may even restrain himself from making a Notification Speech; but perhaps he will prove unequal to that dizzy height of self-denial.

Still, there seems to be no reason why Mr. LA FOLLETTE should make any large demands upon his voice, brain or constitution in a campaign that is virtually over before it has formally begun. "History may be searched in vain" for such a stupendous, miraculous, Jack-and-the-Bean-Stalk growth of a political party as Mr. LA FOLLETTE's grand mastodonic aggregation, conglomeration and olio of all the isms and schisms has shown. On July 4 the brethren of the Conference for Progressive Political Action in Cleveland "represented 5,000,000 votes," not counting General Keep-Off-the-Grass COXEY, cruelly barred from a seat in that conclave of which he was a precursor. On July 15, "according to official figures," the various groups represented by delegates at Cleveland spoke directly for 12,200,000 men and women voters.

Moreover, these 12,200,000 voters "have family relationships and other affiliations that ultimately will tend "to broaden the scope of the progressive movement." Clearly, a movement that gains 7,200,000 voters in eleven days needs controlling rather than broadening. It is already irresistible. It embraces nearly one-quarter of the whole voting population. In less than three months, if it waxes at the same rate, it will have gathered in not only the whole body of possible legal voters, but millions in their nonage. It seems clear that Mr. LA FOLLETTE's unanimous election is certain. He might well take a little trip to Moscow instead of going through the forms of a canvass. We haven't heard much about Senator BROOKHART lately. When last sighted he was a regular Republican, but so is Mr. LA FOLLETTE; and the mathematical precision of these "official figures" suggests, even if it may be thought to transcend, the masterly "figuring" of the Iowa Sir Isaac.

THE JAPANESE IN HAWAII.

The Department of Labor has ruled that Japanese laborers domiciled in Hawaii may not be admitted to the mainland of the United States. This decision is based on former statutes rather than on the new Immigration law and simply perpetuates a past policy. To this extent it will satisfy the Californians, who had dreaded an influx of Japanese from the Islands. But it is certain to meet with hostile criticism from the Japanese. It had been their hope that the new law would permit the Hawaiian Japanese to move freely within the territories of the United States instead of being restricted to the Islands as they had formerly been. This particular status was an outgrowth of the practical development of the gentlemen's agreement. For purposes of immigration matters Hawaii and the other insular possessions and territories have been considered in a category separate from the mainland of the United States.

The 1920 census shows that the Japanese in that year formed 42.7 per cent. of the total population of Hawaii and numbered 109,600. This is at a ratio of almost ten Japanese to every native-born American (presumably exclusive of the temporarily stationed military and naval forces). Out of these 109,000 Japanese nearly 61,000 were born in Japan. The increase in the total Japanese population over the numbers shown by the 1910 census is about 30,000, of which two-thirds were new arrivals from Japan. The three years following 1920 show a very small gain through immigration, owing to an approximate balance of arrivals and departures. The total Japanese population in Hawaii today is probably in the neighborhood of 125,000.

California, which in 1920 already had 72,000 out of the total of 111,000 Japanese shown by the census to be in the continental United States, has naturally not been anxious to see this number increased by any large influx from Hawaii. California's prejudice against the Japanese is directed solely at their presence on the Pacific Coast and not at their land of origin or their last domicile. They are, therefore, as opposed to Japanese from Hawaii as from Japan. But even should the present ruling of the Department of Labor be overthrown, it is more than probable that the Californians would find that their fears of a new Japanese "invasion" are unfounded. The Japanese already in Hawaii are more contented with their lot there than are the Japanese in California.

BY TORCH AND TRUMPET FAST ARRAYED.

How will Mr. CHARLES G. DAWES, so impatient of flummery, enjoy that procession of 2,500 enthusiasts carrying "2,500 kerosene torches, exactly duplicating those of the '80s," which are to illuminate his "official notification" on Aug. 19? And what torches of the '80s are to be imitated? Those of 1884? Why not go back to a happier omen, the Wide Awakes of '60? The symbolism of the torch is evident. Is the American political man an inherent torch-bearer? Oldsters can recall political parades in cities, where there were sometimes more than playful applications of the poles of taediferous patriots to the heads and shoulders of facetious "ruffians" of the other party. There was something youthful and ingenuous in those campaign "larks." In more primitive days a torchlight procession marching by houses burning candles in their windows—to the delight of small boys hopeful of a fire—was an epoch, a thrilling event in the drab life of villagers.

There are no villages now. We are all urban, children of the movie and the radio, speeders of the car, "fed up" with searchlights and colored lights. Perhaps we ought to be glad of any revival of the torchlight procession, though it beckons back to a vanished Arcadia, and so must be classified as "reactionary." But speaking of symbolism, is it prudent for the Republicans to shoulder kerosene torches? We seem to hear the Democratic "ruffians" yelling "Oil, Oil, Oil!"

ARMY RECRUITING MARKS TIME.

Adjutant General DAVIS's order to discontinue enlistments except in the case of men credited with prior service was made necessary by the increase of the regular army to 123,793 men. The maximum permitted under the law is 125,000, but for the fiscal year 1924-25 Congress appropriated funds sufficient only for an average enlisted strength of 118,750. Terms, however, are constantly expiring. Enrolment varies from month to month. For some time to come the total for mid-July will be the peak. The effort of the Adjutant General's Department will be to keep the enlisted strength from falling much below 118,750 during the year. On July 1, 1923, it was 111,275. General DAVIS's order is, of course, for the present only. It has been calculated that 57,000 replacements will have to be made during this fiscal year, as compared with 77,000 for the last. In 1920 the War Department was obliged to make a "drive" for three-year term recruits. Their enlistments expired in the latter part of 1923 and the early months of this year. The Adjutant General was concerned about replacements when he said in his annual report of November, 1923:

> The small pay of the recruit and the remarkably high wages paid for labor of all kinds throughout the United States have greatly discouraged enlistments.

Congress added to the War Department's embarrassment by requiring that applicants must furnish a birth certificate, or the affidavit of two disinterested witnesses showing that they were over 21 years of age. This evidence many applicants have not been able to produce. It was uphill work for the Adjutant General's Department to obtain replacements during the Winter and Spring. That they were got may be due in part to the fact that able-bodied men found it difficult to get "the remarkably high wages paid for labor of all kinds." When there is no unemployment the recruiting service is not popular in the army. An assignment to it is unwelcome. But when mills close and the pavements outside employment agencies are blocked with men studying "wants" posted in doorways the recruiting business looks up. A run on the enlistment booths becomes an unmistakable economic sign.

In justice to General DAVIS it should be said that he has a genius for getting results in any post he fills. As an organizer he takes high rank in the army. If more recruits are wanted, he brings the right team-work into play to get them. As Adjutant General of the American Expeditionary Force at Chaumont he excelled in eliminating and consolidating divisions. When he was appointed Adjutant General of the army in 1922 at the age of 45 he had already done a remarkable piece of reorganization work as a subordinate. Secretary WEEKS paid a high and deserved tribute to him.

"GREATER CLARKSBURG."

"Clarksburg lays no flattering claim to greatness." The article which begins with this modest sentence was published in The West Virginia Review last April. At that time the city which but a few years ago was only a small town (9,201, according to the census of 1910) had not even a suspicion of the greatness that was soon to be thrust upon it. Its chronicler, just quoted, was thinking only of its "marvelous" material growth and of its residential advantages, which by 1920 had come to provide for a population of 27,869. Only by comparison with New York, Chicago or Boston can it rightfully be called a "small town." So great an authority as Judge BEN LINDSAY, coming as a stranger and lecturer to that busy place, compared it favorably with a city of 100,000 people.

There will be national curiosity to learn why Clarksburg, which was a village when JOHN W. DAVIS was born there, should now be a flourishing commercial and manufacturing centre. It is primarily because coal, oil and gas make it an advantageous place for industries. The city boasts of having "the largest glass tumbler plant" in the entire world. "Small boys" all over the world" play with marbles made in Clarksburg. But these are only two items in a long list, which includes window glass in enormous quantities, fruit jars, milk bottles, proprietary and preserve bottles (but no bottles for intoxicants), dinner ware, pottery, tin plate, carbon electrodes, tin cans, glass molds, caskets, boxes, macaroni, zinc spelter, brick, tile, porch swings and numerous food articles that find their markets "in all quarters of the globe."

"Getting us acquainted with one another," said the President of the Clarksburg Chamber of Commerce last April, "is primary to acquainting "the rest of the country with the business opportunities and scenic grandeur of our Heaven-favored State." But "Greater Clarksburg," with all its material growth and promise and with its "grand galaxy of stars in the arena of pioneer history," including GEORGE ROGERS CLARK, and its later heroes, among whom was "STONEWALL" JACKSON, has now a distinction surpassing that which was celebrated in this local acrostic by HARRISON G. OTIS:

> Clarksburg, Fuel City of the Fuel State,
> Looks to the hills for strength, and not in vain;
> Acres of coal the miners' picks await;
> Keen-visioned men build factories and mills;
> Ships bear our products to the seven seas.
> Beef cattle graze the rolling bluegrass hills,
> Unmindful of the sheep beneath the trees.
> Good people, thirty thousand, call it "Home."

"What more can be said to the credit of the city?" asked the historian after quoting these lines. The question put by his fatigued imagination has since had an answer which some day may make the "Greater Clarksburg" known as a birthplace as widely as for its wares.

ANOTHER JUDGE RESIGNS.

The Federal Bench suffers a distinct loss in the resignation, announced this morning, of Judge MAYER. For reasons which he regards as compelling, he leaves the public service, in which he has played a highly useful part, in order to look after his private affairs so long subordinated to his judicial work. As District Judge in New York, Judge MAYER has had to pass upon an extraordinary amount of important litigation. Great properties of widely diverse nature have been taken under the care of his court. That they have been guarded and administered by Judge MAYER with the utmost integrity, with unremitting industry, and with great skill, the records of his court amply testify. Only the other day in winding up one of the big receiverships which had been in his hands, representatives both of the property returned to its owners and of the bar in general spoke in the warmest terms of the fidelity and sagacity with which he had executed this trust.

It is one of the anomalies of our judicial system that a Judge who, like Mr. MAYER, may be placed in control of large corporations, temporarily embarrassed, with property interests figured in the hundreds of millions, should receive a salary no greater than many a salesman or advertising agent gets. In too many cases the personal sacrifice required for the sake of the honor and dignity of the Bench proves too severe after the lapse of a few years. That it has done so in the case of Judge MAYER must be a source of regret on every public ground. It is true that the Government cannot compete with private business in bidding for the services of high talent. But it might at least pay its Judges enough to enable them to live slightly above the level of genteel poverty.

THE MONEYED CAPITAL TAX.

"Moneyed capital" is a phrase in the Federal law passed after the Civil War to prevent the States from taxing national banks otherwise than their State competitors. Yet a majority of the States did tax the national banks discriminatingly. New York was a flagrant offender, taxing national banks both doubly and differently. It taxed bank shares as property at an arbitrary specific rate, and also taxed national bank dividends as income.

Both State and national tax laws were revised to meet the dilemma caused by the need of repaying a score of millions of illegally collected taxes in this State alone. Our State Supreme Court now sustains the State legislation reaffirming the old law of the '60s.

Hundreds of cases are said to depend upon the eleven test cases before Judge PROSKAUER. The State statute itself is sustained by him on the ground that "the competitive use of "moneyed capital is not (as was "argued) a whimsical or irrational "criterion of classification." The classification being valid, it follows that all falling within it are taxable. A private banker receiving deposits of $5,500,000 obviously has moneyed capital and does business competitively with other banks. "Between his firm "and national banks there is actual "rivalry," says the Court. In such cases the tax must be paid. But it is otherwise with many using moneyed capital in familiar ways, not as bankers. Neither brokers on any exchange nor pawnbrokers are competitors with national banks in the opinion of the man in the street any more than in the opinion of the Court. Among other assessments invalidated are those on bond houses doing business over the counter, with or without the making of loans, building and loan companies, sellers on the instalment plan, dealers in odd lots of securities. The tax levy is tested by the facts of the business, not by the language of the statute. It may be hoped that the decision will stabilize this unsettled situation for the great majority of those concerned, and leave the question open only for individuals. The tax assessors hereafter will feel less freedom to tax with a blunderbuss all sorts and conditions of dealers in and with moneyed capital.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

They Also Want Their Rights.

Paris, being, as is well known, the Centre of Civilization and the City of Light, takes its seers and seeresses, its wizards and witches, its diviners and oneiropomps, its cartomancists and interpreters of tea leaves and coffee grounds, its summoners of spirits from vasty deeps and elsewhere, its readers of palms and those who behold in crystals and puddles of ink such visions as anybody will pay to hear about, far more seriously than such gifted persons are taken in the ruder regions of the Western World. The prophecies of the distinguished Mme. THEBES, for instance, are, or were, gravely heard and considered by the Parisian intelligentsia, and not infrequently they have been cabled over here to be received, alas! as rather more interesting for what they showed about our French neighbors than for the information and warnings they gave.

It is not surprising to learn, therefore, that these brothers and sisters of the mystic cults have formed or are about to form something like a labor union. Even in France, it seems, the police are not so respectful as they should be to the possessors of supernatural powers and occasionally arrest them on more or less vague charges. Thus harassed, the favorites of the spirits are banding together for the protection which lies in united strength, and for the purpose of finding out just what their legal rights are and then maintaining them.

Whether or not the intention is to standardise fees and fix hours of labor, with extra pay for overtime, the dispatches do not state, but presumably something of this sort will be done—as why shouldn't it? So long as there is a demand for necromancy, and for white, or even black, magic, there is sure to be a supply. If history tells us anything clearly it is that fortune-telling is an art that in the past has appealed to the taste and commanded the faith of the greater part of the earth's population, and who are we moderns to claim superior wisdom?

If for no other and than the exchange of information among its members, a sorcerers' union would be useful to the sorcerers. Such an exchange already exists, in a desultory and ill-organized way, but the business will benefit from the adoption of strict business principles, with a proper system of "cards," dues and fines.

Mountains Stripped of Trees.

With scientific forestry in this country still little more than a beginning, and the greater part of our once endless woods already gone, such news as came yesterday from the Pacific Slope of fires sweeping over great areas on the mountain sides is particularly lamentable. Only in that part of the United States are there left great stretches of valuable timber land, and to have millions of big trees burned is a real national calamity.

Fortunately, the latest dispatches tell of rains that have checked the destruction for the time, but an enormous amount of harm already has been done, and it is only too nearly certain that the tracts thus denuded will not soon be covered with trees again. In the East, this year, forest fires have been few and small, thanks to an unusually heavy rainfall, but out West droughts have been severe ever since Spring, just where they could do the most harm.

That we continue to allow the burning of the few forests we have left should cause more of humiliation than it does, for such fires are preventable, and they do not occur in the European countries where expensive experience has taught the value of woodlands and all such tracts have the not very expensive protection which is all they need. A forest kept clear of underbrush is in little danger, and there is no mystery about the ways in which a forest can be continually cut and still remain a source of timber supply.

There lingers among us, unfortunately, the delusion that was nearly a truth in Colonial days—that our woods are inexhaustible. For the early settlers on the Eastern coast every tree cut down meant more land on which to raise crops. They burned and slashed ruthlessly, and the habit lingers. Today it would be wise if everybody who felled a tree were compelled to plant two others, for though the substitutes for wood are many it still has uses which nothing else will serve, and already prices for lumber are so high as to be burdensome when they are not prohibitive.

Reforestation well might be made an issue on which both or all of the political parties could unite. They do talk a little about it, but they are forgetful after election, and the woodland owners go right on "doing what they please with their own." What they please to do is terribly costly in the end, not only to themselves but to everybody else.

It Sounds Rather Like Africa.

One difference between our British cousins and ourselves was illustrated in Parliament, this week, when not a little time was devoted to seemingly serious discussion of the "Stone of Scone." A Scotch member gravely argued that upon it JACOB's head rested while he dreamed about the angels going up and down a ladder that reached to Heaven, and as gravely he demanded that it be removed from Westminster Abbey and taken back to Scotland, whence it was stolen some centuries ago.

He didn't quite say that if the Scotch could get their fetish back they would recover their sovereignty over the United Kingdom, but he seems to have some such idea in the back of his head, and the instant antagonism excited by his proposal indicated that his English colleagues weren't sure that he was wrong in his expectation.

Probably the British are no more superstitious than we are, but they are a good deal franker in confessing their superstitions. The Stone of Scone lacks even the merit of being an aerolite, as is the black stone in the Kaaba at Mecca, so the ascription to it of mystical virtues has a poorer foundation than serves for the pious Moslem. It has been venerated, however, as a source of power and right to rule since the very dawn of British history, and doubtless it is such a source for all who believe in its efficacy. Men will fight well for what they are sure they both want and are going to get, and for the Stone of Scone to produce such assurance would be a phenomenon as familiar as any in human annals.

Warnings Often Ignored.

New York's little epidemic of typhoid has been traced to its source—a brook that falls over the Palisades up in Interstate Park. Its waters are infested by the bacillus that causes the dread fever, and campers and hikers have been drinking of them with the inevitable result.

Whether they will stop doing it now that due warning has been given is a little doubtful. There still are people "who do not believe in microbes," and they seem to be particularly numerous up in New Rochelle. There the Board of Health, after proper examination, has pronounced the water of the Sound at Hudson Park heavily and dangerously contaminated by sewage, and the city has closed its bathhouses. But bathers by the hundred and even the thousand still go into that water daily, and nothing is done to stop them.

Incidentally, the bathing facilities at that park have brought a lot of money into the town, and the local Chamber of Commerce thinks that the closing of the bathhouses was an unnecessary interference with business and says so emphatically. It naturally would.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"New it's like son like father: George E. Maughan, 64, of Minneapolis, whose boy Lieutenant Maughan made the dawn-to-dusk cross-continent flight, takes his first airplane ride."

There is no word of truth in the statement that George E. Maughan of Minneapolis is the father of Lieutenant Maughan who made the dawn-to-dusk flight across the continent. Lieutenant Maughan's grandfather drove the first ox team into what is now called Logan, Cache Valley, Utah. He was the first pioneer in that valley. Lieutenant Maughan was born in Logan, Utah, and lived there all his life until he entered the army. I knew his father and mother well. I have known Lieutenant Maughan all his life, and George E. Maughan is not his father or any relation whatever to him.

Davis Myths.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article in today's issue, "Myth Makers at Work," void of even a tinge of irony, sarcasm or satire, should satisfy every Democrat who loves his country and his party. Let every Democrat paste in his hatband "Myth Makers at Work," and any excuse any one can offer for deserting the cause of Davis is answered and shattered.

NAN TERRELL REED.

He Gets No Sympathy From Civil Service Reform Workers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial article of July 4 on "Anderson's Conviction Affirmed" you aptly say that "almost more revolting than Anderson's proven crime was his attack upon the courts, the 'Irish Catholic Tammany Judges,' his assertion that he was the victim of a conspiracy, his virtual appeal to an avowed Protestantism and the Ku Klux Klan." Indeed, the courts and the Catholics were not the only things attacked and vilified, but all those who ventured to criticise anything that the members of the Anti-Saloon League had done. The National Civil Service Reform League had criticized their support of the clause in the Volstead law making political spoils of the places in the Prohibition Field Service, upon which Mr. Anderson wrote me:

"I read with amazement your charge that the Anti-Saloon League 'let Congressmen have all the plunder they wanted.' The sophistry of this statement is so gross as to constitute it an unvarnished falsehood, which fact a man of your general intelligence must be presumed to know."

I ought perhaps to have thanked Mr. Anderson for this concession of intelligence, since it did not seem to be his habit to concede any desirable human quality to those whose opinions differed from his own. He thus continues:

"An attack on the Anti-Saloon League comes with poor grace from an institution which, according to advice given the National Legislative and Executive Committees, of both of which I happen to be a member, failed to keep an understanding that it entered into." Not a word as to what that advice was and by whom it was given or what was the pretended "understanding." All this is as nebulous as the evanescent Mr. King who contributed the $25,000 to a man whose ways and manners were so attractive to him.

It is unnecessary to say in answer to such a discredited accuser that the National Civil Service Reform League did not fail to keep any understanding into which it ever entered.

Mr. Anderson proceeds: "The truth is that if it had not been for the folly of what we were advised was the unreasonable attitude of the National Civil Service Reform League in demanding the impossible, the Anti-Saloon League might have secured before this the placing of prohibition enforcement agents under civil service, in spite of the fact that there are some Congressmen who still want this bit of patronage." Now this "attitude" of which he speaks is and always has been precisely that of President Coolidge in his message to Congress, to wit: that this whole service ought to be classified, without "covering in" the horde of miscreants, many of whom have dishonored it. We do not believe that the President has been demanding the impossible. Indeed the Anti-Saloonists have at last been driven to support the Cramton bill, in which our "unreasonable attitude" has been fully embodied.

He continues: "The Anti-Saloon League has no apology to make to any civil service organization or anybody else for choosing to get the best possible prohibition enforcement law passed, even if it did not satisfy the advocates of civil service." This, then, was the best possible law; they got it passed, and the rest of us might go hang. But he adds: "The responsibility for weakness we could not help was not upon the Anti-Saloon League but upon the Congress." So there was weakness after all, but the responsibility was not upon the league he represented but upon the wicked Congressmen.

No, no, Mr. Anderson, this will not do. There was weakness, indeed, but it was the weakness of the leaders and spokesmen of this organization, who did not dare to lift a finger or whisper a word against the infamous system of political plunder which the bill inaugurated, but let the pirates who wanted this "bit of patronage" have what they demanded. They were the strong ones—strong enough to get away with the pillage and let loose their infamous crew of freebooters upon the country.

"Under the circumstances, the charge that the Anti-Saloon League 'bought the bill with Congressional patronage and paid for it with offices paid out of taxes levied upon the people' established a new low-level record of contemptible mendacity."

He spoke as one having authority. Perhaps he is an expert in mendacity, and knows its lowest levels better than the rest of us. If so, we should listen with the respect due to such superior acquirements. But since the league got the Congressmen's votes and the Congressmen "who still want this bit of patronage" got the places which many of them filled with wretches who made huge fortunes out of bribery, there will remain some who will wonder whether the act of the representatives and spokesmen of the league did not come pretty close to buying the votes of the people's representatives. If Congressmen told them that they would not vote for the bill without that clause, they said in effect that they would not vote for it without being paid in political patronage, and if the leaders of the league acquiesced, what was the inevitable inference?

Your news columns report that an effort will be made by his friends in the Anti-Saloon League to secure his pardon from Governor Smith. Will they continue to support the kind of leader and spokesman who, like the man convicted, have continually misled their consents, or will they now repudiate him and move on under better leadership to more successful accomplishment? It is to be hoped, in the name of that law enforcement upon which they so strenuously insist when it applies to the one law they love, that any efforts to weaken by misplaced clemency the enforcement of the law against forgery will be ineffectual.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I register through your columns a complaint against the manner in which the management of the Stadium Concerts at the Lewisohn Stadium meet their contract in the event of the occurrence of rain during the progress of the performance?

"Notice—In case of rain before the concert starts or before the intermission, the concert will take place in the Great Hall of the City College. In case of rain after the intermission, the concert will be considered finished."

On July 1 rain began during the intermission and the concert was declared over, with reasonable justice, perhaps. But, on Sunday night, July 13, rain began to fall during the last movement of the Cesar Franck symphony, just before the intermission, and, with the number completed, the conductor, seeing the rain, announced that a rest period of only five minutes would be taken (it would have been more logical to prolong the intermission), and if the rain ceased, the concert would be continued in the open, but not a thought of complying with the Great Hall as the program states would be done. An audience of four or five thousand should be accorded rather more consideration.

OPERATIC INSTITUTE CORNERSTONE LAID

Special to The New York Times.

STONY POINT, N. Y., July 16.—Stony Point today celebrated the 145th anniversary of "Mad Anthony" Wayne's victory over the British during the Revolution and also witnessed the laying of the cornerstone of Max Rabinoff's American Institute of Operatic Art, which is intended to be a "laboratory" for native singers and composers and to aid in launching them upon successful careers.

The laying of the stone was performed by Senator William H. King of Utah beside a gaily decorated pavilion on the site of the stage, which is to be equal in size to that of the Metropolitan Opera House. The theatre is to be built of rough stone and will seat 600, but it will be in a natural amphitheatre, and its sides can be raised so that from 12,000 to 15,000 persons on the adjacent slopes can witness a performance.

Mr. Rabinoff, whose Summer residence a few hundred yards away was once the headquarters of General Wayne, already has constructed the largest scenic stadium in America at Stony Point, where coming productions at the Metropolitan Opera House are already being painted. In addition to the theatre and the studio there will be dormitories and a folk-lore and musical library.

H. W. Hubbard, for many years music critic of The Chicago Tribune, explained the scope of the undertaking and was the chief speaker at the exercises.

Critic Says Talent Is Wasted.

"There is a tremendous waste of operatic talent in America," said Mr. Hubbard. "The Metropolitan Opera Company in New York and the Chicago Opera Company are the only first-class organizations. Our music conservatories and schools are doing splendid work, but they bring a singer to a certain point and then say, 'Go out and make your career.' They have but little opportunity to do so. Sometimes they study in Europe, and spend much money there, and, if they are successful in the smaller operatic organizations there, they may get an engagement with the Metropolitan or the Chicago company.

"This institute is not to be a school, but a laboratory, where honor pupils from the conservatories and music schools can be tested out and developed as their talents merit. They will receive an unbiased opinion as to their voices and acting ability and their fitness for grand opera. Perhaps some of them will be suited for light opera or the concert stage. If they have no ability at all they will be advised to enter some other line.

"Those who pass the tests successfully will be kept here from May to October, and they may obtain board at a nominal rate. They will have the best teachers and will be trained in six or seven operas, the parts being given to those best suited for them. In October a company will be sent out to tour the country. It will give really good opera at a price most people can afford—perhaps $3 or $4 for the best seats. In coming years it is expected that six or seven companies will be sent out.

Americans to Be Encouraged.

"At first the heads of all the departments here will be foreigners, but Americans will be trained under them and, gradually, the foreigners will be eliminated and native talent utilized. The operas, too, will be translated into English and sung in that language. The idea is to make it a centre for American operatic art—for singers, composers, dancers, scenic artists and all who have to do with operatic production. The ultimate investment will be over $1,000,000."

After Miss Nannette Guilford, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sang "The Star Spangled Banner," accompanied by the army band from West Point, a salute of thirteen guns was fired by a battery of English seventy-five, brought down from the Military Academy. Sylvie Rose, one of the gunners, caught his hand in a breech block during the firing of the salute and the exercises were interrupted when a call for a physician was made from the platform. His injuries are said not to be serious.

Frederick A. Wallis, Commissioner of Correction, drew an analogy between what he said was the spiritual tendency of the times and the work which the institute would do. Other speakers were Mrs. Thomas Slack, President of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs; Joseph N. Weber, President of the American Federation of Musicians, and Mrs. Wooster Warner, representing the National Federation of Music Clubs. There also was a reading by Miss Margaret Anglin.

Wayne Day Celebrated.

The Wayne Day celebration was held at Stony Point National Park on the battlefield. It was attended by delegations from the Grand Army of the Republic, the Sons of the Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, Boy Scouts and the American Legion. Roland Young read a poem, "What It Means to Be an American," and there was an address by Mrs. Charles White Nash, State Regent of the D. A. R. The principal address was by Senator King.

"I am a Fundamentalist in religion and politics," he said. "We have too many teachers in our public schools and universities who seem to be more interested in destroying their faith than in postulating constructive ideas. Our public schools must not make atheists, although they should not be sectarian. They should not be hotbeds of seething discontent or seek to undermine the principles on which our Government is founded."

The exercises were attended by 5,000 persons. Some of them made the trip up on the steamer Observation, chartered for the occasion, and a special car also was attached to the morning train on the West Shore Railroad.

Resolution of Appreciation.

At a special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Hungarian National Democratic Club, held at its clubhouse, 245 East Seventy-ninth Street, last evening, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved—1. That the Hungarian National Democratic Club, which has been on the firing line of the party since 1896, expresses its sincere appreciation to THE NEW YORK TIMES for its splendid and patriotic attitude during the Democratic National Convention, which substantially helped to bring order out of chaos and light out of darkness. Through its accurate and fearless news and its tireless and timely editorials

CZARS TOOK REFUGE FROM COURT POMP

SOME BUILT UNDERGROUND

Into These Neither Their Empresses Nor Their Servants Were Allowed to Penetrate.

LENINGRAD, July 15.—The Imperial palaces of Russia's Czars and the mansions of her greatest nobles show an extraordinary psychological reaction on the part of their occupants against the pomp and gorgeousness of their existence. In every one you find tucked modestly away in a corner or even constructed underground little intimate suites of four or five tiny rooms with simple furniture, plain carpets and wall paper and absolutely nothing of gilt or ceremony.

To these retreats the rulers and great aristocrats of Russia used to steal away from the oppressive ritual of the Imperial court. Here they could spill ashes on the carpet without shocking the courtiers or stirring the powdered flunkeys to instant activity.

Czar Nicholas I. had one of these apartments, whose only luxury—for those days—was a small tin bathtub, doubtless of English extraction, with hot and cold taps. He had a "reception room" barely ten feet square; a "lounge," mostly occupied by a deep-cushioned divan and a stove and open grate, the whole not more than ten by twelve feet, and a study and bedroom combined, perhaps ten feet wide by twenty long. The furnishings of the last were one iron bed, six feet by two; one small chest of drawers; one straight-backed chair, and one small ikon. There was a shabby uniform and a pair of down-at-heel slippers that any American wife would have thrown into the ash can, despite her husband's protests. Tradition relates that his Imperial Majesty wore these same slippers all of forty years. They certainly look it.

In the Czar's study is a small square desk with an oilcloth top, badly defaced by burns of cigarettes and rings evidently made by bottles. The only visible trace of a diary, which began with full notes, grows weaker toward the end of February and "peters out" altogether by the middle of June; a Russian Bible in a fairly good state of preservation, and a Russian translation of some French memoirs which has been thumbed nearly to pieces.

Czar Alexander II. had a similar apartment, but rather more brightly decorated in peacock blue. There are also a small bookcase filled with military literature and some English sporting prints. There is no bedroom, because Alexander had his iron camp bed in the corner of the official council room in the main suite. It is said that no servants were ever admitted to either of these apartments, where ceremony was cast aside and the host and his guests helped themselves to food and drink placed at his orders on an anteroom table. This, it appears, was the anteroom's chief function, for with rare exceptions no one but the closest intimates of the Czar was ever admitted to these apartments.

The story also goes that the Czars' imperial consorts, like the servants, were never allowed to enter these dens of refuge. This, which perhaps explains why the last Czar never had such a den, is the splendid Cheremetyeff mansion there is a similar set of cubbyhole rooms where the Cheremetyeff princes entertained their friend Alexander II. In the Schuvaloff mansion the old Dowager Princess lived in three small rooms through the days of the World War and the Kerensky revolution. In the last she apparently occupied herself, being a woman of some foresight, in hiding four-fifths of the wonderful art treasures her family had accumulated.

"It took us more than six months to dig up the valuables she had hidden," said the curator of what is now the Schuvaloff Museum—Who, by the way, is a member of a noble family himself and who we are still not sure we have found all of it."

ITALIAN WED JEWESS; DEATH ENDS ROMANCE

Mrs. Dominick Scola, born Jennie Lefkowitz, will be buried today from the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of Sorrows, at Pitt and Stanton Streets, in the lower east side.

The street in front of the Scola home, which is on the top floor of 207 Stanton Street, was packed all day yesterday with a crowd equally divided into Jewish and Italian camps. Friends of the dead woman's father, Alexander Lefkowitz, said that she had died of a broken heart because she had not been permitted to practice the religion of her orthodox parents.

Scola, who is 24 and a worker in the Highway Department, explained that his wife, anticipating death from tuberculosis, became a Catholic on June 17 so that she could be buried in her husband's lot. Feeling ran so high that Captain James McKenzie of the Clinton Street Station posted a sergeant and two patrolmen at the door of the Scola flat.

The romance began sixteen years ago, when Jennie was 4 and Dominick 8. The little neighbors grew up in love and were married on Jan. 3, 1921, despite vigorous objections from both families.

EXPECTS MORE TYPHOID.

Commissioner Monaghan Says Further Cases Are Incubating.

While no further cases of typhoid fever developed yesterday as a result of campers drinking the polluted water of Englewood Brook in the Palisades Interstate Park, Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, Health Commissioner, said he feared the epidemic was not yet over.

"I am virtually certain," Dr. Monaghan said, "that the total of sixty-eight cases in New York City directly traceable to the Englewood brook will be increased. The period of incubation of the typhoid bacillus is approximately two weeks, so there are almost certain to be persons who are not yet ill who will come down with typhoid this week or next."

Dr. Louis L. Harris, head of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases of the Health Department, who made the investigation for Dr. Monaghan, said that he had not traced the brook back to its source. He is supposed pollution comes from a private automobile camping site on top of the Palisades, but it is possible, Dr. Harris said, that it is polluted by some family living further back, who are or have been suffering from typhoid fever. Dr. Harris said that the New Jersey State Board of Health had been asked to follow the brook up to its beginnings.

John K. Manson, health officer of Englewood, N. J., said there had been ten cases of typhoid at Englewood since the first of June, traced directly to drinking the water from the brook.

'KIDNAPPED' GIRL IN 'FAIRYLAND' HERE

Dorothy Schurer Wandering About New York While the Sheriff Hunted for Her.

RAN AWAY FROM GOSSIP

Dorothy Schurer, the young daughter of Hammond Schurer of Orangeburg, N. Y., who disappeared from her home on Tuesday after pinning a note on the front gate, was found first night wandering in the streets of New York, and was taken care of by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. This was learned yesterday when Sheriff George Brown of New City, N. Y., came here for the girl and took her back home.

Although the girl looks about 17 she is only 13, and she told a pathetic story to Sheriff Brown, who is a fatherly man, of how she had run away from unsympathetic parents and village gossips after her unfortunate experience when she was lured into a garage at Orangeburg and maltreated by a twenty-two-year-old youth.

Sheriff Brown was deeply impressed with the girl's story of persecution and when he sent her to her village home he instructed the two deputies who accompanied her, to advise her parents to treat her sympathetically. When the girl disappeared her mother reported that she believed her daughter had been kidnapped.

Little Dorothy wept yesterday when she told the Sheriff of her experience in a big city alone, how she had wandered the streets for hours, carrying an empty suitcase and her little tan coat, finally becoming so exhausted that she dropped on a park bench and fell fast asleep. She awoke with a start, she said. It was night, but she trudged the streets. About midnight a strange woman seemed to sense the trouble of the girl and stepped out of the passing throng and questioned her.

This woman called up the society, who soon took the girl in charge, and word that she had been found was flashed to Sheriff Brown. He had notified the various children's relief organizations of the metropolitan district, and as far north as Newburgh, as soon as her disappearance had been reported to him.

About the time that the Sheriff and State troopers were searching for her, little Dorothy was standing in Times Square, gazing up at the tall buildings and dazed by the crowds and traffic. She had an imaginative mind, and although she had only 50 cents in her pocket, she was happy in a way, she said, to find herself in an adventure. The tall buildings looked to her like Jack's beanstalk, and everything around her was like fairyland with something magic in the gayly dressed throngs and the brilliant shop windows.

"I have been very unhappy since that boy asked me into the garage," she confided to the Sheriff. "Some of the folks in the village have been saying mean things about me, and it hurt. And my mother has never let me out of her sight since then. I've just been kept at home like a prisoner, and I wasn't to blame."

"I just couldn't go on being so unhappy, and so I decided to run away. I've been keeping that money I had I hid them away until I had 75 cents. But I never had a chance to run away until Tuesday, when mother got a headache and I lay down.

"As soon as she left me I grabbed up my tan coat and my black suit case, although I did not have time to put anything in it, and I left the note on the front gate. I walked two miles to Tappan, and oh, I was so glad to get away from Orangeburg and all memories of the things that had happened to me.

"My ticket to New York cost 74 cents, so that only left me with one cent. When I reached Weehawken of course I got a free ferry ride, for that goes with the ticket. Then I walked across Forty-second Street to Times Square. I had never been in New York alone before, and it seemed so big to me. Sometimes I felt dazed at the crowds of people, but I tried to content myself for I knew I was away from Orangeburg and all my unhappiness.

"I walked the streets for six hours, and nobody paid any attention to me. After a while I reached a park, and I went to sleep on a bench. When I awoke I was hungry, for I had had nothing to eat since breakfast, so all I got was a drink of water from a fountain. Then after a while as I was walking along a woman came up and spoke to me. We sat down on a stoop in front of a tenement house, and I told her who I was."

ACTRESS AND BROTHER SUED BY POLICEMEN

Cicero (Ill.) Officers Ask $60,000, Charging Assault and Slander by the Duncans.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 16.—Six suits, each asking $10,000 damages from Rosetta Duncan, musical comedy star, and her brother, Harold, were filed tonight by Edward J. Carmody, Town Attorney for Cicero, a suburb of Chicago, in behalf of Chief of Police Theodore Svoboda and Policemen Benjamin Delaney, Charles Steinke and Charles Widlock.

The action is an outgrowth of the altercation between the Duncans and the Cicero police July 4, in which Harold Duncan was arrested on a charge of violating a traffic rule and his sister was alleged to have been beaten by the policemen.

The estate of William A. Nash, dean of New York bankers, who was Chairman of the board of the Corn Exchange Bank when he died, Aug. 13, 1922, at the age of 82 years, was appraised yesterday at $962,497 gross and $610,050 net, but he also had an interest of $394,582 in the estate of his wife, Mrs. Alice J. Nash, who died before him. The estate was reduced by debts amounting to $367,402, of which $100,000 was due his son, Warren B. Nash, and $183,978 to his daughter, Mrs. Mabelle M. Convert, for advances made in his behalf.

Mr. Nash gave the bulk of his estate to his son and daughter and to his grandchildren, Antonia and Natalie Convert and Constance and Beatrix Nash. He gave $5,000 to Walter E. Frew, his associate in the Corn Exchange Bank; $2,500 in cash and a life interest in seventy shares of bank stock to Barbara Smith, and $5,000 in cash and fifty shares of bank stock to Stanley R. Walker.

Mr. Nash left real estate valued at $27,458, cash aggregating $36,435 and personal effects worth $34,246. His securities appraised at $762,662, which included 900 shares of Corn Exchange Bank stock worth $378,000. The estate owed $17,000 for Federal income taxes for half of 1921 and $40,030 for the period in 1922 from January to August.

FOUR AMERICANS SEEK DIVORCE IN PARIS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 16.—Mrs. Francis B. Bradley, formerly Miss Geraldine Fitzgerald Adee of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., now residing in Paris in the Rue Spontini, has filed a petition in the French divorce courts against her husband on the ground of coldness and lack of affection.

The Rev. Royal Ransom Miller, residing at the Villa Bégur, Paris, has applied to the Paris courts for a divorce from Mrs. Pattie Chandler Day Miller, whom he married in New York in 1916. The husband charges that she refuses to recognize his authority.

PARIS, July 16. (Associated Press).—American applicants for divorce who filed suits in Paris courts today included Mrs. Dorothy Stanley Matthews Harrington, who was married to James Harrington in Cincinnati in 1915, and Mrs. Gladys Amory, who was married to Charles M. Amory in Manchester, Mass.

Francis B. Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bradley of this city and Convent, N. J., was graduated from Harvard in 1912. He married Miss Geraldine Fitzgerald Adee, daughter of Mrs. Ernest E. Adee of this city on May 29, 1920.

Charles Minot Amory, against whom his wife has brought suit for divorce in Paris, is the son of Francis J. Amory and the late Mrs. Amory of Boston. About a year after his graduation from Harvard in 1912 he married Miss Gladys M. Munn.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 16.—Mrs. James J. Harrington, who has filed suit for a divorce from her husband in a Paris court, was formerly Miss Dorothy Stanley Matthews, socially prominent in Cincinnati. She married Harrington on May 12, 1915, when he was assistant manager of the Ford Motor Car Company offices here. He later was appointed European manager of the Ford Motor Company.

WIDOW GETS YOUNG HOME.

Receives $10,000 Legacy With Bar Harbor Property.

The will of Andrew Murray Young, of 20 Park Avenue, was filed yesterday. It directs that although the widow, Mrs. Marie Hunt Young, is wealthy in her own right, she will receive their home at Bar Harbor, Me., and a legacy of $10,000.

Bequests of $15,000 each are made to a niece, Helen Murray McDonald, and a nephew, Pierre McDonald. Other bequests include $1,000 to Sophia Clark, housekeeper; $1,000 to Alexander Alexander, valet; and $500 to Peter Nolan, chauffeur. St. Ignatius Protestant Episcopal Church, Eighty-second Street and West End Avenue gets $5,000; Trinity College at Hartford, Conn., $5,000; Delta Psi Fraternity at Trinity College, $1,000 and New York Orthopedic Hospital, $7,500.

The residue of the estate is divided equally among the three children of Mrs. Joshua M. Crosby, a deceased sister of Mr. Young. These are Margaret Butler Mitchell, of Salt Lake City, Utah; Mary Flody Martin, Flushing, L. I., and Josefa M. M. Hopkins, Woodbrooke, Md.

MISS CHOATE ENGAGED.

She Will Be Married to Charles S. Harding.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choate Jr. of 10 East Ninety-fourth Street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion Choate, to Charles S. Harding. Miss Choate is a granddaughter of the late Joseph H. Choate. She attended Foxcroft and was introduced to society last Winter.

Mr. Harding is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Horace Harding of 955 Fifth Avenue and a great-grandson of the late Jay Cooke, Civil War financier. He is a graduate of Groton School and the United States Military Academy at West Point. He served two years in the army. The date for the marriage has not been announced.

Sterrett—McLauchlan.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Chandler McLauchlan of 12,016 Lake Shore Boulevard, Cleveland, Ohio, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eloise McLauchlan, to Walter Edmund Sterrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edmund Sterrett of 59 East Sixty-sixth Street, this city. Miss McLauchlan attended Miss Porter's School at Farmington and Mr. Sterrett was graduated from Princeton in June.

MISS MONEUSE A BRIDE.

She is Married to Hermann H. Borgstede.

The marriage of Miss Frances L. Moneuse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse F. Moneuse, 536 West 111th Street, to Herman H. Borgstede, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard Borgstede of Brooklyn, took place yesterday afternoon in the College Room of the Hotel Astor.

The bride was gowned in white satin embroidered with silk and pearls and wore a diamond bracelet, the gift of the groom. She was attended by Miss Wanda Harvey, Miss Myrtle Erickson and Miss Frances Gross. The flower girl was Miss Frances Virginia Moneuse, niece of the bride. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Henry J. Borgstede, as best man, and the ushers were Alphonse E. Moneuse and Andreas R. Sasse. The marriage ceremony was followed by a reception and dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Borgstede will spend their honeymoon motoring through the Adirondacks.

Miss Anna Lefevre Weds.

Miss Anna Lucy Lefevre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave M. Lefevre, was married to Raymond John Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Kelly of 55 East 103d Street, yesterday morning in the Church of St. Philip Neri, Grand Concourse and 202d Street. The ceremony was performed by Monsignor Daniel F. X. Burke, pastor of the church. Miss Marie H. Lefevre, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and Miss Louise M. Kelly, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Alfred M. Lefevre, brother of the bride, acted as best man, and the ushers were Joseph Lefevre, Robert E. Kelly and Lester J. Kelly. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Pelham Heath Inn.

Miss Marie Dixon to Wed.

Mrs. Courtlandt Palmer Dixon of 53 West Forty-ninth Street and Ridgefield, Conn., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Marie Louise Dixon, to Arthur Mason DuBois, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Robert Ogden DuBois of this city. Miss Dixon is a sister of Miss Augusta P. Dixon and of Theodore P. Dixon. Mr. DuBois is a brother of Mrs. Frederick W. Kohler and of Dr. Robert Ogden DuBois. No date has been set for the marriage.

Miss Edith Ramsey a Bride.

Miss Edith Ramsey, daughter of Mrs. Oliver W. Ramsey of Kew Gardens, was married to Professor G. Rowland Collins yesterday afternoon in The Church in the Garden, at Forest Hills. The Rev. Alden Collins, father of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony. The bride had her sister, Miss Betty Ramsey, as her only attendant. Professor Alvin C. Busse of New York University was the best man and the ushers were Thomas Ramsey and Professor Homer D. Lindgren. Professor Collins is on the faculty of New York University.

NEW YORK'S TABLET TO YORK IS UNVEILED

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 16.—A memorial tablet presented to the citizens of old York by the citizens of New York was unveiled today by the Duke of York, heir to the title which at the time of Charles II. numbered among its hereditaments land on which the American metropolis now stands. New York, the huge example of all that is modern and hustling, remembered its debt to the ancient cathedral city, whose annals are part of the history of the Anglo-Saxon race.

New York's gesture of friendship was acknowledged by its English namesake in a ceremony touched with picturesque medievalism. The memorial was formally presented to the English city by a commission appointed by Mayor Hylan. It is of bronze and bears this inscription:

"To the ancient and famous City of York, whose storied monuments and living chronicles enshrine so great a part of the history of the English race, this tablet is affectionately inscribed as an expression of friendship and good will from her godchild in America, the City of New York.

"It was inscribed with the names of Mayor Hylan and the members of the commission, and over it were the American flag and the standards of New York City and New York State.

"No more appropriate resting place for the memorial could be imagined than the ancient and mellowed interior of the old Guildhall at York, with its massive oak pillars, each one the single trunk of a tree, and its stained glass windows.

"The Lord Mayor, the first Labor man to be Chief Magistrate of the city, typified in his picturesque robes the changes that are going on—even in Old World England. An atmosphere even more ruthlessly modern, surrounded the commission from New York City, who, with about 100 compatriots, represented the United States. The balance was restored somewhat by the presence of the Archbishop of York and the Duke of York, representative of an ancient monarchy.

"The proceedings were opened with the entrance of representatives of two great societies, preceded by swords and maces, bearers in court dress. The tablet was veiled by the American flag, which was released by the Duke of York amid applause. He said in an address:

"It is a great pleasure for me to come here this afternoon to unveil this tablet, which has been presented by the City of New York to the City of old York. It gives us another example of the friendliness between America and this country. I am very glad to have been here, especially as I have the honor of being a freeman of our city. I thank you very much for the way you have welcomed me."

The Lord Mayor accepted the tablet as reminder for all time of the good will which New York bears to its English namesake.

Ryalston Beal, who represented Ambassador Kellogg, referred to the tablet as another link between the two countries, links that were of more value now than ever before. Ambassador Mr. Kellogg, he said, in declaring his belief that the welfare of the world depended in a measurable degree upon the maintenance of these bonds between America and Great Britain.

The following message was read from the President of the United States:

"Here we record our gratitude to historic York, whose name and spirit are perpetuated across the ocean in New York rather than divide us. For 260 years New York has stood true to the traditions of old York and your cousins may take pride in the knowledge that you have lent your name to New York City in a new land, the gateway to a great country, where under God's blessing freedom and opportunity are assured to all men."

Governor Smith of New York State sent this message:

"City speaks to city and State to State. The name honorably borne by York for centuries our State bears with equal pride in the New World. A sister State stretches friendly hands across the sea to greet you with affection and prayers that this memorial may symbolize our sterling friendship through years to come."

OPENS INQUIRY IN LONDON.

Congressional Committee on Ship Board Affairs Holds First Session.

LONDON, July 16 (Associated Press.)—The Congressional committee from the United States, which arrived here recently to investigate Shipping Board affairs and the Emergency Fleet Corporation's activities in Europe held its first session this afternoon, when it began consideration of the steps necessary to overcome the discrimination against the use of American bottoms.

The committee, it is understood, is desirous of recommending legislation to Congress which will place American ships plying between the United States and British ports on an equal basis with British ships, which at present are monopolizing 60 per cent. of the business as between the British and American flags.

Commissioner E. C. Plummer of the United States Shipping Board, who accompanied the committee to London, informed The Associated Press today that the officials of the British Board of Trade admitted the fairness of the American aims to obtain 50 per cent. of the business. He intimated that the business was there, and it was for the Americans to come and get it. There would be no unfair play on the part of Great Britain in such commercial competition.

The committee will make a searching investigation into the operating expenses connected with the European offices. One thing it hopes to accomplish is a big reduction in expenses. After completing its work in London, probably early next week, the committee will go to Amsterdam, then to Bremen and Hamburg. A trip will be made to Paris, and it is planned to leave France about the middle of August.

James Forsythe Douglas.

James Forsythe Douglas, New York wool merchant for more than forty years, died Tuesday at his home in Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., in his sixtieth year. Mr. Douglas was born in Belfast, Ireland, coming to this country when 19 years old. After a modest start in the wool business, he succeeded to the William B. Roe & Co. business in 1900. This he developed into a large importing establishment now bearing his name.

John Thompson Spencer.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 16.—John Thompson Spencer of Philadelphia died here today after an illness of two weeks. He was a lawyer and editor of Wallace's reports of United States Supreme Court decisions. He was 83 years old. He was President of the Newport Reading Room and of the Newport Improvement Association, director of the Newport Casino, Governor of the Society of Colonial Wars of Pennsylvania and a member of many clubs.

Theodore C. Camp.

Theodore C. Camp, Vice President of the Lanston Monotype Company of Philadelphia, and a director of several New York corporations, died yesterday at the Broad Street Hospital, where he was taken a few minutes after a sudden heart attack at his office. Mr. Camp was 68 years old.

JOHN R. CORYELL.

John R. Coryell, to whom a number of the "Nick Carter" and "Bertha M. Clay" stories are attributed, died Tuesday at his Summer home, in Readfield, Me., according to word receive dyesterday by the McFadden Publications, 1,926 Broadway. Mr. Coryell was a prolific writer of short stories of romance and adventure and was actively engaged in this work up to his death.

The author was 76 years old. He began his career as a reporter on a San Francisco newspaper. He abandoned the newspaper field for "free lance" writing, and was said to have acquired a considerable fortune from his work.

Fulton Oursler, executive editor of the McFadden Publications, said last night that Coryell's popularity was not due to "fine writing" but to simplicity of style and a background acquired by years of study of the classics.

R. CROKER REVEALS GROUND FOR APPEAL

Says Father's Will in Widow's Favor Was Admitted Without Hearing on Objections.

THINKS TESTATOR DECEIVED

Richard Croker, eldest son of the one-time Tammany chief, revealed yesterday the grounds on which he and the other Croker children have instituted an appeal from the decision of a Judge in Palm Beach County, Fla., on Tuesday, admitting to probate the will of his father.

He explained that objections to the probating of the will were filed in the Florida court in the Autumn of 1922, but that no action on them was taken by his stepmother, Mrs. Bula E. Croker, beneficiary under the will, until last month. The objections of him and the other Croker children to the probating of the will, he added, were based on the domicile of his father, the execution of the document and the charge that undue influence was exerted on Croker senior at the time he signed the will, as well as on other grounds. These objections were dismissed without hearing, Mr. Croker said, on a demurrer interposed by the stepmother to the effect that they were insufficient in detail.

"In his will, made just prior to his death in April, 1922," said Mr. Croker, "the late Richard Croker cut off all his children. The will is being contested in part on that ground. At the time the will was made the testator had been led to believe that all his children conspired against him.

"This belief in the mind of Richard Croker Sr. arose after his second marriage. Previously he had intended that his entire estate should be inherited by his children, with whom he lived on the most friendly terms.

"The five actions tried in New York, all of which have been won by Richard Croker Jr., disposed of all of the contentions that any of the Croker children had ever in any manner injured or attempted to injure their father, and showed that the information which had been given him concerning his children, and which induced him to make his will in its present form, was utterly false.

To New York's Smallest Consumers of Light, Heat and Power

Also "At Your Service"

Some of our recent advertising has had reference—with illustrations—to a number of the great structures of the city which rely upon Edison Service for all light and power purposes. In many of these buildings electric elevators have been substituted for hydraulic, and safe, low-pressure steam for heating has replaced the former high-pressure steam. These changes have resulted in marked operating economy—in one instance nearly fifty thousand dollars annually

We desire our customers and the general public to know that the same degree of careful, courteous attention given our largest customers is also rendered to the smallest users of light and power. No installation is too small as no installation is too large—one lamp or many thousands of lamps, a fractional part of a horsepower or thousands of horsepower—to receive our most careful attention

The continued increase in the use of Edison light, heat and power is most gratifying, indicating that the Edison System is becoming ever more generally important and helpful in the daily life of the city. On our margin are illustrated the premises of some very small customers—newspaper, fruit, soda, candy and boot-polishing stands, and other very small places. Some have but a single lamp. Electric light, costing little, adds greatly to working facility and effectiveness of display, thus aiding in developing a more profitable business

During last year this Company rendered 800,000 bills of less than $1.00 monthly; the average was probably under 50c monthly. In the same period some customers' bills for the year were in excess of $100,000. The same character of service was rendered each class of consumer

Edison Service now costs materially less than the pre-war rate of 1914 with which many if not all present-day standards of cost are compared. An increase over the 1914 rate has been avoided, and the Edison rate has actually been kept below the 1914 level, through further economies in generation and distribution; increased use in industrial and commercial establishments, places of education and entertainment, and in the homes of the city; and improved lamps. In our homes electric light not only adds to the attractiveness, but the service can be used for household appliances (on display and demonstrated in all our district offices) by the use of which every form of household drudgery can be eliminated.

The Company's experts and engineers are at the service of anyone using or contemplating the use of electric current. In older buildings it is often possible to assist financially in the installation of electrical equipment—including wiring, fixtures, and appliances—under a plan of convenient deferred payments

However small or however large the existing or prospective use of electric energy, we are always at the service of our customers and the people of this city

CRAIG ASKS BANTON TO INDICT HYLAN

SETS LOSS AT $2,157 A DAY

Charges Violation of Law in Keeping $35,000,000 in Bank Instead of in Bonds.

ECHO OF OLD CONTROVERSY

Mayor Had Challenged Controller to Take the Matter Before the Grand Jury.

Controller Craig asked District Attorney Banton yesterday to seek the indictment of Mayor Hylan, Chamberlain Berolzheimer and President Murray Hulbert of the Board of Aldermen on the charge that they violated their duty as members of the Sinking Fund Commission by voting to keep $35,000,000 in the Chase National Bank at 2 per cent. interest, instead of investing it in city bonds at 4¼ per cent.

After citing legal provisions to show that the commission was required by law to invest in city bonds, whenever possible, the Controller asserted that the alleged favoritism to the Chase National Bank was costing the city 2¼ per cent. interest on $35,000,000, or a loss of $787,500 a year, or $2,157 a day.

The charges, which the Controller now seeks to bring before the Grand Jury, have been repeated almost weekly by him for many months and have been denied by the accused officials. In asking Grand Jury action Controller Craig is taking up the challenge of Mayor Hylan, who defied the Controller a month ago to take the matter before that body.

Chamberlain Berolzheimer, who has insisted that he always has acted legally and in accordance with custom in keeping the money in one particular bank, was out of the city yesterday and reported to be ill. Mayor Hylan is in California with William Randolph Hearst and President Hulbert is in Europe.

Banton Is Silent.

District Attorney Banton said yesterday that he had received the letter from the Controller.

"I have no comment to make now," he said. "I will read it and digest it tonight."

The Controller's letter is as follows:

"CITY OF NEW YORK, "July 16, 1924.

"Charles L. Craig, Controller.
"District Attorney,
"New York County.

"Dear Sir:

"I find it necessary to bring to your attention for proper submission to the Grand Jury for their consideration and proper action the facts in relation to the conduct of the members of the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Fund of the City of New York in relation to the discharge of their duties as trustees to invest moneys held by them to secure the payment of the city's debt. The Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Fund is composed of the Mayor, Comptroller, Chamberlain, President of the Board of Aldermen and Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen.

"The laws and ordinances governing their action, among other things, provide that:

"'The board shall, from time to time invest the moneys which shall constitute the sinking fund for the redemption of the city debt in such manner as it can, in the purchase of stocks created by the city at not exceeding the market price therefor. * * * The powers conferred in this section shall be so construed as to render it imperative on the board at all times to give preference to the purchase of city stock, if the same can be procured at a reasonable rate.'

"Under date of June 10, 1924, I addressed a communication to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, copies of which were delivered to the various members on the following day, directing attention to the fact that as a result of a bond sale held by the Controller on June 3, 1924, upward of $35,000,000 in cash was available for investment by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund and recommending that such cash be invested in serial bonds of the City of New York, dated June 1, 1924, bearing interest at 4¼ per cent. per annum as represented by resolutions of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund on May 15, 1924, and maturing variously in one, two, three, twenty-four, twenty-five, thirty-nine and forty years.

Recalls Action at Meeting.

"This matter was on the calendar of the Sinking Fund Commission for their meeting held on June 12, 1924, at which were present John F. Hylan, Mayor, Philip Berolzheimer, Chamberlain, Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen; Frank A. Cunningham, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen, and the undersigned, the Controller. No action was taken upon the matter of this investment at that time other than to refer the Controller's communication to the Committee of the Whole.

"The matter again appeared upon the calendar of the meeting of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund held on June 27, 1924, at which were present the same members attending on June 12, 1924, except that the Chairman of the Finance Committee did not arrive at the meeting until after the matter herein referred to had been disposed of; the Controller's recommendations having been restored to the calendar by direction of the Committee of the Whole.

"When the subject was reached in the course of calling the calendar, Mayor Hylan moved that it be laid over until September, and directed that the roll be called upon his motion. The Controller thereupon stated:

"'I want the board to know before they vote on this that this means depriving the Sinking Fund of 4¼ per cent. on this amount of money and this amount of money is now lying on deposit in certain banks around town being favored with such deposits, and I understand the Chamberlain has allowed them to take it at the rate of 2 per cent., to which rate he has made a reduction, claiming he has authority to favor banks in that manner. It means that this money is going to lie in the banks until such time as the board adopts it, instead of being invested as the law requires it to be invested by the members of this board, who are trustees of this money for the benefit of the city's bond holders.'

"On the roll-call on the Mayor's motion, Mayor Hylan and Chamberlain Berolzheimer voted in the affirmative, the undersigned, the Controller, voted in the negative; the President of the Board of Aldermen was recorded as not voting. Thereupon the Controller moved, the adoption of the resolution for the investment and demanded a roll-call. On such roll-call the Controller voted in the affirmative, Mayor Hylan, Chamberlain Berolzheimer and President Hulbert of the Board of Aldermen voted in the negative and the motion was defeated. Thereupon the President of the Board of Aldermen moved that it be laid over until the first of [illegible] roll-call on such motion all of the members present voted in the affirmative except the Controller, who voted in the negative. The subject was thereupon laid over until Sept. 12, 1924, which was the date fixed for the next meeting of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund.

Cites the Statute.

"This is a very simple transaction and presents a clear violation of the law in the performance of their official duties by the members of the Sinking Fund Commission who have prevented the investment of these moneys. So long as these moneys remain in the banks favored by the Chamberlain, the sinking funds will receive interest at not exceeding 2 per cent. per annum, whereas if the investment were made in the bonds of the City of New York, as recommended by the Controller and as is mandatorily required by the law and ordinances, the sinking funds would receive an interest at 4¼ per cent. per annum. The difference of 2¼ per cent. on a principal of $35,000,000 makes an annual loss at the rate of $787,500. Every day adds a loss of $2,157. For the period for which the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund above named have refused to make and postpone such investment the loss is approximately $200,000.

"It is not necessary for me to direct your attention to specific provisions of the Penal law in regard to the conduct of public officers, for it is to be assumed that you are familiar with such statutes. Under the provisions of various statutes conduct of the above character constitutes a criminal offense. As a sample of such statutes I may however, refer to Section 1857 of the Penal law, which provides:

"'Section 1857. Omission of Duty by Public Officer. Where any duty is or shall be enjoined by law upon any public officer, or upon any person holding a public trust or employment, every willful omission to perform such duty where no special provision shall have been made for the punishment of such delinquency is punishable as a misdemeanor.'

"I enclose herewith a photographic copy of the communication addressed by me to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, dated June 10, 1924, in relation to the necessity and duty of making these investments. The original of this communication is in my possession ready to be produced with any other evidence you may require whenever requested.

"I therefore request that you take appropriate action for the presentation of this matter to the Grand Jury.

"CHARLES L. CRAIG,
"Controller."

Names Available Bonds.

The Controller's letter to the Sinking Fund follows:

"The City of New York,
"Department of Finance,
"Controller's Office, June 16, 1924.

"To the Honorable the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund.

"Dear Sirs:

"As a result of the public offering and sale on June 3, 1924, of $30,400,000 serial bonds issued for schools and various municipal purposes, maturing variously in from one to fifteen years from June 1, 1924, and $37,000,000 of corporate stock issued partly for water supply purposes and partly for rapid transit purposes, and maturing fifty years from June 1, 1924, corporate stock notes issued and outstanding June 3, 1924, for any purpose other than docks, are to be redeemed. A large amount of such notes are held in the various sinking funds, and as the result of such redemptions and cash from other sources now in such sinking funds and the proceeds of the sale of $600,000 par value of United States 4¼ per cent. second Liberty bonds, there will be available for investment the following sums:

For account of the—Sinking Fund of the City of New York	$20,050,000.00
Rapid Transit Sinking Fund of the City of New York	4,120,000.00
Sinking Fund for the Redemption of the City Debt, No. 1	780,000.00

"The Liberty bonds above referred to were purchased on original subscription at the time of their issue at par. Such bonds in coupon form sold on the New York Stock Exchange today by the last reported quotations at 100 20-32. Registered bonds ordinarily sell for about 4-32 discount. At the closing price the yield on this issue is approximately 3.90 per cent. per annum if held until redeemed. There is no reason why these bonds should any longer be held by the Commissioners of the sinking fund. They should be sold at the best obtainable price, and in anticipation of such sale the proceeds thereof have been included in the foregoing figures.

"The sums available as above shown should be invested in serial bonds of the issues dated June 1, 1924. These issues mature and are payable in series maturing variously in one, two, three, twenty-four, twenty-five, thirty-nine and forty years.

"On the public offering the highest bid was for all or none of the serial bonds and corporate stock at 101.1861 and accrued interest. On this basis it would be entirely justifiable to charge the sinking funds an equivalent premium. But in view of the fact that the interest paid by the city at the annual rate of 4¼ per cent. as prescribed by resolution adopted by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund on May 15, 1924, enures to the city's own benefit by increasing the accumulations in the sinking funds providing for the redemption of the city's debt and in this way automatically reduces the requirements for contributions from tax levy and revenues, there is no practical difference in whether the bonds are taken at par or at the premium price. It will simplify the handling of the sinking funds if the bonds are taken at par and accrued interest from June 1, 1924. Moreover the issues upon which the price was bid in the public offering are not entirely comparable as to maturities with the serial bonds to be purchased by the sinking funds, and it may well be doubted whether a public offering of the bonds to be purchased by the sinking funds would have brought any premium whatever.

"The annexed resolutions are submitted, which, if adopted, will carry into effect the foregoing recommendations.

"Yours very truly,
"CHARLES L. CRAIG,
"Controller."

Boy and Girl of 16 Wedded; Youngest Pair in Queens

Trinity Lutheran Church in Astoria last evening looked like the graduation exercises of a grammar school. Boys and girls predominated in the crowd. They had come to attend the wedding of Lillian Wolf, until a few months ago one of their number in school and who is but 16 years old, and Thomas F. Kilroy, also 16. The couple were the youngest to whom a marriage license had ever been issued at the Queens marriage license bureau.

Lillian is the daughter of William and Lillian Wolf of 685 Sixth Avenue, Astoria, and Thomas is the son of Thomas F. and Florence Kilroy of 417 Eighth Avenue, Astoria. When the young people went to the marriage license bureau to get a license Deputy City Clerk William Zimmerman made the parents of both attend and give their consent.

About six months ago Thomas left school, went to work for the Knickerbocker Ice Company and saved enough to make a proposal to marry. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Lindermann, pastor of Trinity Church.

GARMENT INDUSTRY DECLARES PEACE

Employers and Union Sign an Agreement Based on Gov. Smith's Mediation.

STRIKERS WILL RETURN

Most of the 50,000 Now Out to Be at Work Tomorrow—Unemployment Insurance Fund.

One of the most important contracts ever entered into by the union and employers in the garment industry of New York City was signed yesterday afternoon at the Hotel McAlpin by the four principal factors in the cloak and suit industry. At the headquarters of the Settlement Committee at the Hotel Cadillac it was predicted that 75 per cent. of the 50,000 workers out on strike would be back at work tomorrow.

The agreement signed by the representatives of the union and the three different groups of cloak and suit makers embodies the principal recommendations made by the Advisory Commission appointed by Governor Smith to bring about peace in the cloak and suit industry.

The agreement is between the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and the Joint Board of the Cloak, Skirt, Dress and Reefer Makers' Union of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union; the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers' Association, sub-manufacturers; Merchants' Ladies' Garment Association, jobbers, and the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association, inside manufacturers.

Provides for Union Shops.

The agreement provides that the cloak and suit makers "agree that all of its members who produce all or part of their garments on their own premises will maintain union shops" and will deal only with the manufacturers who conduct union shops.

"No member of the association," says the agreement, "shall employ or continue employing a manufacturer whose name is not included in the latest corrected list of 'union shops' furnished by the union." A clause prevents an association member from giving work or an order to a manufacturer before ascertaining whether he is in contractual relations with the union. Under another provision the association can impose a fine for a first offense on the part of a member dealing with a manufacturer not under contract with the union and expel him for a second offense. Other provisions authorize the association to investigate the books of members to determine whether they are dealing with manufacturers not under contract with the union, and for a prohibition on purchases by a member from a manufacturer whose workers are on strike or against whom the union has called a strike.

"There shall be no strike or lockout in the shop of any manufacturer dealing with the members of the association during the period of the agreement," says the agreement, "nor shall there be any individual shop lockout, stoppage or strike pending the determination of any complaint or grievance."

Other provisions follow:

"The association shall cooperate with the union in establishing and maintaining an unemployment insurance fund for the benefit of the members of the union. The fund shall be made up by contributions from the manufacturers and the union or individual members of the union; the contribution of the employers to the unemployment insurance fund shall be equal to 2 per cent. of the weekly payroll and that of the workers to 1 per cent. of their weekly wages. The fund shall be administered jointly under proper rules and provisions to be agreed upon by the parties.

"An appropriate label shall be adopted by the Joint Board of Sanitary Control to designate that the garments carrying the same have been manufactured under proper sanitary surroundings. The Joint Board of Sanitary Control shall furnish such labels at cost to manufacturers conducting union shops. Each member of the association obligates himself to handle or deal in no garments that do not bear this label. Any dispute as to the form or manner of use of such label shall be determined by the impartial Chairman.

"Pending the time that the sanitary label is prescribed in jurisdictions outside of the New York market, this commission will lay down the rules under which the jobber may deal in goods purchased in such outside jurisdictions, provided such garments can be shown as having been manufactured or produced in shops having contractual relations with the union."

An Impartial Chairman.

In case the employers and union fail to agree on any disputes that come up, it is provided that "the question or dispute shall be referred to a trial board, consisting of one member from each organization party hereto and a permanent umpire to be known as the 'Impartial Chairman' in the industry. Such impartial Chairman shall be selected by the parties hereto in conjunction with the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association and the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers' Association within two weeks from the date of the execution of this agreement. Should the said parties fail to agree upon a choice of such impartial Chairman within the said time, then two weeks, the Advisory Commission appointed by the Governor of the State of New York and consisting of Messrs. George Gordon Battle, Herbert Lehman, Arthur D. Wolf, Lindsay Rogers and Bernard Shientag, shall, upon the request of either party hereto, appoint such impartial Chairman." * * *

"In order to secure a more equitable distribution of the work and to afford to all workers in the industry an equal opportunity of labor, the Advisory Commission appointed by the Governor, as above mentioned, shall immediately designate a group of experts working under the direction of the said commission, who shall make a thorough study of the industry and of all the problems confronting the various interests involved." the agreement provides. "Such experts shall submit their report to the commission on or before Jan. 1, 1925, and the commission shall thereupon take up the said report and make definite recommendations on these and other problems involved."

The union obligates itself to enter into no contract benefiting manufacturers not members of the association, and both sides of the industry "recognize the necessity of unionizing the entire industry in the metropolitan district." One year from July 16 is mentioned as the date of termination of the agreement.

"It means for the industry," said Morris Hillquit, counsel for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, "that the present dispute between the various factions have been, temporarily at least, adjusted. The favorable result is due largely to the advisory commission appointed by Governor Smith, who have given their time and interest to the problems in the spirit of broad sympathy and with a profound understanding of the problems laid before them."

The Merchants' Ladies' Garment Association (jobbers) are pleased with the final outcome of this controversy," said Samuel Blumberg, its counsel. "While it was necessary that some concessions be made, undoubtedly this agreement will result in bringing about a speedier and more practical stabilization of the conditions in the industry."

WOMAN TELLER ACCUSED.

She Pleads Not Guilty to Theft of $10,000 in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 16.—Marie F. Perrin, 42 years old, a teller in the loan department of a Cleveland bank, was arraigned in police court today and pleaded not guilty to a charge of embezzling $10,000 from the bank.

Her attorney entered a plea of not guilty for her and waived preliminary examination. Bail was fixed at $10,000 and Miss Perrin was bound over to the Grand Jury.

Panama Canal Tolls Reach $24,290,963 In Fiscal Year, Surpassing All Records

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The Panama Canal established a new high record of toll receipts in the fiscal year ended June 30.

Receipts for the year were $24,290,963.54, a daily average of $66,868.75, which compares with receipts of $17,588,414.85 and a daily average of $47,968.29 in the fiscal year 1923. Five thousand two hundred and thirty commercial vessels passed through the canal in 1924, compared with 5,067 in 1923.

This is an increase in transits of 31.5 per cent. and an increase in the tolls of 38.7 per cent.

A total of 2,749 vessels moved through the canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific, as compared with 2,490 from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

Prior to 1922-24 the bulk of wheat passing through the canal was shipped during the Fall, immediately after the harvest. But with the development of Vancouver as an outlet for Western Canadian wheat, this route has become especially important in Winter and early Spring, when the Great Yakes-St. Lawrence River route is closed to navigation.

Vancouver contributes the heaviest tonnage, while California, Oregon and Washington ports will maintain the volume of shipments during the slack season preceding the Canadian harvest.

BIG FIGHT BY RITZ TO AVERT PADLOCK

ADMITS ONE MANAGEMENT

The Ritz-Carlton Hotel began to look yesterday for the most expert trial lawyer available to defend the padlock action which is being prepared for prosecution by the office of United States Attorney Colonel William Hayward. The action is the result of a prohibition raid on the Japanese roof garden of the hotel last Friday evening, when agents seized champagne, arrested six waiters and a patron and left summonses for two members of the hotel management.

Announcement that the Ritz-Carlton would defend every inch of ground in the prospective padlock action was made by Edmund L. Durkin of the law firm of Rhinelander, Durkin & Perkins, 120 Broadway, regular counsel for the hotel company. He also explained that the action would be defended by the best trial lawyer that the hotel could employ.

Mr. Durkin admitted that the hotel management and the roof garden management were one and the same. Ever since the raid the prohibition authorities have been trying to establish that point. Mr. Durkin denied that liquor was sold there to the knowledge of the management or that the hotel company profited by the sale of any liquor. He would not admit that any liquor had been seized on the premises in the raid last Friday night.

"With an enterprise of the size, character, standing and money invested of the Hotel Ritz-Carlton, I submit to any man, sound and reasonable man that it would be preposterous for them (the hotel management) to be guilty of the violation of which they have been charged," said Mr. Durkin.

When the statement of Mr. Durkin was called to the attention of Prohibition Chief R. C. Merrick, he said that further responsibility would rest upon the shoulders of United States Attorney Colonel Hayward.

"As soon as we can prove that the hotel management and the roof garden management of the Ritz-Carlton are identical," said Mr. Merrick, whose men raided the Japanese roof garden, "we will be in a position to close the hotel by a padlock injunction."

While Colonel Hayward was unwilling to discuss the investigation of the case in his office, he issued the following statement:

"A count of the pending liquor cases in this office shows that there are 420 live cases, in which informations have been filed, undisposed of. This is exclusive of those in which the bail has been forfeited. At this date last year there were 2,000 cases in the office undisposed of."

SEIZE LIQUOR AT LANDING.

Westerly (R. I.) Police Take Three Auto Loads—Arrest Three Men.

WESTERLY, R. I., July 16.—Westerly police and one Pawcatuck (Conn.) officer interrupted a rum-landing party soon after 4 o'clock this morning on the westerly side of the Pawcatuck River at Thompson's Cove, near the Watch Hill Road, capturing three New Haven men, a truck, two touring cars and 200 cases of rye whisky, champagne and brandy.

Half a dozen other men, the police say, escaped overland in the darkness after an exchange of shots between the officers and fugitives, while the remainder of the landing crew made off in a flat motor boat in which had landed the liquor on an old dock near the river.

The men arrested and locked up in Westerly are Fred Tietjen, driver of the truck; Henry Tietjen and Fred Carlando, drivers of the touring cars, all of New Haven.

The remainder of the liquor seized was piled on the dock. Police believe it was the intention of the men to take it to Providence.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The Secretary of the Treasury was ordered today by Justice Adolph A. Hoehling, in equity court, to cease attempting to collect from railroads entering the United States from Canada assessments with which to pay overtime wages to customs inspectors who are required to search baggage before 8 A. M. and after 5 P. M. and on Sundays and holidays.

The Court, in a restraining order, held that the section of the tariff law under which the Secretary has been proceeding against the railroads applies only to ships unloading passengers at regular seaports after regular working hours. The department noted an appeal to the Court of Appeals.

The complaining railroads were the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie, New York Central, Michigan Central, Vermont Central, Boston & Maine, Rutland, Delaware & Hudson, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Wabash and Spokane International.

ARNSTEIN AND COHN RENEW DEFIANCE

RETURNED TO THE TOMBS

"Nicky" Arnstein and "Nick" Cohn openly defied Federal officials last evening in a three-hour examination to learn what had become of more than $1,000,000 of the $5,000,000 securities stolen from brokerage firms here five years ago. It was announced later that they had been taken from the Tombs last night and started on their way back to the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., to finish out the two-year terms imposed on them seven weeks ago in Washington in connection with the bond thefts.

An order for the return of Arnstein and Cohn had been signed by Judge Learned Hand in the Federal Court on Monday, but as the prisoners were about to be taken from their cells in the Tombs they dropped a few hints that there still was a chance that they would reveal the hiding place of the securities and the identity of others who were in the plot with them.

Bail S. Myers, special counsel for some of the surety companies that had sustained heavy losses through the conspiracy, and former Judge Robert S. Johnstone, recently retained to aid Mr. Myers, decided that they would give the prisoners another opportunity to uncover the loot, with the possibility of indictments pending against Arnstein in General Sessions in the conspiracy being squashed.

With the consent of Judge Hand, Arnstein and Cohn were taken from the Tombs shortly after 5 o'clock last evening to Marshal Hecht's office in the Federal Building. Mr. Myers then told them that they would either furnish information which they had hinted at giving or would be placed on a train immediately for Leavenworth.

Arnstein acted as spokesman for Cohn and himself, and at first indicated that he was about to give information which would result in the recovery of the stolen securities. Finally it became evident that Arnstein merely was sparring for mere time to remain out of the Federal Prison. Mr. Myers and Mr. Johnstone continued to question him and Cohn, but Cohn refused to reply to any of the questions hurled at him.

For an hour Arnstein acted as though he was not in the least perturbed, then he lost his temper and almost shrieked his answers. He made no admissions, however, which would aid in the recovery of the loot or reveal the identity of persons who aided in selling the stolen securities.

"That was bunk," Arnstein frequently shouted when pressed to reveal the name of the man he had intimated had the stolen securities. "There never was such a man and we never said there was."

"This is your last chance, Arnstein," Mr. Meyers was heard to tell "Nicky" as he and Cohn were being led out of the Marshal's office. "If you don't tell us about that man and the location of those securities you'll be taken to Leavenworth right away."

"Do you want to put others in the place where I am going?" Arnstein replied. Then he and Cohn were taken back to the Tombs.

"They had every opportunity to come through," said Mr. Myers last night, "but they didn't, so they are going back to Leavenworth tonight. They gave a little information of no value during our questioning of them, but neither Arnstein nor Cohn made any serious offer to aid us."

TWO BOYS DROWNED.

One Gives Up His Life in Vain Effort to Save Companion.

Two east side lads lost their lives yesterday, one of them in a vain attempt to save his chum, while swimming off Sands Bay, Canarsie. Louis Tannenbaum, 16 years old, 334 Cherry Street, was the boy who was drowned while trying to save Louis Dower, also 16 years old, of the same address. With them were Frank Checklow, 15 years old, 340 Cherry Street, and Samuel Bart, 14 years old, 415 Cherry Street.

The four came over to Jamaica Bay early in the day and hired a small row boat. They spent several hours paddling round and swimming. Tannenbaum was considered a good swimmer, but Dower was a novice. The latter had dived from the boat and disappeared. Tannenbaum immediately dived in after him. As he reached the drowning boy Dower caught a strangle hold on Tannenbaum's neck and both lads went down together.

Tannenbaum tried frantically to free himself from the death grasp of the other lad, but was unsuccessful. Checklow and Bart called for help and several men dived in an effort to recover the bodies. They could not find them.

2 ROBBERIES YIELD $100,000 IN GEMS

OTHER JOB IN THE EAST SIDE

Armed Trio Force Two Men to Lie Down While They Rob Place—Escape Made in Autos.

Daylight bandits held up two jewelry shops, one in the Bronx and one on the lower east side, yesterday, and escaped with gems valued at nearly $100,000.

A young man, who had appeared two weeks ago at the shop of M. Hoffman & Son at 727 East 153d Street and asked for a blue diamond weighing a carat and a half, returned early yesterday afternoon with a suitcase.

"Did you get that diamond?" he asked Benjamin Hoffman, junior member of the firm.

"I got it for you, but I sent it back because I thought you weren't coming," said Hoffman.

"I was out of town," said the customer, "and I couldn't get here sooner. But I'm still after that stone."

While they were talking about the price and mounting another man stepped in. He pointed a pistol at Hoffman and ordered his hands up. The first customer then opened his suitcase, took out several lengths of rope, bound Hoffman's arms, then pushed him into a rear room and started to bind his legs. Nellie, an Airedale, started to bark, and one of the robbers held her mouth, while the other completed the tying.

A third man by that time had joined the other two. He picked all the finest pieces of jewelry from the showcases and windows. Then they ran for an automobile and drove away.

After the robbers had left Hoffman walked to the street, where Philip Schradowitz, a clerk in a near-by store, freed him. Hoffman told the police of the Morrisania Station that the robbers had been experts, for they took only the best diamonds. The loss is put at about $60,000.

Three armed men entered the jewelry store of L. Fried at 49 Avenue A at 10.45 o'clock yesterday morning and got jewelry said to be worth $40,000.

"Both of you hold up your hands!" the leader of the robbers ordered, addressing himself to Berthold Tue, manager of the store, and Simon Okon, the messenger. They then made Tue and Okon lie face downward on the floor behind their counter. Okon lay in the position where he might be seen from the street, one of the bandits seized him by the hair and dragged him several feet into the position.

The robbers carried away all the jewels on display and took loose diamonds and platinum settings from a safe which they found open. The three men then ran to an automobile, where a fourth was sitting at the wheel.

Later an abandoned automobile, found at 234 East Thirty-second Street, was identified as the car used by the robbers. It had been stolen the night before from Louis Epstein of 1,358 Findlay Avenue.

TWO ARRESTS MADE IN $300,000 SHORTAGE

Bank Teller Said to Have Confessed to Prosecutor—Auto Man Declares Innocence.

Investigation of the disappearance of the $30,000 from the teller's cage at the Coal and Iron National Bank, 143 Liberty Street, led to the arrest yesterday of Thomas F. Maxey, one of the tellers, and Paul E. Kline, Vice President of the Metropolitan Automotive Sales Company, with offices in the Singer Building. Both were arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock in the Federal Building and were held for the action of the Grand Jury.

On June 30 Maxey announced to the officials of the bank that he was $30,000 short in his cash. He said that at the close of business on the previous day he had forgotten to put this money in the vault and that when he came down that morning the money was gone.

When an investigation was started the officials of the bank became puzzled. It is a rule of the institution that the head teller must go through each teller's cage at the close of business every day, and the statement of that official was that positively the cash had been left out. Maxey stuck to his story, however, and as no trace of the money could be found a claim was made to the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company.

Investigators for the bonding company checked up on the disappearance of the money and paid the claim the same day. It is alleged that investigation that led to the Metropolitan Automotive Sales Company, in which they said they found Maxey had an interest. Warrants were sworn out and Maxey and Kline were arrested.

In the office of the Federal District Attorney yesterday afternoon the former bank teller is said to have made a lengthy confession. He was released in $1,000 bail. Kline maintained his innocence, but was held in $3,500 bail.

WOULD DEVELOP ISLANDS.

Wood Asks Philippine Legislature for More Liberal Laws.

MANILA, July 16 (Associated Press).—Governor General Leonard Wood, in his message to the Philippine Legislature, which convened today, assured that body of the full cooperation of the executive branch of the Government in the enactment of constructive legislation looking toward the upbuilding of the Philippine's economic independence by encouraging business and the development of the islands' vast natural resources and by increasing revenues.

The message recommends such modification of the laws governing the leasing of the public domain as will encourage the cultivation of rubber and other products to which the islands are adapted, and declares:

"A most creditable progress and a marked advance in political development have been made, but very little has been done to encourage economic development, but upon this and the further progress of education in the Government's activities political development very largely depends."

The Governor General says that the public health has been good, the death rate being the lowest on record.

The message did not refer to any political issues. It is believed that no important legislation will be enacted for several weeks, as the legislative leaders are in the United States with the Philippines independence mission.

PASTOR FOR ADVERTISING.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Every church should have a fund for purchasing space in the newspapers and should advertise in the daily or weekly paper, "regularly, persistently and consistently," the Rev. J. T. Bratney Smith of Chicago today told the preachers who are attending the Summer school at Garrett Biblical Institute.

"When Christianity is applied to the newspapers, much of the sensationalism, which makes the paper in a healthy body, will be eradicated," he declared.

Pope Confers Decoration On American Olympic Leader

BOSTON, July 16.—The Order of St. Gregory the Great has been conferred on William C. Prout, President of the Amateur Athletic Union and leader of the United States Olympic forces in the games at Paris, by Pope Pius XI., according to a letter received today from Edward L. Hearn, Director of the Knights of Columbus Bureau at Rome.

The decoration was conferred by the Pope in person during an audience at the Vatican as recognition of the great interest which the men of America take in wholesome athletic work and exercise, Mr. Hearn's letter said.

William C. Prout, who is a Boston lawyer, has been President of the Amateur Athletic Union for three years. In his younger days he was a well-known athlete.

TOO POOR TO BURY KIN PUT TO DEATH

PENNILESS WITH 2 BABIES

GLOUCESTER, N. J., July 16.—Mrs. Edward Allen, 20 years old, whose husband and father were put to death in the electric chair at Trenton on Tuesday night, decided today on account of her poverty to let the State bury the bodies.

Her husband and Frank Taylor, her father, paid the death penalty for the murder of a farmer a year ago. Mrs. Allen is left penniless. Her only other relative, a brother, Charles, 16 years old, is a prisoner at the State Reformatory at Rahway. He was arrested a few days after Allen and Taylor were taken into custody, and was convicted of stealing a bicycle.

Mrs. Allen and her babies, Edward Jr., 3, and Thomas, 2, have found refuge with Mrs. Minnie White at 448 South Broadway, Gloucester. Mrs. White, who has befriended the woman, plans to take her to a little farm she owns in the Far West, where she may forget her sorrow.

"I started for Trenton yesterday afternoon," said Mrs. Allen today. "and I had planned to claim my husband's body. But I hadn't any money for the fare and I decided that I would have to let the State bury Edward. I'll get $190 insurance, I think, but I'll need that for my babies. I must save every penny now for them.

"Nobody has been to see me," she said. "My Edward was an overseas man. He served his country, and I'm proud of that. I'll tell my babies some day that their father was a brave man and died after a fight for them.

"I'm not worrying so much about my father's body. He said he wanted it to go to a hospital. I went to see father and Edward last Friday at the prison in Trenton, and father told me then and told Mrs. Elmer Meek, who went with me, that he wanted his body to go to a hospital or college.

"When I saw Edward last Friday he told me again that he didn't kill the farmer—that father did. He said he had asked father to confess the truth and save him from the chair, but father wouldn't. But I heard that just before they were taken into that room they shook hands and forgave each other."

Allen and Taylor were two of four men to be put to death in the chair. The others were Toney Briglia of Vergas, N. J., convicted for the same crime as Allen and Taylor, and Anthony Bragdonowitz, convicted of the murder of William Bishop, a Camden taxi driver.

PROPOSED SUBWAY OPPOSED IN BROOKLYN

Commissioner Delaney and the Board of Transportation yesterday found an unexpected snag in the path of a further extension of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District subway.

For the last link, from Eldert Street to a junction with the present B. M. T. elevated lines operating into East New York, there have been two routes under long discussion. One of these contemplated running the subway southeastward from Wyckoff Avenue to Broadway under Schaeffer Street. This is the plan favored by Mayor Hylan, Borough President Riegelmann and others of the Board of Estimate. The alternative plan involved utilizing the right of way of that part of the Long Island Railroad skirting Evergreen Cemetery, far to the eastward of Schaeffer Street.

Three representatives of the residents and property owners along Schaeffer Street called upon Chairman Delaney yesterday and informed him that 90 per cent. of those owners had signed a petition opposing the digging of the tube under that thoroughfare. The three committlemen were M. J. Roeder of 139 Schaeffer Street, who said he was Chairman of the Property Owners' Association; William Kahl, 117 Schaeffer Street, a real estate operator, and Theodore W. F. Kopp of 123A Schaeffer Street.

Since the Board of Transportation must get written consents of the owners of at least 51 per cent. of the property to proceed without special court action, the extension will be subject to further delay if the protestants remain firm.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court has power, after having heard the case, to grant consent arbitrarily, regardless of the dissent of property owners. But the Appellate Division is now closed for the Summer and will not resume hearings until September or October.

SMOKE SCARE AT HOTEL.

Much smoke pouring from the basement of the Hotel Continental, Forty-first Street and Broadway, made thousands of matinee-goers miss the rise of the curtains yesterday. So dense were the gray clouds rising through a sidewalk grating that the crowd refused to disperse even after three of the four engine companies summoned had returned to their stations.

According to Deputy Chief Ross, a lighted cigarette had been dropped by a passer-by through the grating on a pile of rubbish. The blaze was insignificant. Many persons in the grill and guests of the hotel fled to the street. Hose lines were stretched across Broadway, but were not used. Traffic was held up for twenty minutes.

B. M. T. OFFERS STOCK TO ITS EMPLOYES

ON INSTALMENT BASIS

MENDEN FIRST ON LIST

Company Officials Believe Project Will Encourage Loyalty and Efficiency.

The Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation offered yesterday to each of its workers an opportunity to purchase preferred stock of the reorganized company at a price considerably lower than the market quotation. The stock is of Series "A," no par value, and is yielding a dividend of $8 a share, payable quarterly. Its present market quotation hovers around $69 a share. The terms upon which it may be obtained by employes are such that the final net cost to them will be about $60. A total of 15,000 shares is available for distribution.

This is said to be the first time that a large New York or Brooklyn transit company has offered stock to its employes on an inducement basis. The plan contemplates that the individual employes shall own the stock outright and, after final purchase, shall enjoy the privilege of selling or doing as they like with the securities.

The plan has been under consideration by the B. M. T. for a considerable time. Announcement of it was made yesterday by Travis H. Whitney, newly elected Vice President of the corporation. As the B. M. T. is making no new issue of stock, the securities offered to the employes had to be obtained by the company in the open market. The purchases were made some time ago, when the price was lower than at present. It is that fact that permits their resale to the workers now at a figure under the Wall Street quotation.

The total value of the 15,000 shares set

TAX APPEALS BOARD ORGANIZES FOR TASK

Prepares to Hear Back Cases, Which Have Averaged About $35,000,000 a Month.

WILL SIT IN NINE CITIES

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The members of the new Board of Tax Appeals created under the 1924 Revenue act organized today with the election of Charles D. Hamel of North Dakota as Chairman, and started at once to map out its procedure before beginning the actual work of hearing the hundreds of millions of dollars in claims brought by taxpayers against the Government. The remaining sixteen members will be appointed later.

Although nothing definite has been settled, it is now believed the board of twenty-eight members will be divided into groups of three each, who will sit in nine cities, thus saving claimants expensive trips to Washington. Tentative selections of the cities are Chicago, St. Paul, Atlanta, Boston, Kansas City, Dallas, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Washington. At present if they are divided into groups it will be possible to locate them in only three cities outside of Washington, where, no doubt, Chairman Hamel and two other members will remain.

Secretary Mellon is expected to recommend the remaining members to the President upon his return from Europe. After the first two years the board will be reduced to seven members.

Under the new law, all tax disputes heard by the board are open to the public, and in cases involving more than $10,000 the testimony and decision will be printed and on sale at the Government Printing Office.

In welcoming the new board, the Under-Secretary of the Treasury, Garrard Winston, today urged it to start work as speedily as possible, particularly as the collection of back taxes, which had averaged $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 monthly, had dropped to $3,000,000 in June, the first month after the new law was passed. He said:

"Unless your board acts with promptness and with fairness to the Government, our revenues will not be sufficient to carry us through the next fiscal year, the surplus of which is now estimated as under $50,000,000."

The Under-Secretary called attention to the fact that under the old law a taxpayer had to pay whatever was assessed and then sue the Government for its recovery, but that the new law made the board a court of record which decided whether any tax was due or not. He added, in part:

"Your board is an independent agency of the Government in the same way as the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Trade Committee and others. You are not a part of the Treasury, although it should be to the interest of all that you work very closely with the Treasury.

Urges Close Cooperation.

"It will still be necessary for the bureau to have machinery for determination of tax liability before the case reaches your board at all. It is by such procedure only that many mutual misunderstandings between the Government and the taxpayer can be cleared up, the points at issue brought out, and your board prevented from being utterly swamped by the cases which come before it. In other words, it will be the purpose of the bureau to eliminate all those cases which can be settled.

"It is not so material to the taxpayer whether his tax is $100,000 or $125,000, as it is that the tax be promptly fixed and be not again disturbed. If he knows his liabilities he can prepare for them and get them behind him.

"I think, therefore, your duty both to your Government and to the public is a prompt decision in all cases. You should not permit yourselves to be lost in involved and tedious lawsuits. Make yourselves an administrative body to settle taxes. Give speedy decisions. To delay is to deny justice—both to the Government and the taxpayer."

Robert C. Tracy, executive attorney of the Solicitor's office, was appointed Secretary of the board, which will locate in the Investment Building, Fifteenth and K Street N. W., this week.

HELD UNDER ALIEN LAW.

Tony Camardo, 2,555 Twelfth Street, Brooklyn, and Joseph Romano, 360 East Eleventh Street, Brooklyn, were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner McGoldrick in Brooklyn and held in $5,000 bail each to answer a charge of having violated the immigration laws. The former is said to be the Captain and the latter the mate of the sloop Susan B., taken by the police off Rockaway Point Sunday night.

There were thirty-one Italians on board who were to have been smuggled into the United States, the police said. In asking that high bail be fixed, Assistant United States Attorney Howard Osterhaut said that the law provides for a penalty of $5,000 fine and two years' imprisonment. As each alien found on board would constitute a separate offense the prisoners face fines of $155,000, each and sixty-two years in prison.

GIMBELS TO INSTALL RADIO PLANT HERE

Station Will Be Enclosed by Glass So Visitors May See How Broadcasting Is Done.

New Station at the Hotel Majestic Will Radiate Its First Program on Saturday.

A new 500-watt radio broadcasting station has been ordered by Gimbel Brothers to be erected on the eighth floor of the New York store. The equipment is now being installed by the Western Electric Company. It is expected that the first program will be radiated before Sept. 1. The Department of Commerce has allocated the 316-meter wave length to the new station. Call letters have not been assigned.

The entire station, including the studio in which the artists perform, the transmitting room and power room, will be in a glass enclosure, so that the public can see how broadcasting is done and how the apparatus functions. Each instrument will be labeled and its purpose briefly explained. Visitors will be allowed in the studio when programs are being sent into the air and a special receiving room will be provided which will enable people to gather and hear important events broadcast by various stations.

Louis Gimbel, who will have charge of the station, said that it was planned to have land wires link together the Gimbel Atlantic City radio studio on the Million Dollar Pier and station WIP, Philadelphia; in one circuit so that programs can be picked up and broadcast simultaneously from any of the three points.

Local programs will consist of debates and concerts by school children and music students recommended by teachers of music. A feature of the opening program will be Uncle Wip, the bedtime story teller of station WIP, Philadelphia, who has organized a club of 85,000 children by his broadcasts.

The station will be the third to be operated by Gimbel Brothers. The other stations are WAAM, Milwaukee, and WIP, Philadelphia. The towers of the New York station will be 135 feet, raising the aerials 235 feet above the street.

The Hotel Majestic broadcasting station on top of the hotel at Seventy-second Street and Central Park West will be opened on Saturday at 7:30 P. M. A program of dinner music will be radiated at 7:30 o'clock and orchestral music and songs will be broadcast at 11:30 P. M. The wave length of this station is 273 meters. The official call letters have not been assigned by the Department of Commerce. The experimental call is 2XJG and it will be used until the regular letters are assigned. The studio is on the ground floor of the hotel.

No definite schedule has been arranged for the hotel station, but at present it is planned to be "on the air" from 2 P. M. until 7 or 8 P. M. daily and from 11:30 P. M. until about 2 A. M., three nights a week. The programs will consist chiefly of music.

LLOYD'S APPEALS GEM CASE

TRENTON, N. J., July 16.—Notice of appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals from a recent verdict in the Monmouth County Circuit Court by which Mrs. Sarah L. Robertson of Deal Beach got an award of $28,187 against Lloyd's, England, was filed by the defendant company with the Supreme Court here today.

The verdict was in an action for $68,700 claimed for the loss of jewelry by the robbery of the plaintiff's Deal Beach home, Feb. 18, 1922. She insured her jewels on Jan. 1, 1921, for $72,700, she averred, paying an annual premium of $570.01.

In opposing her claim the company alleged that the jewelry was stolen by prearrangement and that the robbery was only a pretended one.

Shot in Cuba; Here for Treatment.

Clifton Hewitt, agent for the Munson Steamship Line at Antilla, Cuba, arrived yesterday on the Munargo to receive medical treatment for bullet wounds. According to officials of the line, Mr. Hewitt was shot by Cubans he had discharged and refused to reinstate.

MILLS TAKES WHALEN'S JOB.

William Wirt Mills, First Deputy Commissioner of Plant and Structures, became head of that department yesterday upon orders from Mayor Hylan, succeeding Grover A. Whalen, who left the city's service to go into private business. Commissioner Mills's first action was to issue the following general order relative to the retirement of Mr. Whalen:

"To the men and women who make up the personnel of this department, Commissioner Whalen stands out as a shining example of devotion to duty, of unbounded energy, of constructive genius and of unselfish zeal for the greater glory of the City of New York.

"He has amazingly developed this department, and with your faithful help he had made it a model of efficiency and a multiform agency for the service of the people. With your continued devotion, the various enterprises which Commissioner Whalen has started should be carried on without abatement and with steadily increasing benefit to the people of this city."

Commissioner Mills then promoted Thomas A. Dempsey of Brooklyn, from Third Deputy to First Deputy Commissioner, and assigned to him supervision over the municipal trolley, trackless trolley, bus lines and department storehouses. Deputy Commissioner John Mara was continued as Second Deputy, with supervision over the East River, Harlem and Bronx bridges and the Manhattan viaducts.

TARIFF BOARD SPLIT IS WIDER THAN EVER

ROW OVER BUTTER INQUIRY

Three of Six Commissioners Declare Themselves, as Cow Owners, Incompetent to Act.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Even a special act of Congress and an opinion by the Controller General construing it have failed to quiet the row in the Tariff Commission over the competency of certain Commissioners to sit in certain cases.

It was disclosed today that when the commission recently undertook its investigation of the butter tariff, three members, whose participation in other cases has been questioned because of their possible pecuniary interest informed their colleagues that under the new law they could not act in the butter inquiry because each of them owned a farm on which cows were kept.

The three were Chairman Marvin and Commissioners Burgess and Glassie, and their attitude evoked a bitter storm from the opposing element in the commission, led by Vice Chairman Culbertson.

Divided three and three, the commission appealed to President Coolidge, who referred them to Controller McCarl for a definition of the law prohibiting a Commissioner from drawing salary for sitting in a case in which he or his relatives have a direct or pecuniary interest.

The Controller General's opinion was sent to the Commissioners today, but some of them appeared as much at sea as ever after reading it. It held, among other things, that the family connection mentioned in the law implied "the group including the husband and wife and persons relating to them by affinity or consanguinity within one degree, which would include the father, mother, children and brothers and sisters of the husband and wife"; and that a direct or pecuniary interest meant "an interest upon which action in the tariff matter under consideration would be immediately rather than remotely reflected."

It appears likely that the quarrel will be renewed as soon as the commission meets again.

MODIFIES INJUNCTION IN PIGGLY WIGGLY CASE

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 16.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today modified the injunction suit against Clarence Saunders, founder of the Piggly Wiggly chain stores corporation, and held that Saunders may make use of any improvements of patents or systems not included in the organization of the Piggly Wiggly Corporation.

The decision declared there is no express provision in the contracts signed by Saunders and the Piggly Wiggly Corporation which "prohibit Saunders from engaging in the retail grocery business or from operating self-service stores with instrumentalities in common use in self-service stores other than the Piggly Wiggly stores when these contracts were executed or with any improvements therein that do not infringe the Piggly Wiggly methods."

No modification was made in the District Court's order relative to the use of Saunders's name in connection with any similar enterprise which he may undertake.

In discussing the use of Saunders's name, the decision said that Saunders "may not use his own name in such connection as to deceive the public or deprive the plaintiff of the benefits of the rights, privileges and good-will of the business he originated, extensively advertised and sold to the plaintiff."

Today's decision was relative to injunction proceedings brought by the Piggly Wiggly Corporation against a new chain store system organized by Saunders after his resignation 18st Summer as President of the corporation. He opened his first store here in April and three other units later, using the trade name of "Clarence Saunders, sole owner of my name."

WILL PUSH OIL LEASE CASE.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The Government's special oil counsel, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, announced today that they soon would ask the Federal Court in Los Angeles to expedite the hearing in the Government's proceedings against the Pan-American Petroleum Company, involving cancellation of the lease held by that corporation to the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve in California.

The counsel presented an informal report to President Coolidge today and announced that Mr. Pomerene would leave immediately for Los Angeles to ask for a hearing on the Elk Hills case early in September.

The Teapot Dome lease cancellation hearings have been set for October, and the attorneys said they desired to conclude these civil cases before taking up the criminal proceedings involved in the recent indictment of E. L. Doheny, Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and E. L. Doheny Jr.

STAY SOUGHT FOR RAISIG.

Move Made to Appeal Conviction of Nassau Justice of Peace.

A certificate of reasonable doubt in behalf of Louis M. Raisig, a Justice of the Peace at Cedarhurst, L. I., who was sentenced at Mineola to eighteen months in Sing Sing Prison, on the charge of withholding from the State Treasury funds collected as fines in his official capacity, was sought yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Benedict in Brooklyn.

The Court reserved decision, but asked the attorneys what bail would be sufficient in the event of Raisig's release. They agreed on $5,000.

A. I. Nova, attorney for Raisig, said his client had not had a fair trial at Mineola, and that the stay of sentence was asked for pending an appeal to the Appellate Division.

TAKE 10 PER CENT. PAY CUT.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 16.—Six plants of the Interwoven Mills, Inc., resumed operations today under a reduced wage scale. The average cut was 10 per cent.

The plants, located at Martinsburg, Berkeley Springs and Harpers Ferry, W. Va.; Hagerstown, Md., and Chambersburg and Carlisle, Pa., were shut down on June 20 because of a slack market.

Better Business in Rugs Ahead.

All signs in the floor coverings trade point to a materially better demand for this merchandise in the course of the next few weeks. The vanguard of buyers is now in this market, but for the moment, at least, they are giving a good part of their efforts to locating merchandise wanted for sales purposes. Apparently they are not finding their work any too easy, as stocks in the hands of the leading producers, especially stocks of the qualities of rugs that make good sale merchandise, are at a very low level. One of the significant features of the recent demand has been the small, but definite, improvement in the call for Wiltons. This is taken to mean that stocks of these rugs in the hands of jobbers and retailers are light, and that an improving consumer demand is forcing them both to place filling-in orders. Recent advances on leading lines of axminsters have stimulated their movement.

To Fight Paper "Bootleggers."

A strong fight against unfair competition resulting from improper classification of paper imports is being carried on by the American Paper and Pulp Association. It was announced yesterday that plans for a "definite war against the paper bootleggers" were being mapped out by a special committee. Specific cases have been reported to the customs authorities, one of which deals with the importation of imitation parchment under the wrapping paper classification. At a single port, according to the association, there is scheduled an importation of 200 tons of this paper, which, if properly assessed for duty, would net the Government about $10,000 more in duties than if it were accepted for entry as wrapping paper.

Price Opinions Being Revised.

There are still several lines of tropical worsteds to be opened for the 1925 season, and the expectation is that they will be ready for the trade next week. The fact that in the lines opened so far there has been relatively little change in prices, as compared with the present season, is considered significant in connection with the price levels to be established on the regular lightweights. The feeling has apparently been growing in the market that prices on the latter will also show no very marked change over the levels which prevailed for last Spring. This is quite a swing from the opinions expressed some weeks ago, when general declines approximating 10 per cent. were predicted. As in the past, however, the action of the trade generally will be guided by what the largest factor in the industry regards as the best price policy under existing market conditions.

Three Fall Style Show Colors.

Announcement was made yesterday that the three colors to be featured in the Fall style show of the National Garment Retailers' Association are burned russet for afternoon wear, Venetian fuchsia for evening wear, and shutter green for coatings. The colors were selected by a special committee of the association in conjunction with the Textile Color Card Association of the United States, Inc. A special color card containing the three shades was prepared. Each exhibitor will show at least one garment in one of the new shades, John W. Hahn, Executive Director of the association, said yesterday. He added that a number of retail stores have already made arrangements for window displays of the three colors as an introduction to the Fall season in their localities. The style show will be held at the Hotel Commodore on next Tuesday evening.

Starting Fall Outerwear Season.

Conditions in the knitted outerwear field show a fair improvement, according to local wholesalers. With the usual increase in Fall buying and careful production, the expectation is that the new season will be considerably better than its predecessor. A few of the larger wholesalers are already starting to show Fall lines, but, it was said yesterday, the trade in general will not be ready until about Aug. 1. There is still some business to be done in Summer merchandise, which prompts the postponing of Fall openings. Sweater coats will sell largely during the Fall, according to market comment. These coats are "roomy," and range from 30 to 36 inches in length. Novelties in patterns and collar adornment are the features.

Underwear Sentiment Changes.

Sentiment in the underwear market underwent a radical change this week as a result of the reduction of prices by two prominent producers on their Fall lines of this merchandise. In some cases the declines amounted to as much as 10 to 15 per cent. from the levels of last December. The reaction of the jobbers so far has been favorable but cautious. The action of the manufacturers in question was a direct reversal of what was expected this season. The position of the producers generally had been that they would stick to their old prices regardless of results, figuring that in this way they would eventually force the jobbers to come to time. Extensive curtailment of production resulted from this program, which now, apparently, has fallen through. Other reductions are looked for as the season advances.

Hosiery Sales Gaining Slowly.

Activity in the hosiery market continues to increase slightly, but considerable improvement will yet have to be shown before business again becomes normal. Following the several openings of infants' hosiery lines, little buying has been done, and, according to the special news letter of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers, not much is looked for until late Summer. Buyers have been in the market lately, but their activities reflect considerable conservatism. The feature of the week has been the action of one of the big manufacturers of women's full-fashioned hosiery in reducing prices for the second time this year, the reductions ranging from 75 cents to $1.25 a dozen. The pivotal "number" in the line is now priced at $11.75 a dozen, compared with a last previous price of $12.60. A year ago the price of the same goods was $13.75 a dozen.

Burlap Market More Active.

More active buying of burlaps has marked the local trade this week, with the interest of users of the goods shown principally in merchandise for spot, afloat and July shipment. While the volume of business done can hardly be called big, the turnover of goods has been of fairly sizable proportions. Calcutta is reported firm and unchanged, which lends some degree of strength to the local market. Spot eight-ounce 40-inch goods were quoted here yesterday at 9 cents, according to C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc., with spot 10½-ounce 40s nominally quoted at 8.85 cents. The latter goods continue extremely scarce in this market. For shipment from Calcutta July-September goods are quoted on the basis of 6.10 cents for lightweights and 8.30 cents for heavyweights. The respective quotations for October-December shipments are 6.95 and 7.80 cents.

Gray Goods Market Firm.

Firmness was the keynote of the local gray goods market yesterday. Print-cloths sales of the day included 39-inch 68-72s and 38½-inch 64.60s at 9⅝ and 8⅝ cents, respectively, with both constructions getting scarce at the figures given. For 38½-inch 60-48s buyers paid 7⅞ cents. The sheeting sales included 37-inch 48-square, four-yard goods at 10⅝ cents, with several sellers refusing less than 10½ cents at the close. Second hands sold some 36-inch 5.50-yard sheetings at 7½ cents, but toward the close they were asking 7⅝ cents in some cases. Southern 37½-inch 4.37-yard sateens brought 12⅝ cents. Buyers paid 10⅝ cents for 72-80 pajama checks, with 9⅝ cents the best that could be done for the 64-60s.

Neckwear Sales Fairly Good.

It is remarked by retailers that men's neckwear is selling better, proportionately, than are shirts. This is the case locally, and those in touch with out-of-town stores say it is the same with them. In other words, the retailers have not found the Summer neckwear season unsatisfactory. Varied novelties in figured patterns have sold well in foulards, crêpes and moires, although stripes in mogadores and other silks retain their popularity. There has been a fair amount of Fall business placed since the first showings in the early part of June. The wholesale look for more Fall activity now, as the retailers have passed the peak of their Summer volume.

Shenandoah to Appear at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 16.—Word was received today that the navy dirigible Shenandoah will arrive here by Aug. 1, to operate with the heavier-than-air craft based here with the scouting fleet. It will be the airship's first effort to operate with a fleet in scouting manoeuvres. The auxiliary Patoka, with mooring mast, which was to have been used in the proposed North Pole trip, has been here since Sunday and will take care of the airship in lieu of a hangar.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Cross-currents which have developed in the industrial, financial and agricultural situation were more pronounced yesterday than for many days past. The day's markets were featured by a sharp upturn in grain prices, a brisk advance in sterling and irregularity on the Stock Exchange. It appears on the surface, at least, that each market is going its own way, controlled almost entirely by its own factors, and that there is not much relation between them. Unsatisfactory weather conditions and the possibility of light crops in the United States and Canada are back of the advance in grain prices. Optimism over the probable result of the London conference on reparations is the factor of most importance in the exchange market. The continued inability to cite actual improvement in the industrial situation, together with profit-taking after the long upturn, is the cause of the stock market irregularity.

The vigorous advance in the grain markets continued yesterday, after a brief breathing spell on the previous day, and practically all options on grain crops touched new high records for the year. September wheat advanced from the close of the previous day of $1.21⅝ to $1.27, while corn for September delivery netted approximately 4 cents to the bushel on the day's upturn. Proportionate gains were made by all options. The grain markets were inflamed yesterday by reports from Canada, that great stretches of the Canadian wheat crop had been damaged irreparably and that at best an exceedingly short crop of wheat is to be anticipated this Fall. There is considerably more, from a business and political standpoint, to the advance in the grains than the bare statement that July corn is now approximately 38 cents to the bushel above the year's low and that July wheat has gained 30 cents. From a business standpoint, it is the difference between a "lean year" and a prosperous one in the West. Politically, these advances are likely to have the effect of alleviating discontent. It is quite likely that a great deal of "wind has been taken out of the sails" of the radicals whose campaigns have been based on proposed governmental aid to the agricultural districts. In this respect, at least, the trend of political argument this Fall becomes less obscured.

It could hardly be said that yesterday's firmness in the foreign exchanges was anything more than an expression of international optimism on the probable outcome of the interallied conference. Commercial bills are not pressing heavily on the market at the moment and exchanges are likely to blow hot and cold during the life of the conference until a definite idea is secured on a possible agreement. Predictions that American aid would be eagerly sought have been fulfilled. Just the measure of help is still problematical. It appears certain at the moment that this assistance will be sought in two directions. An American will be asked to accept the position of agent general of reparations and American investors will be asked to subscribe to a German loan.

The stock market has definitely developed into a two-sided affair but, nevertheless, it appears to be gaining momentum as it goes along. "Million-share days" have again come into vogue on the Stock Exchange. As on other recent days, there was a distinct line of demarcation between the railroad and public utility shares and the run of industrials. The comparison of earnings for the first five months of the calendar year shows an aggregate net by the Class 1 railroads of $325,400,000, against $358,000,000 for the same period a year ago. There is not a great deal in these figures to inspire the activity now general in the railroad shares. Possibly "mergers" and rumors of mergers are the market's backbone. Little change is evidenced in the general industrial situation. The iron and steel reviews speak of a moderate increase in orders, but they add that no increased ratios of operation have as yet been put into effect.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 16, 1924.

A significant incident of the money market was the more general discounting of merchants' paper at 3¼ per cent., a charge unequaled since early in 1914. Dealers asserted that while the amount of paper going at this rate was not very large, and consisted of outstanding names selected by the purchasers, the demand from buying banks was very good, but customers' interest in this respect was negligible. Other names were disposed of at 3½@3¾ per cent. Call and time money prevailed as previously, 2 per cent. for demand loans and 2¾@3½ for fixed dates. Both were only moderately active so far as actual business was concerned.

Beginning March 22, 1923, the Stock Exchange officially quotes Liberty bonds in units and fractions, the fractions being 32ds of a unit, and the quotations after the decimal point representing one or more 32ds. In the above table, therefore, the figures at highest and lowest prices during 1924 and since date of issue are reduced to the form now used in the Stock Exchange quotations.

GET MERGER PLAN OF VAN SWERINGEN

O. P. Van Sweringen of Cleveland, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Nickel Plate Railroad and one of the prime movers in the proposed Nickel Plate-Erie-Pere Marquette merger, yesterday afternoon laid down the broad general principles upon which he proposed to take the Pere Marquette Railroad into the system. In presenting his case to a special committee of the Pere Marquette at 120 Broadway yesterday Mr. Van Sweringen stated that he owned more than 100,000 shares of the common stock of the railroad, the large part of which had been purchased in the open market.

The meeting between O. P. Van Sweringen and J. J. Bernet, President of the Nickel Plate, representing the Cleveland interest, and E. N. Brown, Chairman of the board, and F. H. Alfred, President of the Pere Marquette, was a chapter in a day of activity in the offices of the Pere Marquette. In the morning a special meeting of the directors of that railroad was held. At this meeting the possibilities of the Van Sweringens taking over the property were discussed and an examination of the books made to determine the actual amount of stock in the Van Sweringen account. According to Mr. Brown, Chairman of the board, following this meeting, the records showed that the Van Sweringens had only 33,000 shares of stock.

Following the conference with O. P. Van Sweringen, which started at 3:30 in the afternoon, he changed this estimate. In answer to a question as to whether Mr. Van Sweringen did not have more than the 33,000 shares the records showed at the morning meeting, Mr. Brown said: "He thinks he has a good deal more — something over 100,000 shares."

Terms for the exchange of the stock of the Nickel Plate for the Pere Marquette were not discussed at the meeting yesterday, aside from the statement that terms would be submitted later. Referring to Mr. Van Sweringen, Mr. Brown said: "He said he would mail me his suggestions for a change of stock within the next few days."

Mr. Van Sweringen arrived at 120 Broadway shortly after 3:30 yesterday afternoon unattended. He escaped newspaper reporters who were waiting for him, despite earlier denials that he would attend the conference, and was ushered without delay into the office where Mr. Brown and Mr. Alfred were waiting. A few minutes later Mr. Bernet appeared and entered the office of the Chairman of the Board of the Pere Marquette.

After the conference Mr. Van Sweringen tried to escape questioning, but finally said, when asked if he had taken the Pere Marquette,

"There is nothing I can say at this time. When the proper time comes we will make an announcement."

The deal for the exchange of the Pere Marquette stock for that of the Nickel Plate will continue over several months, according to well informed representatives of the company. Only a general outline of the plan has been presented thus far to the Board of Directors, who have taken the matter under consideration.

Chairman E. N. Brown of the Pere Marquette, following the meeting yesterday, left on his vacation. He will spend a month on the Pacific Coast. As he will undoubtedly direct the steps of the Pere Marquette it is not expected that any definite action will be taken until after he returns.

Even though the Van Sweringen interests own more than 100,000 shares of the common stock of the Pere Marquette, they are some distance from having actual control of the property, it is said, although it is estimated that they are probably the largest individual stockholders. There are 450,000 shares of common stock, 112,000 shares of prior preference, and 124,000 shares of preferred stock outstanding, all of which carry equal voting power. An interest of 100,000 shares represents only a little more than one-seventh of the voting power of the stock.

3 BROKERS DISCIPLINED.

Consolidated Exchange Suspends One and Coffee Exchange Two.

The Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York and the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange each disciplined a member yesterday for infractions of the rules.

The Board of Governors of the Consolidated Stock Exchange announced the suspension of Henry W. Eisfelder, 25 Beaver St., for refusing to submit to an immediate examination of his books by the Exchange's Bureau of Auditing and Accounting.

The Board of Managers of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange suspended for one year, until July 16, 1925, Eugene Nortz and G. B. Kulenkampff, of the firm of Nortz & Co., for alleged violations of sections 103 and 104 of the by-laws, which deal with commissions to be charged by members of the Exchange.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Dawes Plan Parley Causes Resumption of Foreign Buying and List Goes Higher.

With the opening of the London parley on the Dawes plan yesterday there came a spirit of cheerfulness over the final outcome of the deliberations which lifted foreign exchange rates up for substantial gains all around. Once again orders from abroad assumed heavy proportions, which dealers considered, as additional to the bills purchased on the rise started last week. Some of our own banks were also prominent in the buying, the combined interest contributing to a rise in sterling of 1⅝ cents, at $4.37½, while French francs, after a start of more than 2 points under Tuesday's final, rebounded to 5.15¾ cents, for a slight gain. Belgian, Italian, Holland, Spanish and other of the Continentals all enjoyed good size gains.

Far Easterns were lower, Chinese speculation for the time being coming to a halt, losses running from ⅛ to ⅜ cent were reported in the Chinese and Japanese rates. South Americans were also lower, but the Brazilian milreis, which had been nominally quoted at 9.50 cents, improved ⅛ cent.

SINCLAIR CO. PASSES COMMON DIVIDEND

Quarterly Payment of 50 Cents a Share, Due Now, Is Held Up for the First Time.

WILL SAVE $2,500,000

Directors of the Sinclair Consolidated Corporation at their meeting yesterday suspended the quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share due to be declared on the common stock at this time. This is the first omission of quarterly dividends on the common stock since payments were started at the above quarterly rate in June, 1922. The directors, however, declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the preferred stock, payable Aug. 15 to stockholders of record Aug. 1.

The action of the directors in suspending dividend payments at this time was due, they said, to uncertain conditions now prevailing in the petroleum industry, due to heavy stocks of both refined and crude products.

"It was the opinion of the directors that for the best interests of stockholders cash should be conserved during the present period of uncertainty in the oil industry; accordingly the dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock was omitted.

"Net earnings of the corporation for the six months ending June 30 were more than $3,000,000. This amount is about 20 per cent. greater than the corporation earned in the first six months of last year and is within $1,000,000 of the net earnings for the entire year 1921.

"The corporation passed its peak in borrowing some time ago, and bank loans are being reduced. No additional financing is contemplated."

While the passing of the quarterly dividend on the common stock had been expected in the financial district, the official announcement of such action resulted in heavy selling of the common shares, and they declined to 15, the lowest price recorded for the stock in the history of the present corporation. Before the close the stock recovered to 15½, at which level it ended the day with a net decline of ⅝ of a point.

According to unofficial statements yesterday, the $2,500,000 the company will save through the suspension of the dividend will enable it to further reduce bank loans, accounts and preferred at the prevailing low prices and place the company in a better position to compete with other organizations. It also was pointed out that Sinclair's heaviest expenditures in connection with extension of its pipe line and other properties are virtually completed and that no great outlay for new work is expected during the remaining months of the year.

BANKERS MAY FIGHT MONEY TAX DECISION

LITTLE REVENUE THIS YEAR

Lawyers representing private banking firms said yesterday they had not yet decided whether to appeal the decision handed down yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Proskauer upholding the State law of 1923 by which moneyed capital in competition with national banks shall be taxed one per cent.

The national banks found themselves in much the same position as the private bankers, executives declaring that as the law was aimed at them, the declaration of its validity left them open to similar taxation measures, although they occupied the background in the twelve test cases considered.

"The decision of Mr. Justice Proskauer vacating the 1923 assessments of the stock brokerage houses is naturally highly gratifying, sustaining as it does our position in the litigation," according to former Senator George A. Blauvelt, counsel in behalf of stock brokerage houses that brought test suits.

"The question, of course, is still open to appeal by the local assessors and also by the private bankers, but I cannot help feeling that the exhaustive consideration which Mr. Justice Proskauer has given to the whole matter and his grasp of the intricate questions submitted to him will go far toward sustaining his conclusions before the higher tribunals."

Former Senator Martin Saxe, of counsel in the successful litigation brought by Charles W. Bonner of the New York Stock Exchange firm of Blyth & Bonner, said that the decision affected directly only the private bankers. The national banks have not as yet been placed under the tax, as it was necessary first to have valid legislation making it possible to tax their competitors. As a result, he said, the decision actually means little increase in tax receipts for the present.

"The practical effect of the decision," he added, "is to limit the operation of the moneyed capital tax to the private bankers; that is, to the dozen or so of large banking houses in New York City and perhaps a hundred small bankers who deal mostly with the foreign population.

"The doubtful cases were those of stock brokers, floor traders and bond and investment houses, all of which are held to be outside the scope of the new law. Investments of individuals, in corporate bonds and notes, are likewise held not competitive with the banking business and so are exempt from the tax. Likewise the occasional investor in short-time notes is held not to compete with the banks."

DENIAL BY 2 CHAIN STORES.

Woolworth and Kress Say They Are Not in Bankers' Shares Plan.

Officers of the F. W. Woolworth Company and S. H. Kress & Co. yesterday issued statements in which they explained that they had no connection with the United American Chain Stores, Inc., which is offering bankers shares under the investment trust plan, secured by stocks of chain store organizations.

The announcement of the Woolworth organization says: "F. W. Woolworth Company desires to state that the offering in question was made without their previous knowledge or consent and that they have no interest, direct or indirect, in the company whose stock was offered, or in any of the other chain store companies whose names were used in connection with the offering."

C. W. Kress, President of the S. H. Kress & Co., said that the recent offering of stock of the United American Chain Stores, bankers shares, in which the name of the S. H. Kress & Co. was mentioned, was made without the knowledge or consent of the company and that neither the company nor any of its officers has any connection with the offering.

Bonner, Brooks & Co. of this city recently made an offering of the bankers shares of the United American Chain Stores, Inc., the securities being offered under the investment trust plan which has been in force in England for years. Introduction of securities issued under the investment trust plan is a new departure in American investment circles, having been introduced only a few months ago when an initial offering, secured by Standard Oil stocks, was made by the same firm.

UTILITY EARNING REPORTS.

Income of Market Street Railway of San Francisco Drops.

The Market Street Railway Company of San Francisco, whose shares have been subjected to considerable speculation recently, as the result of a report that H. M. Byllesby & Co. had offered $65 a share for the prior preference stock of the California Railway and Power Company, which owns certain equity shares of the Market Street Railway Company, yesterday reported net income for June of $91,632, compared with $120,815 in the same month a year ago. Operating revenues were $791,971, against $780,343, and operating expenses and taxes $625,819, against $613,941. For the six months ended June 30 the company reported operating revenues of $4,911,726, compared with $4,810,308 in the same period of last year, and net income of $703,117, against $779,648.

The Appalachian Power Company for the year ended June 30 reports gross earnings of $3,508,724, compared with $3,177,394 in the preceding twelve months. The balance after preferred dividends and after depreciation amounted to $218,696, against $185,399, showing an increase of $33,297.

The Adirondack Power and Light Corporation reports June gross of $543,850, an increase of $15,344 over June last year, and a balance, after taxes, charges and depreciation, of $41,156, a decrease of $20,137. The balance for the year ended June 30 was $243,702, an increase of $198,523 over the preceding year.

INTERTYPE PROFITS.

Corporation's Net Income for the Quarter Was $210,521.

The Intertype Corporation, for the quarter ended June 30, 1924, reports gross profits of $471,916 against $508,726 in the same period last year and net income, after all expenses and reserves for depreciation and taxes, of $210,521 against $261,856 last year. After allowing for dividends on the first and second preferred stock, the net income was equal to $1.04 a share earned on the 181,031 shares of no par value common stock outstanding. In the first quarter of 1924 the company reported $1.02 a share earned on the common stock.

For the six months ended June 30, 1924 gross profit aggregated $940,163 against $936,003 last year, and net income $417,579 against $465,246. The net income for the first half of this year equaled $2.07 a share earned on the common stock after preferred dividend requirements.

Georgia Power Construction.

Week's Conditions Backward for Season, but Helpful Now.

The weekly weather report of the Department of Agriculture issued in Washington yesterday, in part, follows:

"Conditions as to temperature were rather favorable for cotton in the Southern States, but unfavorable as to moisture in most sections. It continued much too wet in the eastern portions of the belt, where the third consecutive week of rains and cloudy weather was experienced, while moisture was needed in much of the west Gulf section. Conditions were favorable as a rule in the north central and northwestern portions of the belt.

"The progress and condition of cotton were as a rule fair in Texas, and the early planted was fruiting fairly well, but the crop was still backward and irregular, with rains now generally needed. Progress was fair to very good in Oklahoma, with plants blooming in the southern portion. Few weevils were reported, but the crop is about two weeks late. The moderate temperatures and local showers in Arkansas made good cotton-growing weather, with the plant fruiting nicely; but it was too dry in Louisiana, where progress was poor and deterioration noted. Growth was poor also in Mississippi, where there was very little rainfall; but progress was mostly fair to good in Alabama, and plants were blooming to the northern border, although stands were irregular.

"Corn made fair to very good progress during the week in the principal producing area, despite the continued rather cool nights; substantial improvement was reported from many sections. The crop made good to excellent growth in the upper Ohio Valley, and responded nicely to the warmer weather in the lower Ohio Valley States. Fair progress was reported in Iowa, where conditions were fairly favorable for cultivation, although the crop continued very uneven, ranging from laid-by in some sections to replanting and just up in others, while the lowlands are weedy and the plants yellow. Corn shows much improvement in Missouri, but needs warmer weather. It showed good advance in the eastern portion of the central plains States, although rains were inadequate in the western portion.

Corn made poor progress in central and western Gulf area because of deficient moisture, while excessive rainfall was very unfavorable in the south Atlantic district. The crop grew rapidly under favorable conditions in most of the middle Atlantic area. Broom corn was benefited in the plains States by rainfall and is generally in good condition in the Southern plains sections.

"The harvest of Winter wheat progressed during the week well toward the northern limit of the principal producing area under mostly favorable weather conditions, although there was some delay by rain the northwestern portion of the belt, especially in Nebraska. Harvest was practically completed in Missouri and about done in the eastern two-thirds of Kansas. Threshing advanced rapidly in the lower great plains with satisfactory yield, but there was complaint of damage to wheat in shock by wet weather in Virginia and North Carolina. Wheat was ripening favorably in the more northern districts.

NEW STEAMSHIP LAUNCHED.

Announcement was made here yesterday that the steamship Bienville had been launched at Tacoma, Wash. It was built by the Todd Dry Dock and Construction Company for service between New York and New Orleans in the Southern Pacific Company's Atlantic Steamship lines (Morgan Line) fleet.

The launching was witnessed by city and State officials and was followed by a dinner at the Tacoma Country Club for Miss Dorothy R. Maxson, sponsor of the ship and daughter of Captain C. P. Maxson, who will be its master.

L. J. Spence, Director of Traffic of the Southern Pacific Lines, said that the Bienville would be delivered at New York in time to participate in the rush of traffic, via rail and water, to California over the Sunset Route. The ship is a single-screw oil burner, 445 feet over all, 428 feet length between perpendiculars, load draught 26 feet 6 inches, with deadweight at that draught about 7,000 tons, and is designed for sixteen knots. It has three passenger decks.

To Revise Grain Rates.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Proposed readjustments of rates on grain and grain products from Southeastern Missouri points to Memphis, New Orleans and other Mississippi Valley points, and between points in Southeastern Missouri and St. Louis, Cairo, Ill., and related points today were found justified by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

New schedules which previously had been ordered suspended were canceled by the commission, however, and another revision will be worked out later.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

Securities Quiet Abroad as Conference Meets.

LONDON, July 16.—Trading was quiet and prices were steady on the Stock Exchange today. Old 2½ per cent. consols 57, British 5 per cent. war loan 101¼, 4½ per cent. war loan 97; all unchanged. De Beers Mining 12¾, Rand Mines ⅞; both unchanged.

PARIS, July 16.—Prices were barely steady on the Bourse today. Three per cent rentes 20 centimes lower at 55 francs 10 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan 2 centimes higher at 62 francs 92 centimes.

Exchange on London rose 35 centimes to 84 francs 90 centimes per sovereign; the American dollar was quoted at 16 francs 47½ centimes, against 19.35½ yesterday.

REPUBLIC STEEL INCOME DECREASES

EQUAL TO 5 CENTS A SHARE

The statement of earnings of the Republic Iron and Steel Company for the quarter ended June 30, 1924, the first of the statements of the larger companies for that period to make its appearance in the financial district, shows net operating income of $1,024,825, against $2,080,809 in the March quarter and $2,947,247 in the June quarter last year. After all charges and reserves, and including dividends on the preferred stock, the company reported a balance of $16,725, equal to 5 cents a share earned on the outstanding common stock, against $3.08 a share earned on the common stock in the March quarter and $5.90 a share earned on the common in the June quarter of last year.

For the first six months of 1924 the company reports net operating income of $3,105,635, against $5,182,236 in the first half of 1923. The balance available for the common stock for the six months was equal to $3.11 a share after allowing for preferred dividends, against $9.55 a share earned on the common stock last year.

The company reported 60,653 tons unfilled orders on hand as of June 30, 1924, against 116,759 tons on March 31, 1924, and 187,392 tons on June 30, 1923.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC SHOWS A DECLINE

A Decrease of 14.4 Per Cent. for May Compared With That of a Year Ago.

Freight traffic on the class one railroads of the United States for May totaled 53,890,623,000 net ton miles, 14.4 per cent. less than the same month of last year, according to figures of the Bureau of Railway Economics made public yesterday. As the result of the freight traffic during the first five months of 1924 was almost 8 per cent. less than for the corresponding period last year.

During the first five months of the year the traffic on these railroads amounted to 172,681,097,000 net ton miles, a decrease of 14,862,170 when compared to the same period in 1923. The Western district suffered less of a decline than either the Eastern or the Southern districts. In the Eastern district the amount of freight business handled amounted to 88,211,890,000 net ton miles, a decrease of 10.3 per cent.; in the Southern district to 24,675,587,000 net ton miles, a decrease of 6.4 per cent.; and in the Western district to 59,794,211,000 net ton miles, a decrease of 4.8 per cent.

For May the Eastern district reported a decline of 19.5 per cent., the Southern district a decline of 12.4 per cent. and the Western district a decline of 6.7 per cent.

The average daily movement per freight car for the month of May was 25.9 miles, or 2.7 miles below the daily average for May, 1923, but 3.3 per cent. above the average for the same month in 1922. The average load per freight car in May was 29.4 tons, 1.6 tons below that for the month of May last year but 1.4 tons above the daily average for May, 1922.

NEW BOOST IN WHEAT AS BUYING INCREASES

CHICAGO, July 16.—Dry weather and hot wind reports from the American Northwest, following further sensational claims of damage from the Canadian Northwest, brought in a wild wave of buying of wheat futures that carried all deliveries up to a new high for the season, with the finish about the top and net gains of 3¾@4¾ cents.

Lowest prices were made at the start on scattered rains in Canada, but there was free buying by strong commission houses which quickly absorbed the surplus in "the pit," and toward the last a stampede on the part of buyers carried prices up by leaps and bounds.

So large was the trade that in many instances commission houses were unable to get a report on the execution of buying and selling orders back from the exchange floor for fifteen minutes, this being particularly the case toward the close. Quotations at times were as much as five minutes behind the market and execution of orders at prices shown on the blackboards was impossible.

Where all of the millions of bushels of long wheat that were sold out Monday and Tuesday have gone is a mystery. Some of the reports from the Canadian Northwest were so sensational that they were not given to the trade, but the claims that the crop in the American Northwest was deteriorating and the forecast for dry weather in the Dakotas and Montana served to intensify bullish enthusiasm.

Under existing conditions neither exporters nor foreigners care to offer or bid for cash grain on a liberal scale and in the main must confine their operations to the futures, exchanging the latter for the cash when the markets have quieted down.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 1,305,000; week ago, 667,000; last year, 1,049,000. Shipments were 719,000 bushels; week ago, 663,000; last year, 592,000.

December and May corn came to the force as leaders in that grain with a large increase in general speculative buying, which advanced them to the highest prices on the crop, with December up to 90 cents and May to 91¼ cents, and the finish at the top. Net gains on all deliveries were 3⅝@5 cents for the day. July leading. Old crop futures acted decidedly tight at times.

Cash corn was 1@2 cents lower, with No. 2 yellow selling at $1.12½ for the top. Shipping sales were 75,000 bushels.

Heavy damage to the Canadian oats and barley crop with prospects of a shortage of feed grains in some sections there brought in free buying of oats futures, which advanced continually, December and May went to a new high on the crop and the close was 1@1¼ cents higher.

Corn receipts were 406,000 bushels; week ago, 313,000; last year, 650,000. Shipments, 278,000 bushels; week ago, 374,000; last year, 437,000.

$50,000,000 BONDS SOON TO BE SOLD

Three Houses Have This Amount of Business in Sight for Next Week.

$15,000,000 IS FOREIGN

A Stock issue of $10,000,000 for a Utility Company is Imminent.

A lull in the business of floating new bond issues which this week has followed nearly two months of $100,000,000-a-week sessions, will be followed by another active week starting Monday, according to preliminary reports made yesterday of new issues in prospect. About $50,000,000 of business of all kinds was said to be in sight by three houses alone, of which $15,000,000 would be for foreign account and the balance principally among public utilities and small-sized state and municipal issues. One stock issue of $10,000,000 for a public utility company is also near at hand and probably will come about the middle of next week.

A. E. Ames & Co. are offering a new issue of $1,161,000 Province of New Brunswick (Canada) ten-year 5 per cent. gold bonds due July 15, 1934, at 101¼, to yield about 4.85 per cent.

Hayden, Stone & Co. are offering an issue of $1,000,000 of the San Antonio Joint Stock Land Bank of Texas and Oklahoma 5 per cent. farm loan bonds, due in 1953 at 101 to yield 4.87 per cent. to the optional date, 1933, and 5 per cent. thereafter to maturity.

A new issue of $400,000 Essex Rubber Company of Trenton (N. J.) first (closed) mortgage 7 per cent. serial gold bonds is being offered at prices ranging from 100 to 100.94 by Peabody, Houghteling & Co.

Rutter & Co. are offering a block of Province of Manitoba (Canada) 5 per cent. gold bonds, due June 2, 1944, at 100 and interest. Principal and interest are payable in New York in United States money.

P. W. Chapman & Co. will head a syndicate to offer early next week a new issue of $2,500,000 Plankington Building (Milwaukee, Wis.) first (closed) mortgage leasehold 6½ per cent. serial gold bonds. The building occupies a full block frontage and is appraised at not less than $7,000,000.

Harris, Forbes & Co. and Coffin & Burr, Inc., sold yesterday an issue of $3,000,000 Idaho Power Company first mortgage 5 per cent. gold bonds, priced at 93½ to yield 5.50 per cent.

S. S. Kresge Profits Increase.

The S. S. Kresge Company reports profits of $4,970,187 from operations for the six months of 1924, against $4,739,831 in the same period last year. After reserves for taxes the company reports net income of $4,348,917, against $4,447,851. The net income for the first half of this year, after allowing for regular dividends on the preferred stock, was equal to $17.42 a share earned on the $24,517,933 common stock outstanding, against $16.63 a share earned on the common stock after preferred dividends in the first half of 1923.

To Vote on Dissolution.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Centrifugal Cast Iron Pipe Company will be held Aug. 14 for the purpose of voting upon a resolution calling for the dissolution of the company. Stockholders last December voted to transfer all assets to the Centrifugal Pipe Company, a new company organized in Delaware. Stock of the Cast Iron Pipe Company is exchangeable for stock of the new company on the basis of one share of the old for two shares of the new.

OUTPUT STILL SMALL IN IRON AND STEEL

NO INCREASE IN DEMAND

But Pig Iron, Scrap and Coke Seem Near the End of Long Price Declines.

Production in the iron and steel industry of the country continues on the reduced scale reported prior to the holidays earlier in the month, according to the weekly trade reviews, but it is added, "the encouraging feature of the steel market is a moderate increase in orders taken by mills." The trend of prices during the past week, where changes were reported, has been lower.

"The larger amount of new business is due to the needs accumulated while rolling mills were idle at the beginning of the month," says The Iron Age, "and does not signify increased consumption. In some sections, in fact, consumption is less. The metal-working industries in the Cleveland district, for example, are now operating at about 35 per cent. of capacity, compared with 50 per cent. late in June.

"In no measurable degree has the situation in respect to railroad, structural or automobile demand shown a turn, except for a number of releases received by automobile parts makers on long-standing orders, and the preparations of several car builders to begin production on new models."

The Iron Trade Review, in its weekly report, says, in part:

"Underlying conditions in iron and steel appear to be approaching the final stages in the recent process of readjustment. This is making for a better outlook for some revival of market activity in the near future. Developments this week point to such raw material markets as pig iron, scrap and coke as being near or at the termination of the long price declines and the return to more stabilized business. Some fair buying is appearing in these materials. In finished steel, buyers are moving more cautiously."

HEAVY CAPITAL INCREASES.

Chicago Power Co. Goes to Above a Billion—Schulte Adds $20,000,000.

DOVER, Del., July 16.—A certificate of amendment was filed here today at the State Department for an increase in the capital stock of the Northern States Power Company, Chicago, Ill., from $100,000,000 to $1,100,000,000, for taxation purposes. The State tax paid was $50,100.

The Schulte Retail Stores Corporation of New York filed a certificate increasing its capital stock from $45,000,000 to $65,000,000.

Postum Cereal Profits Increase.

The Postum Cereal Company, Inc., for the six months ended June 30, 1924, reports gross sales of $11,435,495 against $11,063,787 in the same period last year and net profit of $1,680,692 after all expenses and reserves for taxes against net profit of $1,587,355 in the first half of last year. The net profit for this year, after allowing for dividends on the preferred stock, was equal to $3.76 a share earned on the 400,000 shares of no par value outstanding, compared for the six months' period, against $3.64 a share earned on the common stock in the first half of last year, after the same deductions.

GASOLINE PRICES CUT.

Texas Company Also Reduces Mid-continent Crude Oil.

Further downward adjustments in the prices of refined and crude oils were announced yesterday by the Standard Oil Companies of Kentucky and Louisiana and the Texas Company.

The Standard Oil Company of Kentucky, it was stated here, made a reduction of 2 cents a gallon in gasoline prices in Savannah. The new price is 18 cents to dealers and 20 cents at service stations, including the road tax of 3 cents a gallon and the inspection tax of one-half cent a gallon. The Standard Oil Company of Louisiana reduced gasoline 1 cent a gallon, to 15½ cents wholesale and 18½ cents retail, thus meeting reduction by other companies.

The Texas Company reduced the higher grades of mid-continent crude oil 25 cents a barrel. The new schedule of prices is as follows: Below 32 degrees, $1.25 a barrel; 32 to 33.9 degrees, $1.45; 33 to 35.9 degrees, $1.70; 36 and above, $2. The latter grade is the only one changed. Under the old schedule 36 and above was $2.25. Under the new schedule all oil above 30 degrees is reduced to $2 a barrel.

Beech-Nut Earnings Decrease.

The Beech-Nut Packing Company reports for the six months ended June 30, 1924, net earnings of $1,178,114 before taxes, against $1,215,030 in the same period last year. Gross sales for the first half of 1924 were 9.5 per cent. larger than in the same period last year.

FRANKLIN ON SHIPPING.

The International Mercantile Marine Company yesterday issued its official annual report for the year ended Dec. 31, 1923. The figures show no change from those announced on June 2, prior to the annual meeting of stockholders when the preliminary report was made public.

Regarding conditions in the shipping industry, P. A. S. Franklin, President of the company, said in part:

"It is too early to predict results for 1924, but so far they have been slightly more satisfactory and we are hopeful that with an improvement in conditions in Europe there will follow a general revival of business and trade throughout the world."

GRAIN AND DROUGHT LIFT COTTON PRICES

MORE RAINFALL IS NEEDED

Quotations Gain Momentum in the Afternoon, Closing 37 to 74 Points Higher for the Day.

With high temperatures in both Texas and Oklahoma, and without indications of such rains as are needed to maintain the present crop promise in that region, nervousness increased in cotton circles yesterday and prices advanced nearly a cent a pound. Reports that deterioration had occurred in parts of the Carolinas and some fields abandoned so reduced the supply of contracts that buying operations brought a rapid rise in quotations. An advancing grain market helped activity in cotton. After earlier irregularity prices moved upward, gaining momentum during the afternoon and closing at 37 to 74 points higher on the day.

Early trading occured under the same nervous, feverish conditions prevailing the two previous days. An easier Liverpool caused erratic price changes within a range of a quarter of a cent during the morning. Covering of July and active speculative buying of October absorbed all cotton for sale and when the morning weather map showed no relief in the Western sections the tone strengthened. Various interests became more disposed to take the long side as a result of continued absence of needed moisture in Texas. Wire houses, particularly those with Western and New Orleans connections, bought steadily. When the weekly weather summary reported grassy fields had resulted in abandonment of acreage as well as actual deterioration in the Carolinas, as a direct result of excessive rainfall the past two weeks or more, the buying movement broadened and prices rose to the highest levels of the week. July advanced to a 500-point premium over October at one time, but narrowed to about 460 points when late months shot up during the afternoon.

Weather details indicated more favorable conditions in Eastern sections yesterday, with comparatively little rainfall in regions where persistent showers have prevailed for some time. Attention was centered on Western States, where hot, dry weather continued. In Texas twenty-seven stations reported temperatures of 100 degrees or over, with twelve stations in Oklahoma above 100. Only one point in either State reported rainfall.

WORKERS URGED TO SAVE

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 16.—Millions of school children in the United States are receiving instruction in the functions and uses of banks, according to Stephen I. Miller, National Education Director of the American Institute of Banking, now in convention here.

"Members of the institute chapters all over the country go into the public schools and instruct the children in the operation and uses of banks and in many sections this feature is recognized by school authorities as an important part of elementary education," said Mr. Miller in his address today.

"There are now 32,000 students out of the 60,000 membership of the institute. These men are taking courses in banking, law, accounting, business finance and public speaking. We have 6,000 graduates who have completed the required courses and are building themselves up from that standard. Our educational progress often covers from five to seven years.

"Our instructors are obtained from universities and colleges and from among the older bank officials and lawyers. We have evolved a plan to extend the work into smaller communities, with population insufficient to support chapters."

Urges Workers' Saving Plans.

Welfare work in industry tends to make employes "grudgingly dependent instead of contentedly independent," Miss Mary B. Reeves of Philadelphia told the convention. She is manager of industrial and school savings for the Philadelphia Savings Fund Society.

While admitting that welfare departments in factories have their place, she insisted that the first step toward independence lies in saving. Because industrial workers are busy during the hours the banks are open, she said, employers should give their workers a chance to deposit surplus funds through what she called the "deduction plan" of saving or through the formation by the employes of "voluntary savings associations."

Both plans depend for their success, she added, on voluntary cooperation between the savings banks, the employers and the employes. In the "deduction plan" each employe agrees on the weekly amount he wishes to save and this is deducted from his pay and credited to his account by the bank.

The "voluntary association" plan she described as the appointment of "collectors" by the employes, who turn over the savings to a bank teller.

B. W. Griffin of New York City delivered an address on "Getting Savings Accounts Wholesale" in the Departmental Section on Business Development and Advertising. Wilbert Ward of New York City presided at the Conference on Foreign Trade and Exchange. I. L. Marsh of New York City spoke on "The Inspection Certificate as a Bank Document" and C. S. Hoober of New York City on "Use and Misuse of Trust Receipt."

This afternoon most of the 2,000 delegates went on an excursion to Annapolis and the Naval Academy.

Business Vocabulary Defended.

The visiting bank men have been interested in the estimate of the American "Business Man's Working Vocabulary," by Dr. John C. French of Johns Hopkins University, published here on the day of their arrival.

Seven out of eight leading delegates said Dr. French was liberal with business men. The eighth, J. Marlyn Turner, Junior Past President of the San Francisco Chapter of the American Banking Institute, said the 400 words would be only a preamble to a Golden Gate business man's vocabulary.

Many banks in San Francisco have enough experts on their payroll permanently, Mr. Turner said, to go over all bank correspondence. Their special duty, he said, is to see that correspondence does not become trite and hackneyed. They instruct the man employes, from the executive down to the newest stenographer, how to write good business letters and try to make business letters interesting.

Mr. Turner said he thought the average banker employed between 1,000 and 2,000 different words in the conduct of his business.

A protection of bank deposits has been found through the inauguration of the Clearing House Examiner System, according to Don A. Mullen, Secretary of the Clearing Houses Section of the American Bankers Association, who delivered an address on "Audits and Examinations." He said that in thirty years' experience under this system in Chicago no deposition of a clearing house bank had lost a dollar. Banks in thirty-four American cities have adopted this system of examination.

$4,000,000 FUND TO START GRAIN DEAL

More Details Made Known of Plans for Big Marketing Corporation.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The five elevator concerns who are planning to sell out to the farmers' organizations are to furnish $4,000,000 in cash to start the $26,000,000 grain marketing company which was incorporated by the Farmers' Association at Springfield, Ill., on Tuesday.

A good percentage of the 60,000,000 bushel elevator capacity to be obtained will be operated under leases, as at present, as a good part of the grain elevators belong to the railroads.

The proposed 8 per cent. dividends will require payment of $2,080,000 annually. It is contended, however, that operating expenses will be reduced several million dollars a year through economy in operating. Expectations are that O. E. Bradfute, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will be elected President of the Grain Marketing Company at the meeting of the directors on Friday.

None of the present officials of the Armour Grain Company, the Rosenbaum Grain Corporation, J. C. Shaffer Company of Chicago and Davis, Noland Merrill Company of Kansas City can be officials under the cooperative marketing law which the Farmers' Association will operate. They will have to be "Big Presidents."

The list presented so far is George E. Marsy, President, and John Kellogg and E. W. McDougal, Vice Presidents of the Armour Grain Company; E. F. Rosenbaum, President of the Rosenbaum Corporation; E. F. Austrian of Rosenbaum Brothers, John J. Stream and George Davis, representing their various companies. It is said that their salaries will be much less than those received at present.

Official recognition of the plan for inviting farmers to purchase and operate the $26,000,000 grain elevator company was noted here today in a statement from the headquarters of the American Farm Bureau Federation. The statement said it was hoped to work out details at the meeting on Friday.

The statement lists the following men as having been invited, elected and having accepted places on the temporary Board of Directors of the Grain Marketing Company: O. E. Bradfute, Ohio, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation; W. J. Brown, Minnesota, President of the American Wheat Growers, Inc.; Harry L. Keefe, Nebraska, President of the United States Grain Growers, Inc.; Fred A. Mudge, Peru, Ill., President of the Illinois Farmers' Elevator Association; J. M. Dyer, Spencer, Iowa, President of the Iowa Farmers' Elevator Association; Millard Myers, Illinois Farmers' Elevator; J. F. Reed, Minnesota, Vice President American Farm Bureau Federation; Oscar Ashworth, Mattoon, Ill., grain farmer; Gray Silver, West Virginia, grain farmer; J. W. Cloverdale, grain farmer, Iowa.

"The new Board of Directors will meet Friday," the statement adds. "They will work out by-laws, contracts, &c., and the Board of Directors' permanent management will be announced."

BRONX BOROUGH SALES.

Two Five-Story Houses on Crimmins Avenue Corner Sold.

The L. & F. Holding Corporation, represented by Moses H. Rothstein, who organized the corporation, purchased the two five-story apartment houses, 356 Crimmins Avenue and 504 St. Mary's Street, each 38 by 90. They contain forty apartments, yielding an annual rental of about $15,000, and were held by the sellers at $100,000.

Hugo Wabst sold the plot on the north side of 238th Street, about 50 feet west of Catherine Street, dimensions 50 by 158 and irregular; also sold for A. Wolz the three-family dwelling on a lot 25 by 114, on the south side of 226th Street, about 105 feet west of Barnes Avenue, to K. Weber for occupancy.

McAree & Co. sold for E. Dressner the taxpayer building, 100 by 90, at 2,637 to 2,645 Webster Avenue, occupied by seven stores and held at $50,000, to a newly organized steam laundry company, who will occupy the entire property when the leases expire.

Charles L. Halberstadt bought from the Archanna Realty Company, Inc., builders, the southeast corner of Williamsbridge Road and Poplar Street, a one-story brick business building and garages, on a plot 75 by 100. The property was held at $40,000.

THE BROOKLYN MARKET.

Kings Highway Site Sold for Theatre Improvement.

A theatre site on Kings Highway was sold when William Lise, Inc. sold for J. Schneider the northeast corner at West Seventh Street a strip of land running from Kings Highway to Avenue Q including both corners to J. Sommers who will erect thereon a theatre containing about 15,000 square feet, and stores fronting on Kings Highway. The property was held at $35,000 by the owners.

Edward C. Cerny resold for Samuel Levy to a client for investment the four-story double brick apartment located at 5,605 Fourth Avenue, on plot 50 by 100.

Frank A. Seaver Co., sold the plot 125 by 100 feet on the south side of Thirty-ninth Street, 100 feet east of Sixth Avenue, for a client to A. Perloff for improvement.

John E. Henry and James B. Fisher recently sold the southwest corner of Clinton and Greene Avenues, 87.6 by 113, for Dr. William F. Campbell, on which there will be erected a high-class six-story elevator apartment.

MADISON AVENUE LEASE.

The Berkshire Apartments to Be Rebuilt by Operators.

Samuel Levy and the estates of George Backer and Emanuel Arnstein, owners of the Berkshire apartments at the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Fifty-second Street, have leased this property, through N. A. Berwin & Co., to Mandeltaum & Lewine, operators, for a term of sixty-three years.

The building is a ten-story fireproof apartment house on a plot fronting 100.10 on Madison Avenue by 95 feet on the street.

When the present leases expire the property will be thoroughly renovated and stores installed on both the Madison Avenue and Fifty-second Street frontage.

N. A. Berwin & Co. sold this property about five years ago to the present owners.

The Irving Judis Building Corporation sold to Adolphe Factor, an investor, the one-story taxpayer on the west side of Dyckman Street, between Nagle and Sherman Avenue, 100 feet south of Sherman Avenue, having a frontage of 200 by 150, containing eighteen stores. The property was held at $200,000, and shows an annual rental of $19,000. The purchaser is having plans prepared for a theatre 100 by 200 feet in the rear of the buildings. The transaction was for all cash above the mortgage. Volz & Maas were the brokers.

The same brokers sold for the Payson Avenue Developing Company to Daniel and Katherine O'Keefe 81 Payson Avenue, one of the two-family dwellings, with garage and chauffeur's quarters, 28 by 100, facing the new Inwood Park.

Realty Notes.

Pease & Elliman have sold in the new house, built from plans by J. E. R. Carpenter, at 1,000 Park Avenue, the northwest corner of Eighty-seventh Street, a suite to Edward Emerson.

Bracher & Hubert were the brokers in the recently reported sale of the four-story and basement dwelling at 270 West Seventy-third Street, by Anna B. Fullman to Leonore E. Ackerman.

A twelve-room and five-bath apartment has been sold to Leonard Vogel at 1,040 Park Avenue. This is the second apartment sold at this cooperative apartment house this week. Brown, Wheelock, Harris, Vought & Co., Inc., are the selling agents.

A fourteen-story house will be erected at Park Avenue and Seventy-fourth Street, and not fifteen stories, as reported.

Mortgage Loans Placed.

L. J. Phillips & Co. have placed a first mortgage of $125,000 on a two-story business building under construction at the southeast corner of West Burnside and Grand Avenues, Bronx, for the Clavins Realty Corporation; also a first mortgage of $85,000 on the five-story studio apartment house at 5 West Seventy-fifth Street.

Staten Island Auction.

Among the buyers at the recent sale of property at Castleton Hill, Staten Island, by Cornelius G. Kolff, Inc., auctioneers, were George A. Gilbert, who purchased two lots, E. O. Schutte, three lots, J. Leach, two lots, Frank J. Nettleton, three lots, and H. G. Bailey, two lots. The prices obtained were very satisfactory to the owners of the property.

Buy 80 St. Mark's Place.

Smith & Schmidt purchased 80 St. Mark's Place, and will spend $100,000 in alterations. The property was sold for the estate of John C. Ruff, through B. Metz & Co.

ESTIMATE COST $5,000,000

Another hotel will be added to the many buildings of this type which it is planned to erect on the west side. A lot 25 by 100.5 feet improved with a three-story building at 136 West Fiftieth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, was sold by the Siden Building Company, Inc., (Robert E. Simon) to Samuel Levy and George & William Backer. The deal, which was a resale of the property, was made by Byrne & Bowman.

The same brokers also negotiated the recent resale for J. Curry Watson to the same buyers of 138 to 144 West Fiftieth Street, adjoining, consisting of a two-story garage on a plot 75 by 100.5 feet.

The Levy-Backer interests also own 126 to 134 West Fiftieth Street, a plot 125 by 100.5 feet adjoining the newly acquired buildings, giving them a total plottage of 225 by 100.5, on which they are contemplating the erection of a sixteen-story hotel of the very latest type, at an estimated cost for the land and building of close to $5,000,000. The properties just acquired by the new owners were held at $300,000.

In this section the car barns embracing the entire block on Seventh Avenue, from Forty-ninth to Fiftieth Streets, have recently been sold. The Seventh Avenue frontage of the proposed Hotel Commonwealth site on the westerly side of Seventh Avenue from Fifty-fifth to Fifty-sixth Street, which was recently reported sold to Arthur Greenbaum, is to be improved immediately with a high class hotel. The Municipal Art Centre is also to be erected on Seventh Avenue, from Fifty-seventh to Fifty-eighth Street.

Apartment House Trading.

Nathan Wilson sold to the Woodbury G. Langdon Company, Inc., 704-790 Amsterdam Avenue, southwest corner of Ninety-ninth Street, a five-story and basement apartment on lot 40 by 80.2. William Cruikshank Sons were the brokers in the transaction. It was an all cash deal.

The four-family brick building 260 West 144th Street has been sold by Gustav Goldberger to Arnold Phillips. The broker was Wesseley B. Richards.

Joseph Caine & Co. sold for Kermit Realty Company, Inc. to F. K. F. Realty Corporation a five-story apartment house at 438 West 163d Street, on lot 25 by 112, having an annual rental of $6,960.

Plan West Side Apartment.

Work will be started soon on an eight-story apartment building to be built by George E. Coleman at 123 West Fifty-sixth Street on lot 20.10 by 100.10, now improved with a four-story flat. Plans are being prepared by Harold Berkmire, who estimates the cost at $175,000.

Duross Company sold for Max Nissman and Fannie Pivnik to Dr. William Overton, chiropactor, for his future home and office, 16 Morningside Avenue, opposite Morningside Park, a six-story elevator apartment house on plot 54 by 93 feet.

J. P. & L. A. Kissling sold for the estate of Henry L. Baumann, 805 Ninth Avenue, a five-story flat with two stores and accommodating ten families. The property rented for $5,000 and was held at $45,000.

I. & A. Goodman resold to Angelo Frasinetti the two five-story tenements at 76-78 Thompson Street. The J. D. Robilotto Company negotiated the sale. The property, which was held at $55,000, was bought two weeks ago through the same brokers.

CAR BARNS LEASED.

Property in West Harlem to Be Used as Garage.

The old car barn property at 637 to 649 West 125th Street, running through the block to 130th Street, has been leased by the Forty-second Street, Manhattanville & St. Nicholas Avenue Railroad Company for a term of twenty-one years to a new company represented by C. Eno at attorney.

The leasing interests, it is reported, will pay a net rental of $25,000 a year for the property, which covers a frontage of 135.9 feet on 125th Street and 125 feet on 130th Street, the easterly and westerly lines measuring 180 and 120 feet respectively.

Plans are being prepared for the alteration of the building into a garage.

Stores and Offices for West Side Residence.

The Ireland estate sold the four-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100, at 44 West Forty-seventh Street, held at $100,000. The same brokers also sold the adjoining building at 46 to George Bacher, Inc., and Isador Kemper. These buildings will be altered into stores and offices to meet the increased demand for space in this block. Butler & Baldwin were the brokers.

1. Apartments can be leased for one year with option of buying. If bought, the buyers receive a rebate equivalent to one-half the rent they paid as tenants.

2. Brown, Wheelock & Co. appraised for the Puritan Mtg. Co. the land on which this building is to be erected, and it is to be "put in" to the apartment owners at the exact price Brown, Wheelock & Co. say it is worth.

3. The mortgage, to be secured by this land and up-to-date elevator building, is to run 49 years without amortization and at the rate of 5% interest per annum.

4. A detached house, light and air on all four sides.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Pressure is low from the St. Lawrence Valley southwestward to New Mexico, with centres over Western Quebec, Kansas and Southern New Mexico. High pressure prevails off the South Atlantic coast, over Manitoba and on the North Pacific Coast.

During the last twenty-four hours showers and thunderstorms have occurred in the Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys, the lake region and at scattered points in the Gulf States. Temperatures have become somewhat warmer in the southern Plains States and the middle Mississippi Valley, and cooler weather has overspread the northern districts from the northern Plains States to the upper lake region.

The outlook is for unsettled weather with showers and thunderstorms Thursday in all districts east of the Mississippi River also on Friday in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, and for fair weather elsewhere. It will become somewhat cooler in the Ohio Valley and lower lake region Thursday and the weather will remain cool on Friday in northern districts.

NEW SHIP LAUNCHED.

The Blenville Will Ply Between Here and New Orleans.

According to a telegram received yesterday by the Todd Shipyards Corporation of 25 Broadway, the steamship Blenville constructed in the yard of the organization at Tacoma for the Southern Pacific Company's passenger service between New York and New Orleans, was launched yesterday morning. The vessel was named by Miss Dorothy R. Maxson, daughter of Captain C. P. Maxson, who will be the master of the Blenville when she comes round through the Panama Canal to New York, ready to enter the service in time for the tourist traffic to California next season.

The Benville is a single screw steamer of 7,000 tons deadweight, 445 feet long and 57 feet beam. She is an oil burner of 7,100 horsepower and will have an average speed of 16 knots. There are three passenger decks.

Three Vacation Ships each week

Eight Days $67 Shore Visits with Liberal Stopover and Side Trip Privileges

Rate increases slightly according to stateroom selected and number of days away from New York

NOWHERE else in the world is there a more satisfying short vacation—just the right combination of life at sea and ashore—plenty of congenial companionship all the way—quaint and unusual sights to give the atmosphere of a "foreign tour"—modern and up-to-date comforts—delicious food—exceptional service—ample range of stateroom accommodations.

Most Economical and Interesting Short Vacation Trip of the Season

Scenes of legend and beauty. Picturesque side trips. Interesting shore visits. Study the "log" and you will realize why this exceptional trip has won such wide popularity. Write or phone for reservations today.

EXPENSES

$67.00—on the eight day trip—includes transportation, all meals and minimum priced stateroom accommodations on steamers, in both directions; superior accommodations available at extra fares—according to location of room selected.

STOPOVERS and SIDE TRIPS

Although this tour is arranged to cover the uninterrupted itinerary for eight days as outlined, passengers may—at their own expense—extend the trip to quaint old St. Augustine with its Forts, old Slave Market, and striking Spanish architecture; to Seabreeze and Daytona Beaches; or to the beaches near Jacksonville; returning any time within 30 days.

RESERVATIONS

Write for illustrated folder of "Short Trips."

Miller Real Balloons put on quickly

1—A Miller Balloon Cord that may be put on your present rims without any wheel change.

2—A Miller Balloon Cord for smaller wheels put on with only a change of spokes and rims.

Call on any authorized Miller dealer to-day about putting Miller Balloons on your car at once.
